ARE FOUND IN ST. LOUIS

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Returns Home, but Mother Resists Brother's Plea.

Residents of Girard, Ill., are shocked at the elopement of Mrs. Sarah Turner and her 15-year-old daughter, Irene, with Oscar and Harry Saul, brothers. The men left wives and children behind, and Mrs. Turner deserted Melvin Turner, her husband, and a baby boy.

The elopers were overtaken Sunday night in St. Louis by Edward Seaton, a brother of Mrs. Turner, and Irene was persuaded to return to Girard. Mrs. Turner was deaf to her brother's entreaties. A Girard Constable is now searching for her and the brothers in St. Louis and surrounding towns.

Girard is 74 miles northeast of St. Louis on the Chicago & Alton Railroad. The Illinois Traction system also enters the town, which has about 2500 inhabitants. The Saul brothers are liverymen. Oscar is 38 years old and Harry is 23.

Mrs. Turner is 35 years old. Her husband is a traveling salesman and was in Riverton, Ill., Saturday. He found he would not be able to return to Girard to spend Sunday, and told his wife over the long-distance telephone to bring their two children to him at Riverton. He telegraphed her $6 for carfare, and she told him he might expect her.

Planned to Meet in St. Louis.

At 10:30 p. m. Saturday Oscar Saul and Mrs. Turner boarded an Interurban car at Girard for St. Louis. Harry Saul and Irene Turner were more cautious. They walked four miles to Nilwood, a station southwest of Girard, and boarded a car there. The plan was for the couples to be reunited in St. Louis.

Harry Saul had his trunk checked to the Union Station in St. Louis, and in this way Seaton learned his destination. He caught an early Sunday car to St. Louis, after telegraphing to Chief Creecy the names of the couples, asking that they be arrested.

On arriving in St. Louis, Seaton appealed to Chief of Detectives Smith, who assigned Detectives Howard and McKenna to go to the Union Station with him. At the station they found all four of the elopers.

Seaton begged his sister to return with him to her husband, promising Turner's forgiveness, and urging the disgrace she was bringing on her husband and children, but she was obdurate. The girl was more easily moved, and consented in tears to go back home.

Warrants Are Issued.

Seaton told the detectives he was chiefly concerned about his niece, and would not molest the others if she returned with him.

They reached Girard at 11 p. m. Sunday, and the girl was taken to the home of her father, who had left Riverton when he heard of the double elopement.

When Turner learned that Seaton had not caused Mrs. Turner's arrest, he was indignant, and at once swore out a warrant for her. The wives of the Saul brothers also swore out warrants, and Constable Bogart, armed with these papers, reached St. Louis Monday.

At the Union Station Bogart found that Oscar Saul had checked his trunk to St. Charles, and he started thither in the hope that he might find the brothers and Mrs. Turner there.

The Sauls and the Turner family are widely known in Girard and through the surrounding country, and the elopement created astonishment. Irene Turner, who is also known as Rena, is a blond, well-developed for her age, and has been much admired in the younger set of the town.

GHOST SEEKS POLICE JOB?

Weird Sounds Heard on Upper Floor of Four Courts.

The old story about ghosts inhabiting the third floor of the Four Courts was revived Sunday night when Mrs. Nelson, the night police matron, telephoned to the Central District Station that she heard footsteps in the dormitory set aside for juniors.

Patrolman James Dixon climbed the stairs to the third floor and made a search for the cause of the footsteps. He found an old hat and coat in one of the jury rooms and thought he had a clew to a mystery until it was learned that the garments belonged to one of the janitors.

Years ago it was reported that weird sounds were to be heard on the third floor every night. Mrs. Harris, a former matron, insisted that ghosts were prowling about. Although Policeman Dixon was unable to find any cause for the sound heard by Mrs. Nelson Sunday night she maintains that the footsteps were distinct.

DREAMS TO AID THIEF CATCHERS

Woman Saw Stolen Watch in Trunk Bottom.

Mrs. E. Smith of 3676 Olive street, who on April 25 reported the theft of a gold watch from her apartments called at detective headquarters Monday morning, greatly excited.

"Have you found my watch?" she asked of Assistant Chief McCarthy.

"Not yet," he replied.

"Well, I have a clew," she said.

"What is it?"

"I know where my watch can be found."

"Good. Where is it?"

"It's at the bottom of a trunk covered with packages of letters."

"Where is the trunk?"

"I don't know."

McCarthy looked puzzled.

"How do you know it's in a trunk?"

"Mrs. —, a friend of mine, had a dream last night, and in it she saw my watch. She saw it just as plain as could be. It was in a large square trunk. In the bottom of the trunk were a lot of letters and the watch was under the letters. Mrs. — could not be mistaken, because she has seen my watch many times and could identify it easily. She described it to me perfectly."

"But you have no idea where the trunk is?"

"I have not."

"Well, we'll try to find it."

STONE'S HOMER NO HIT WITH TEACHER

She Commended Pupil's Sentence but Punished His Guffaw.

Jake Levy, as becomes a boy who sells the Post-Dispatch, has a grownup's interest in current events. Though only 10 years old, he has developed so far beyond his fellow pupils at the Patrick Henry School at Tenth and O'Fallon streets that, when told to write sentences illustrating the rules of grammar, he despises as too infantile the subjects of the rat, or the cat, the dog, or the mat, which ages of use in grammar school readers have rendered hallowed and hackneyed.

So, when Miss Mary Nolan, his teacher, asked him Friday to write a sentence illustrating the use of the comma and period, he decided to write something original and up-to-date.

The subject which came naturally to his mind was an achievement closely connected with the Post-Dispatch Weather Bird, for hitting which a great batter recently received a reward. So he wrote:

"George Stone, who hit a home run, got $10."

"Perfectly correct," said Miss Nolan, "and a very bright sentence."

But unfortunately for Jake, he, like other great spirits, has too lively a sense of his own merit. As he walked to his seat, reflecting on the excellence of his sentence, he would not repress an appreciative guffaw.

"As I said before," Miss Nolan remarked, now with severity, "your sentence, Jake, is correct and bright. But that audible grin of yours is all wrong. You may remain after school."

BRYAN'S DOUBLE MISSING.

When Powers Was Last Seen He Had Checks With Him.

The police have been requested to look for Mathew J. Powers, 40 years old, of Erie, Pa., who is described as a double of William Jennings Bryan. He disappeared from the Madison Hotel April 29.

George L. Hastings, traveling representative of a heating concern in Cleveland, says Powers had checks and valuable papers in his possession when he left the hotel. Hastings is stopping at the Southern Hotel, and has asked permission to open Powers' trunk in an effort to find papers which he claims are of value to the firm by whom he is employed.

Powers came to St. Louis to superintend the installing of heating apparatus in North St. Louis, and the checks which he is said to have in his possession were intended for the men under him.

Hastings fears Powers has met with foul play.

ENDS LIFE AND SHAME.

Driven From Street by Police, Girl Kills Herself.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 6.—Despondent because she was unable to earn a living honestly, Eva Bellorato, aged 18, formerly of St. Louis, committed suicide by taking morphine in a house of ill fame here Sunday. She has relatives in St. Louis named Eddows, but their address is unknown. The police are trying to find the relatives. The body is held pending instructions from her kin.

Five years ago Eva Bellorato came to Memphis from St. Louis. She sold papers on the streets here for a year and soon became one of the most familiar figures of the business district.

The police ordered all girls to cease selling papers on the streets. Eva was the last to abandon the trade. For a time she worked in a factory; then she drifted about until finally she entered the place where she died.

FOLLOWS FISH INTO RIVER.

Man Recaptures Prize After a Long Swim.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEAFORD, Del., May 6.—Rather than lose an immense sturgeon, which he had just purchased, John Shear of Seaford jumped into the Naticoke River after the huge fish when it flopped overboard today. He went down with the sturgeon, and when man and fish came to the surface they swam together. Shear called a number of men to come to his aid and also yelled to them that he would swim across the river if necessary to save the fish. After a fierce battle, the owner, aided by several men, landed the prize.

Shear bought the fish from James Bennett, who caught it. The strangest part of it all is that the sturgeon was actually cut open by Bennett to show Shear that it contained roe. It was then that the fish tried to escape. The affair is vouched for by a number of witnesses.

COOLER TONIGHT, FAIR TUESDAY

Forecaster Sees End of Big Hainstorm.

THE TEMPERATURE.

8 a. m.	49	10 a. m.	50
9 a. m.	49	11 a. m.	51
10 a. m.	50	Noon	52
9 a. m.	49

It is now the impression at the Weather Bureau that poor May has been kidnaped. Attention is called to the fact that she is naturally green, and coming to a big city like St. Louis is supposed to have met someone who took advantage of her ignorance and greenness. This is the result of the forecaster's attempts to find her:

"Showers and cooler tonight; Tuesday fair; variable winds."

St. Louis, however, is not alone in this quest. She seems to have disappeared entirely and nobody has been able to locate her any place, as the following temperatures from other cities show:

New Orleans, 72; Buffalo, 42; Tacoma, 44; San Francisco, 50; Los Angeles, 52; Kansas City, 46; Memphis, 58; Pittsburg, 56; Washington, 56; Chicago, 46; New York, 48; Boston, 46; Jacksonville, Fla., 74; Omaha, 46; Salt Lake, 44; Denver, 32.

HUGHES SIGNS PAGE BILL.

New Child Labor Law Effective Jan. 1, 1908.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 6.—Gov. Hughes has approved the Page child labor bill, desired by the Child Labor Committees and the Consumers' League. It provides that no minor under 16 years of age shall be employed or permitted to work in any factory in this State before 8 a. m. or after 5 p. m., or more than 8 hours in any one day. The permitted hours are now 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. and a 9-hour day is permitted. The act will not take effect until Jan. 1, 1908.

TO GET "BEER MONEY" BOY SLEW WOMAN

John Stapp Admits Robbery Was Purpose in Stabbing Mrs. Kraus.

TOLD MANY OF CRIME

Woman Says Neighbors of Mrs. Kraus Knew All About Her Death.

John Stapp, who says he is less than 16 years old, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday that he stabbed and killed Mrs. Tillie Kraus, wife of a grocer at 3362 South Broadway because his $9 a week salary was not sufficient for his needs and he wanted more money to spend at the summer gardens.

Stapp looks older than the 15 years he claims. His only sign of feeling since his arrest was shown Monday when he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"I guess I'm in pretty bad."

He has dark hair and very heavy dark eyebrows, which almost meet in the center. His brown eyes are shifty, and they never meet the gaze of a questioner. His statements are made hesitatingly and in a tone little above a whisper.

"I wanted some money," said he. "I've been working as a teamster for $9 a week. My mother has four children besides me, but I didn't turn much of my money in at home. I like to have a good time and I wanted something to spend at the summer gardens.

"I don't know just why I stabbed Mrs. Kraus. I got her by the neck first. I just wanted to rob her, that's all. I don't think I could have got the best of her if I hadn't used the knife. She didn't struggle much, but she was pretty strong.

Beer Made Him Feel "Funny."

"I drank some beer before I went there. Not much, but enough to make me feel funny. I got it from a saloon at Kosciusko and Cherokee streets. A bigger boy went in for it and we drank it in the yard back of the saloon."

The outcome of the inquest will go far in determining in what court the boy shall be tried. The final decision on this point will be made by Judge Williams of the Juvenile Court, who now has the question under advisement.

Judge Williams of the Juvenile Court said, Monday:

"Stapp will be tried in the Juvenile Court, whatever the charge in the information against him may be."

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Kraus was halted Monday because of the startling statement of a witness, Mrs. Mary Melcher, of 3361 South Second street.

Talked of Crime in Saloon.

She said that Stapp went to Schallert's saloon at Second and De Kalb streets and washed the blood from his hands. While there, according to her testimony, Stapp told of the stabbing and upbraided Alfer Meyer of 3406 Cherokee street for failing to keep an alleged agreement by which they were to act together in robbing Mrs. Kraus.

Deputy Coroner Lloyd regarded her testimony as so important that he continued the inquest until 9 a. m. Tuesday and instructed the police to bring in Meyer and all of those who heard the saloon conversation or talked about it before Stapp's arrest.

According to Mrs. Melcher, young Stapp, at the time Mrs. Kraus lay fatally wounded, was standing at the washstand in the saloon talking freely of the deed which he had just committed.

The proprietor of the saloon is a brother of Fred Schallert, whose wife is Stapp's sister. From the saloon Stapp went to the home of Fred Schallert, where he was arrested the next day.

The Coroner believes that Stapp was shielded and that there may be grounds for the arrest of certain persons as accessories to the murder. Mrs. Melcher has promised to tell the names of those who spoke to her of the crime a short time after it was committed.

She says that she saw Stapp across a vacant lot about 12:10 p. m. Wednesday. She noticed that his hands were bloody and she saw him enter Schallert's saloon.

At the inquest an unusual effort was made to determine whether there was a motive other than robbery. Nothing was brought out except that Mrs. Kraus had known young Stapp for several years and that he frequently made purchases at the store for his mother. He was in the store half an hour before the stabbing, but remained there only a few minutes.

Asked for Brick Cheese.

He had his mother's credit book with him, but Mrs. Kraus told him that he would have to pay cash.

When he returned the second time he asked for a dime's worth of brick cheese and showed Mrs. Kraus the money. She cut the cheese, wrapped it and was handing it to him when he caught her by the neck, pulled her toward him and plunged the knife into her left side. It penetrated to the abdominal cavity. She died two days later at the Lutheran Hospital.

CITY POPULATION IS 704,953 ACCORDING TO COUNT OF POLICE

ERRORS FOUND; REVISION MAY MAKE TOTAL 750,000

Official Announcement of Reports Turned Over to Secretary Karbe by Chief Creecy Is Withheld Until Wednesday for Verification and Correction—Two Districts Taken Over.

Various Population Figures

Last Federal census (1900)	575,253
Police count	704,953
Directory estimate	731,990
Million Club estimate, at least	750,000

It was stated by a police official at the Four Courts Monday afternoon that the completed returns from the 13 police districts showed the total population of St. Louis to be 704,953, according to the police tabulation.

This total includes revised figures from the Fourth and Fifth districts, the original returns from these districts being unsatisfactory to Chief of Police Creecy.

This is not the official announcement of the Million Club as to the population of St. Louis, merely the totals that have been turned over to Secretary Karbe of that club by the police.

Karbe and his clerks are still checking up the police returns. President Wenneker of the Million Club says that in checking over the returns Sunday of the districts then in, the Million Club's clerks found a few errors, which will increase the total of the police. He said Monday that from what he had seen of the returns 750,000 would be a conservative estimate.

Count Is Reliable.

Chief of Police Creecy said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "The count made by the members of the department is reliable. We carried out the instructions of the Million Club to the letter. Some mistakes were made on the first canvass, but these were all corrected. The figures sent to the Million Club show an accurate count of the persons in every district, every beat and every block in St. Louis. I will stand by those returns, because I know they are all right."

Wenneker Says 800,000.

President Wenneker of the Million Club said Monday that in his opinion the club's recount of the police census will show the population of St. Louis to be more than 750,000 and possibly 800,000.

The result will not be officially announced until Wednesday afternoon. Meanwhile a force of clerks, under the direction of Otto F. Karbe, secretary of the club, will complete the canvass of the police returns.

Mr. Wenneker says he believes the police census will be as accurate a count of the population of St. Louis as can be made.

"While we discovered a few mistakes in addition in some of the police reports," he said Monday, "the large majority of reports were so correctly tabulated and presented in such business-like shape as to be a revelation to me. The penmanship of the individual policemen and their accurate tabulation convinced me that we have a better police force than I had any reason to believe. While it may be true that the police did not get the number of inhabitants from every individual house in the city, I believe they did the work very correctly, because they were able to get the number of occupants of some houses they may not have visited from the occupants of the adjoining houses."

BROKE HIS HEAD, BROKE UP PLAY

Actor Fell While Waiting His Cue and Interrupted "Mother's" Plea.

The usually impressive climax of "Human Hearts," played by a company of St. Louis amateurs at Edwardsville Saturday night, was brought to an unexpected and ludicrous conclusion when the hero, who was supposed to be in the penitentiary, fell down a stairway onto the stage, while his "mother" was pleading with "the governor" for his pardon.

The performance was rendered by the Vendale Stock company, and a young man said to be Fred Babka of St. Louis, played "Tom Logan," the village blacksmith and hero of the drama. Everything had gone smoothly. "Tom Logan's New York heiress wife had met her old sweetheart, and together they had plotted to kill "Tom." The conspirators, in endeavoring to waylay "Tom," slay the latter's father, and "Tom" is sent to prison for life.

In the last act "Tom's" mother comes into the Governor's office with many sniffles and a bunch of yellow roses. Both the sniffles and the roses are used with telling effect on the Governor.

"Give muh back me chee—ee—ild!" cries the mother, pushing the yellow roses into the hands of the bewhiskered Governor. The Governor looks upon the roses as a fair exchange for Tom and says: "Muh heart bleeds for yuh. A mother's love has touched muh. You shall have your chee—ee—ild."

The Governor was about to thus extend clemency when there was a terrific clatter at the rear of the stage. Fred Babka, the "Tom" of the performance, was seen to tumble headlong down the flight of stairs leading to the Governor's office. He struck the floor with a great crash.

The audience did not know at first just why "Tom" had come. A few thought he had escaped from prison to plead his own case, but as he carried no yellow roses that theory was abandoned. Others thought perhaps he was going to assassinate the Governor and start a revolution. But all realized their mistake when the Governor and Tom's mother both rushed up to him and assisted him to leave the stage.

The truth was "Tom" had been waiting in the wings for his cue to go on for the weepy-joyful pardon scene. He made a misstep and broke up the show, as well as his own head. Their was a gash in the back of the scalp which a surgeon dressed.

TAKE A CHEW, YOU MAY FIND DIAMOND

That Happened to Arkansas Man Who Bit Plug of St. Louis Tobacco.

The tobacco chewer, after years of contention with public opinion, has at last come into his own. A man in Ashdown, Ark., took out a fat new plug of navy last Saturday, bit it, felt something hard between his teeth, made an examination and discovered a fine diamond weighing a carat and a half.

The glad word was flashed over the country in press dispatches, the peculiarly interesting information being added that the tobacco was manufactured in St. Louis.

This was the first intimation that had gone abroad that the girls who stem the tobacco and the other workers wear glittering gems. The story conjured up visions of a tobacco factory furnished in princely luxury, all agleam with diamonds in the hair, at the throats and on the fingers of elegantly gowned women, while the studs and pins of the men, stately in their frock coats, were dazzling.

At the local tobacco factories this was denied, but, unless diamonds are so common that they fall from the persons of the tobacco workers, how could one have found its way into the plug which Homer Turner bit?

Not An Advertisement.

The management admitted that the gem was not placed in the Arkansas plug by design as an advertisement, which added strength to the suspicion that tobacco workers had a corner on the world's gems. Some persons are inclined to think that when the facte operates at night there is no electric light used. The workers are illuminated by the bright glare of their own jewelry. This could not be confirmed on inquiry at the electric light plant, however.

DON'T LOOK! STATUES MUST BE DRESSED

Police Court Prosecutor Would Put Skirts on Venus, Pants on Apollo.

THINKS THEM IMMODEST

Says Same Law Should Apply in Art Museum as in Market Street Shows.

City Attorney Anderson has thrown himself into the breach as the Anthony Comstock of St. Louis. He announces his intention to make an effort to protect residents of this city from possible moral contagion, and to do so he will appeal to the Municipal Code—Section 1438, Chapter 18.

Mr. Anderson visited the Museum of Fine Arts in Forest Park Sunday, and he says that he was inexpressibly shocked by the sights he saw. The nude statues on view there appalled him, and he reached his office Monday morning, ready to begin the battle for purity.

"I shall write to Dr. WJ McGee and to Halsey C. Ives," said Mr. Anderson to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "and tell them that unless certain statues in the Art Museum are draped I will get out a summons for them and make them explain in court.

"Section 1438, Chapter 18, of the Revised Municipal Code, is my authority for the action. This is the ordinance under which various proprietors of penny-in-the-slot machines have recently been fined for displaying improper pictures. The ordinance makes no discriminations, and it is no more right for improper pictures, statues and other representations to be displayed in the Art Museum than in places downtown."

Must Have Trousers or Skirts.

"To what particular statues did you object?" asked the reporter.

"I do not know their names," replied Mr. Anderson. "Indeed, I do not know if they have names. I know nothing about such matters. But there are about twenty statues in the museum that to my mind are contrary to the law and their public exhibition is calculated to have a bad effect on public morals. Most of these statues are brass."

"Bronze," suggested the reporter.

"Well, bronze," said Mr. Anderson. "But they are indecent and unless they are properly draped with trousers or skirts, I shall try to prevent their exhibition in public."

"Did you see any paintings that were objectionable?"

"No. I looked over the pictures, and they appeared to be all right. But those statues are awful. They need clothing."

Dr. WJ McGee is the director of the St. Louis Public Museum. He has nothing to do with the Museum of Fine Arts. Halsey C. Ives is the director of the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts, and as such is one of the men at whom Mr. Anderson will have to direct his legal broadsides. When he was told of the impending trouble, he said:

"Those statues have been on exhibition in St. Louis for 30 years, and, during that time they have not brought a blush to the cheek of any woman who has seen them, so far as I know. At any rate we have had no complaint on the subject.

"The first thing that the promoters of an art museum do is to get a collection of reproductions of antique statuary. We have such a collection—a very fine one. It is in no way unlike such collections as may be found in any art museum in the world. To be sure, the finest statues represent the human form in a state of nature. Whether or not it is objectionable depends largely on the individual.

"I do not believe that any competent art critic would find fault with the statues we have. Just now the collection is being transferred from the old museum to the new building, and it is possible that a few fig leaves have been broken off. If this is the case, the damage will be repaired.

"I shall not buy clothing for the statues until ordered to do so by a court. Of course I do not wish to violate any law, and if a court decides that those statues need trousers or skirts, the statues will have them or they will be taken off their pedestals and no longer be displayed for the inspection of visitors at the Art Museum."

Big Partition Sales.

The sale of five pieces of real estate Monday morning attracted an unusually large number of bidders to the east Courthouse steps, where the property was cried by Henry L. Sutton, auctioneer, under the direction of Charles F. A. Mueller, special commissioner in the partition suit of Mary S. Butler-Whiting et al. against Wyatt Shallcross et al., involving the E. G. Gay estate.

The property sold was: Nos. 6 to 16 North Second street, 104½ feet, six four-story brick buildings, to John M. Wuiling, for $60,000; No. 117 North Second street, 23 feet 9 inches front, four-story brick, to Chris Prior for a client for $35; Nos. 114 and 116 South Fourth street, 31 feet, six-story brick, to Wyatt Shallcross, for $38,000; No. 1520 Locust, three-story brick, to Shallcross, for $49,500; northwest corner Goodfellow avenue and Suburban tracks, 153 feet, to Shallcross, for $42,050.

Funeral of John Snay.

The body of John Snay, for many years a resident of Carondelet, was brought to St. Louis Monday from Knobview, Mo., where he died Friday, for interment in Calvary Cemetery Monday afternoon. Snay was a sergeant in Company E, First Missouri Cavalry, and a member of Gareselle Post, G. A. R. He had not lived in St. Louis for several years. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Louise Snay, and eight children: Edward J. Snay and Mrs. Allee Cammack of Knobview, and Peter, Joseph, George and Cornelius Snay, Mrs. Emily Anderson and Mrs. Johanna Davis of St. Louis. The funeral will be held from L. Spelbrink's undertaking rooms, 1321 Franklin avenue.

Trolley Jerker Fined $10.

Fred Owens, charged with jerking an Olive car trolley from the wire at Eighteenth street last Tuesday and with threatening the life of the conductor, was fined $10 and costs in the City Hall Police Court Monday. Conductor Small of 6180 Etzel avenue testified Owens pulled the trolley from the overhead, throwing the car into darkness and that when he asked for explanation the latter cursed him with a knife. He fled before Policeman Small, who fired nine shots. Owens was arrested four hours later at his home. He pleaded that he had only jerked the trolley loose

WHAT ST. LOUIS WOMEN THINK OF DRAPING STATUES

May Withdraw Gift.

MRS. OTTO E. FORSTER: Ridiculous! I hardly think Mr. Anderson's expressed desire can be true. If so, and if he succeeds in draping statues at the Forest Park Museum, I shall certainly reconsider my plan to present to the museum this spring the now famous Ruckstuhl statue "Evening," which has for ten years been in the Metropolitan Museum in New York. As Ruckstuhl is a St. Louis sculptor, I had every intention of giving the museum here the statue, which is a beautiful nude. But this preposterous idea of clothing nude figures makes me waver considerably.

"Drapery is Absurd."

MRS. PHILIP NORTH MOORE: Art has never been draped (hearty laugh). It cannot be draped. Art is a study of nature in its most beautiful form. To speak of drapery is absurd.

Will Be Unpleasant.

MRS. ROLLA WELLS: I don't approve of Mr. Anderson's idea at all. No, indeed. When visitors to the Art Museum see bronze statues draped, it will certainly call attention to them in a highly unpleasant manner.

If Shocked, Stay Away.

MISS FLORENCE HAYWARD: "Absurd!

"If Mr. Anderson is so shocked at the statuary he sees in the Museum he would better stay away.

"If people are going to balance their sense of high morality with their love of art, then they will have to let the art go."

"Silliest Thing Ever."

MRS. HUDSON E. BRIDGE: "Oh, how silly! The silliest thing I ever heard of! The silliest thing drawing attention to the very things they want to avoid. I will say again, I never heard of anything so ridiculous."

Best Statues Undraped.

MRS. PERRY BARTHOLOW: I think it is very foolish. All the best statuary in the world is practically nude. There is nothing immodest in a nude statue. If there were anything immodest about a nude statue, draping it would only make it the more conspicuous.

Depends on Artist's Intent.

MRS. FRED GARDNER: O, I think that is very funny—so amusing. No, I think there is nothing at all immodest in an undraped statue, and I stand with every artist in the world in this opinion. It is the intention of the artist that gives the work its meaning.

Extremely Foolish.

MRS. FRED CRUNDEN: I think it is extremely foolish. Anything else I might think, I should not care to say for publication.

Would Stimulate Imagination.

MRS. ARTHUR GALE: Oh, nonsense! It is the most preposterous thing I ever heard of! I certainly think there is nothing immodest in an undraped statue. Artificial draperies would only stimulate the imagination. I am sure all the Art Institute women think with me that it is nonsense.

WOMAN JUMPS TO ESCAPE FLAMES

Mrs. Kindermann Falls Fourteen Feet and Breaks Two of Her Ribs.

FIRE STARTED IN KITCHEN

Escape of Those Sleeping Upstairs Shut Off by Flames and Smoke.

After the two children and their father had been safely rescued from a second-story window of a tenement at 2713 North Tenth street, Monday, at 4 a. m., Mrs. Geraldine Kindermann, the mother, fearful of the flames leaping up the stairway behind her, jumped 14 feet to the ground. She fell on a brick pavement on her right side, fracturing two ribs.

The fire was discovered by John Kindermann, aged 12, who went from his bedroom on the second floor to the kitchen to get a drink of water. As he opened the kitchen door the flames burst out, driving him back. At the same time the fire caught lace curtains at the entrance of the first-floor bedroom, where William and Gus Kindermann, 21 and 18 years old respectively, were sleeping.

With a cry of "Fire," John dashed back upstairs to notify his parents and his brother George, 16 years old. All were asleep in the front room. By the time they had been aroused, the room was filled with smoke and the flames had cut off the exit by the stairway, leading from the rear of the room directly to the kitchen door.

Jumped From Window.

William and Gus in the meantime had run to the street and were calling to those upstairs to jump from the windows. The two younger boys and the father went to the window on the south. Mrs. Kindermann crawled over the bed on which she had been sleeping and crouched on the ledge of the other window. The boys, John and then George, hung by their fingers from the ledge and dropped into the arms of William, below. The father, Charles E. Kindermann, followed. He fell, but was unhurt.

Mrs. Kindermann, clad only in her night garments, leaned farther and farther out of the other window as the heat of the flames increased, scorching the ledge and the shutter to which she clung. William Kindermann called to her to jump into his arms, but she was too frightened to obey. Firemen had just arrived and were preparing to raise a ladder when the woman, leaning forward in a crouching posture, released her hold and fell.

Her husband carried her to the home of a neighbor two doors north, where she was treated by Dr. H. L. Welterer of 1108 St. Louis avenue. None of the others in the house was injured.

Furniture is Destroyed.

Mrs. Kindermann is 32 years old and weighs 200 pounds. Her husband is a plasterer. All of the children except the youngest are the offspring of a former marriage of the husband. William, the oldest, is a teamster for a contractor at 1521 North Broadway.

The origin of the fire was not determined. Practically all of the household furniture was destroyed, causing a loss of $500, according to Kindermann's estimate. The building, belonging to Albert G. Blanke of 803 Chestnut street, was damaged $250. The loss on both furniture and building is covered by insurance.

Members of the family of Richard Callahan, one door north, were driven from their beds by the smoke which went through the wall between the two residences.

Auto Rides for Orphans.

At the annual meeting of the Automobile Club, to be held at the St. Louis Club, Monday night, a new board of directors will be chosen and other business arranged. Arrangements for Orphans' Day, June 12, when all orphans will be taken to the country in automobiles, will be made.

MANUAL VIOLATED BY CHIEF SMITH

IS ASKED TO EXPLAIN

Police Authority Says Failure to Report Makes Position Grave.

Chief of Detectives Smith was guilty of a violation of the police manual, according to an authority at the Four Courts, in his failure to report to headquarters his visit to the plant of the St. Louis Car Co., which led employes there to file charges of "sweatbox" methods in obtaining confessions of thefts of gold leaf from the plant.

This authority, who is of high rank in police circles, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that charges against Chief Smith, if preferred, would be based on the failure to report rather than on the complaints of "sweating."

"Until newspapers printed statements of the visit to the car plant," he said, "officials at police headquarters knew nothing about it. He should have reported to his superiors. His failure to do so makes his position grave."

Chief Smith and four detectives went to the plant at 8100 North Broadway, April 27, at the request of George J. Kobusch, president of the company. A pawnbroker to whom gold leaf stolen from the plant had been sold, accompanied them.

Visit Results in Confessions.

As a result of this visit, 15 employes confessed that they had been taking the gold leaf. They excused themselves on the ground that it had been the custom for 20 years to keep whatever gold leaf was left on a spool or in a package after work was done.

An affidavit filed Saturday by these men declares that Chief Smith had used his official time and irregular methods in behalf of the car company and that with the written confessions President Kobusch tried to frighten the men into accepting their present salaries and hours instead of striking for shorter hours at the same wages. The employes struck May 1, demanding a nine-hour day. They had been working 10½ hours.

Chief Smith declines to discuss these charges. He was asked Monday by Chief Creecy to submit a written statement of his actions at the plant, and at once began dictating it to a stenographer. He said he would not make this statement public.

BROKE JAIL DURING PRAYER.

Russian Prisoner Liberated While Priest Said Mass.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 6.—A plot which resulted in the liberation of 13 political prisoners was daringly executed at Alexandravaka, near Ekaterinoslav yesterday during the Easter services at the prison. While high mass was being celebrated in the prison chapel a band of revolutionists entered the building, killed the chief inspector and exploded two bombs. Under cover of the confusion which followed, 13 political prisoners, including several important terrorists, escaped.

The Easter holidays otherwise passed quietly. No manifestation of anti-Jewish feeling was reported from any point in the Empire. Dispatches from various cities announce the customary pardoning of minor offenders at Easter.

HUMBUG, CRIES PASTOR HARMON AT MRS. EDDY

"Sam Jones of East St. Louis" Attacks Christian Science Leader.

SAYS SHE DENIES BIBLE

Money "Real" to Her, He Declares, If Sin and Disease Are Not.

East St. Louis religious circles are aroused over an article by Rev. J. F. Harmon, pastor of the First M. E. Church of East St. Louis, which appeared Saturday in the Advocate, a publication in the interests of Methodism in East St. Louis. The article is entitled "Bugs and Humbugs," and is an attack on Mrs. Mary Baker G Eddy and Christian Science.

Pastor Harmon, by his witty and forceful sermons and writings, has won the title of "The East St. Louis Sam Jones." He has built up the largest congregation in East St. Louis, and a Sunday school said to be the largest in Illinois.

The article is introduced with a note by the editor at the top of the page, saying:

"We are compelled to omit the schedule of services of the various churches this week, to make room for important reading matter."

Pastor Harmon opens the article with this song and prayer:

Song (quoted)—

"The lightning bug is brilliant,
But it hasn't any mind;
It scrambles through existence,
With its headlight on behind."

Prayer. "We most humbly and sincerely pray that if our present brain power cannot distinguish a bug from a humbug, and said brain matter be here and now paralyzed. Amen."

The article then continues:

"Once, yea thrice, have I heard that 'A lie will travel around the world while the truth is pulling his boots on.' This is true when truth has corns on his toes. Humbug and lie are double cousins. Never knew either of them to have a corn or bunion on heel or toe to retard his speed. Never knew either of them to stay in swaddling clothes three minutes after he was swaddled. The self-same hour they are born, knowing that their days are few and full of evil, they hustle, and at once begin to circulate around among their friends and relatives.

"Humbug is not robed in humility, neither can he be found browsing around on the under side of a leaf, but sits a king bug on the topmost twig.

Goddess of New Religion.

"Humbug is never little—no never. He is a big—always something great—a god, a semi-god, a spirit, an Elijah, a John the Baptist, one of seven spirits, a Mother Mary, a mother god, or something else big and great that can step high and work wonders for so many plunks per pound. The plunks are to pay the freight on humbug's greatness, which has just arrived.

"Humbug always has something new in which he himself figures as the central character. He toots his own horn, toots it long and loud, and says, 'Don't you hear it thunder?' The crop of humbugs never fails. Neither floods, drouth, chinch bugs, army worms nor frost can affect the late crop. It goes right on sprouting, budding and blooming through all seasons and centuries.

"It has come to pass in these later days, in the second reign of Teddy the Fearless, that we come face to face with a great female man—Mrs. Mary A. M. Baker-Glover-Patterson-Eddy, the goddess of a new religion.

"She plays second fiddle to none, but puts herself in the leading character in her comical little play. She walks as boldly in as Mother Goose of old, slaps the devil over, winds him up and sticks him away in one of her unused pigeon holes, then digs up hell, sows it down in blue grass and boldly proclaims to her gaping followers that there is neither devil nor hell. Brave! Two more dangerous batteries past, and colors still flying.

"Next she stretches out her wand and announces that there is no sin—that announcement will be thankfully received by Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold—no pain, aches, colic, boils, warts, freckles, measles, smallpox, bone spavin, baldheads, toothless gums, nightmare—no sickness of any kind, let it be known forever. Her next assault is on death and graveyards. She uproots them both and throws them into the alley, and then quietly announces that there is no death, no graveyards.

"She declares that there is no matter, no material, no graveyards, no fence posts, no hitching racks, no coffee pots, no houses, nothing material—in a business way, there is nothing of you to feed, clothe or bother with.

No Matter Except Money.

"Absolutely no matter on earth. No, none, except $300 for seven brief lessons, which she charges those who want to get next, and $5 each for her books, and some fifteen or twenty million dollars, which she has picked up from her intelligent followers after she convinced them that there was no matter. She probably picked it up to show Dowie that he wasn't the only pebble on the beach.

"She next pays her respects to the God of the Bible by quoting from Bob Ingersoll, without quotation marks, by declaring that 'The Jewish tribal Jehovah was a man-protected God.' She then disposes of the Bible by contradicting nearly every page from Genesis to Revelation, and gives God the lie so often that we stand amazed. She then writes a Bible for her followers.

When the papers reached the subscribers Saturday this article was begun to be discussed throughout the city. Sunday it was the topic of conversation in the congregations of all churches. Christian Science followers refused Monday to issue a statement or to discuss the statement for publication.

East St. Louis has quite a congregation of Christian Scientists, among the converts being several well known people. Plans for a $15,000 church have been drawn.

Isn't Through With Subject.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Rev. Mr. Harmon said:

"I wrote four articles along that line and then tore up the manuscripts. Finally that article got loose because I could hold it no longer. When I find hypocrisy, sin or humbug, I cannot resist the temptation to cry out.

"I have read Mrs. Eddy's book from cover to cover many times, and the thumbmarks prove it. I can quote any of her formulas for curing diseases or sin, which she claims do not exist. When I was sick and on a bed of pain and had to be away from my ministerial duties for a year, followers of Christian Science visited me and urged me to accept their teachings. I listened to them, but when they tried to explain to me that there was no sickness, no pain, no sin, no wickedness, in fact, nothing material on earth, I balked and they had an argument on their hands mighty quick.

"I have not said all I intend to say on this subject."

ELLEN TERRY NOW MRS. JAMES CAREW

March Marriage to Leading Man Announced in New York.

TERRY SAILS FOR LONDON

Carew Supported Her in St. Louis Engagement Last February.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Ellen Terry, the English actress, who won her laurels as a co-star with the late Sir Henry Irving, has, according to James Carew, taken him for her husband. He was her leading man during the recent American tour of Miss Terry, which was closed on Friday night last at New Haven. He announced the nuptials late last night at the Hotel Grenobla, Fifty-sixth street and Broadway.

Miss Terry was 59 years old in February last. Carew owned last night to 32, and he looks even younger.

It appears from the story that Carew told that he and Miss Terry had kept their marriage a secret ever since March 22 last, when, with the assistance of a justice of the peace in Pittsburg, they took each other "for better or for worse."

"Miss Edith Craig, Miss Terry's daughter, who was the company's stage manager, was the only one in on the secret," said Carew. "She was present at the ceremony. There had been a formal engagement between us for some time, and when we reached Pittsburg, returning from our Western tour, we decided to get married.

"I do not care to tell the name of the Justice who married us. It does not matter, of course, but I will not tell.

"Miss Terry sailed yesterday for London on the Minnetonka. I have been detained here by personal business, but will be able to follow her some day this week. We shall spend the summer abroad, at one of her country places near London or at the seashore.

"Our attachment for each other began with my appreciation of Miss Terry's great art. You have known each other for two years. This admiration ripened into love.

"I don't know much about Gordon Craig, Miss Terry's son. He is in Italy. I think he was married, but I don't know if he has or—now."

Carew is a six footer. As he gives the record of his stage career, it seems he has been leading man for Amelia Bingham, Alice Fischer and Maxine Elliott. He said he went to England first with Maxine Elliott, and on that tour met Miss Terry. All told, Carew declared, he has been an actor eight years.

"You know," Carew remarked. "I played in England with Miss Terry after leaving Maxine Elliott there. I was with Mis Elliott for a season in London, in 'Her Own Way.' Then I passed to Miss Terry in 'The Good Hope,' and 'Capt. Brassbound's Conversion,' following a short turn in 'Man and Superman.'"

One important feature of the Carew announcement last night was that Miss Terry would continue on the stage.

Pittsburg Manager Talks.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 6.—Thomas F. Kirk Jr., resident manager of the Nixon Theater, said this morning that he did not think it possible that Ellen Terry could have been married to Carew, her leading man, while she was in Pittsburg in March. Mr. Kirk was constantly in touch with Miss Terry during her stay in the city. The marriage license office contains no record of a license having been issued to Miss Terry and a ceremony could not have been performed without a license.

Terry and Carew in St. Louis.

When Miss Terry played her engagement at the Olympic Theater in this city last February she was particularly solicitious about bringing Mr. Carew to the favorable attention of the local playgoing public. Among her efforts in this direction, she sent to the dramatic editor of the Post-Dispatch a little sketch of Carew's stage career, in her own handwriting, in which she dwelt with much emphasis upon his undoubted talent, his earnestness, and his impressive stage presence. In "Capt. Brassbound's Conversion," the Bernard Shaw play which was their first St. Louis offering during the engagement, Mr. Carew played the role of Capt. Brassbound to her Lady Cicely Waynefleet, and made love to her with much ardor, although the story of the play forbade a successful ending to his part. In "The Good Hope," telling a story of tragic life in a Dutch fishing village, Miss Terry played the role of a widowed old fishwife with two sons, one of whom was Mr. Carew. In this play the old fishwife celebrates her sixtieth birthday anniversary, and Miss Terry celebrated her own fifty-ninth birthday anniversary while in St. Louis.

THE REASON WHY
Vinol Is So Strongly Endorsed and Recommended to the People of St. Louis.

There is probably not a man, woman or child in St. Louis whom the famous cod liver preparation, Vinol, will not benefit at this season of the year.

There is no need for so many people to drag around run-down, tired out and debilitated, or for old people to remain weak and infirm when Vinol is guaranteed to restore health and strength.

For centuries cod liver oil has been recognized as the grandest of all body-building agents for wasted human strength and vitality, but on account of the nauseating and system-clogging oil which enveloped its curative properties few could take it with benefit.

In Vinol you get in a concentrated form every one of the curative and strength-creating elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, the useless, system-clogging oil eliminated, and tonic iron added.

Vinol is guaranteed by over five thousand of the leading druggists of the United States to create strength for old people, for the run-down, tired and debilitated, weak, sickly women and children, and after a severe sickness.

Every such person in St. Louis should try Vinol. It costs nothing if it fails. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.

NOTE.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in St. Louis, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

WILD WEST WARS WITH ELEMENTS

Pawnee Bill's Show Pleased Big Crowd in Spite of Rain.

REALISM IN ALL ACTS

Ponies and Elephants in Animal Tent to Delight the Children.

Pawnee Bill's Wild West and Great Far East show gave an exhibition at Handlan's Park Sunday night in spite of a rain that drenched the performers, turned the arena into a sloppy field and made the thousands of spectators in the grandstand uncomfortable.

While the conditions prevented as complete an exhibition as is usual, the unfavorable weather conditions added to the realism of the performance as the rain made the feats of the horsemen seem even wilder and rougher than they were.

Pawnee Bill has gathered horsemen of many nations. American Indians, Western cowboys, Russian Cossacks, English dragoons, German curiassiers, Japanese and American cavalrymen—all these were represented and when together in the large arena they presented a thrilling sight. At times more than one hundred horsemen were going through evolutions simultaneously.

A realistic reproduction of the Mountain Meadow massacre, including an attack by Indians and their repulse later by cowboys; a graphic presentation of the way a horsethief is treated in the West, and, as a grand finale a robbery of the "Overland Limited" by the Daltons add thrill to thrill. Of course, in the train robbery, cowboys, led by Pawnee Bill, appeared later, chased the bandits and captured those they did not kill.

Pawnee Bill and other experts with rifle and revolver gave exhibitions of their marksmanship, shooting from the ground as well as from the backs of galloping horses. Clever clowns added to the enjoyment by their foolish antics. Several Mexicans and cowboys gave remarkable exhibitions of skill with the lasso and there was broncho-busting by cowboys and cowgirls. This feature of the show is always exciting and the audience Sunday night did not get nearly enough of it.

Hundreds of ponies are kept in the huge animal tent which is open to visitors to the show. Several baby ponies scarcely as large as a collie dog are there to delight the children and there are four elephants with truly elephantine appetites for peanuts.

Exhibitions will be given each afternoon and evening this week and Pawnee Bill promises that he and his performers will wear their most gorgeous raiment when the weather permits.

SEES HUSBAND'S ASHES HONORED

Widow of Dr. Max Hempel Attends Memorial Services at Columbarium.

SOCIETIES REPRESENTED

Leader of German Freethinkers Is Eulogized by Association's Speakers.

An urn containing the ashes of the late Dr. Max Hempel, leader of the German freethinkers of St. Louis, and a tablet in his memory were placed in the Columbarium, Sublette and Fyler avenues, with appropriate ceremony Sunday afternoon. Five hundred persons took part in the exercises, over which Hugo Anschuetz presided. The ceremonies were under the direction of the Dr. Max Hempel Memorial Association. On behalf of the association, President August F. Kurtz accepted the urn and the tablet.

The following societies were represented: Concordia Turnverein by Carl Schmoll, Freie Gemeinde of North St. Louis by William Petersen, Freie Gemeinde of South St. Louis by John Zach, Freier Mannerchor by Dr. A. Werth, Grotenburger Club by William E. Vach, North St. Louis Turnverein by Charles Geschieldt, Rock Springs Turnverein by Gus Hagmeier, St. Louis Butcher Verein by Max Huhle, Herman Mohn and F. Scherer, St. Louis Social Turnverein by William Roehling, St. Louis Turnbezirk by August F. Kurtz, St. Louis Turnverein by Dr. C. H. Weinsberg, Sachsen-Unterstutzungs Verein by Gustav Klaus, Schiller Verein by C. D. Boisseller and Pater Herzog, Schlaraffia by E. G. Winter, South St. Louis Turnverein by Paul Max, Southwest Turnverein by August Lange, Tower Grove Turnverein by B. Rohmann, Vereinigte Saenger by Joseph Elcks, Charles Schmidt and Theo. Ulschmid, West St. Louis Turnverein by Conrad Utterer.

Carlo Krauss and E. A. Stevens, both of whom were close friends of Dr. Hempel, delivered addresses in praise of his character. The widow was the only relative present.

Dr. Hempel died Oct. 9 last, at the age of 43. He had been a resident of St. Louis for 22 years and gained prominence as a physician, orator and educator.

M. E. Cox of St. Louis Attempts Suicide in Evansville (Ind.) Hotel.

M. E. Cox, a St. Louis traveling man who left his wife two weeks ago at 930 North Garrison avenue, and has not communicated with her since, attempted to end his life in Evansville, Ind., press dispatches say, by swallowing nux vomica, a deadly poison.

Mrs. Cox, who is a delicate woman, became hysterical when the news of her husband's act was given to her, and is under the care of a physician. She is at the Garrison avenue address with her 5-year-old boy. When seen Monday she said her husband had left her without telling her where he was going, and that she had not heard from him since. She denied that there had been any serious quarrel between them.

Cox registered at the Richmond Hotel in Evansville. In the afternoon the proprietor of the hotel, passing his room, heard what he thought was a scuffle, and called to know what the matter was. Cox's answer was so muffled that the man without could not understand it. He tried the door and found it locked. When Cox was told to open it he crawled on his hands and knees to it and turned the lock and then collapsed. The empty bottle which had contained the poison was still clasped in his hand. Antidotes and a stomach pump were employed, and it is said Cox will recover.

Mrs. Cox is 25 years old. Prior to moving to the Garrison avenue address a month ago, Cox and his family lived at 4338 West Belle place.

HAYWOOD TRIAL BEGUN; DEFENSE OPENS ITS CASE

Counsel Reads Indictments and Renews Motion for Bill of Particulars.

MEN WERE NOT IN STATE

Richardson Declares They Are Entitled to Information, Owing to Absence.

HAYWOOD TRIAL.

A Post-Dispatch staff correspondent will report the trial at Boise, Idaho, of William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of Gov. Steunenberg.

The Post-Dispatch also is the only St. Louis evening paper that will receive the Associated Press report of the trial.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

BOISE, Idaho, May 6.—The argument of the motion of the defense for a bill of particulars in the case of William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of Former Gov. Steunenberg, was commenced before Judge Fremont Wood at 10:15 a. m. today. By direction of the court, Haywood was brought up from the County Jail below to attend the hearing on the motion.

Sheriff Shad Hodgin and two deputies brought the noted prisoner into the room and gave him a seat at the table of his counsel. He was not handcuffed. Senator Borah represented the State and Messrs. Richardson and Darrow the prisoner.

Mr. Richardson opened his argument by reading the indictment of Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone, Orchard and Simpkins, charged with the murder of Gov. Steunenberg.

The motion for the bill of particulars recites the absence of the defendants from Idaho at the time the crime was committed and that the indictment contains no information that would show the overt acts by which the State hopes to prove the guilt of the accused. When Mr. Richardson, counsel for the defense, had finished reading the motion, Judge Wood interrupted to say:

"You know, Mr. Richardson, that our State had no statute providing for a bill of particulars in such cases."

"I know that such is the case," replied Mr. Richardson, "and I also know that the Supreme Court of Idaho has had its attention directed to the subject but once. Such a motion, however, as your honor well knows, always directs itself to the sound discretion of the Court."

Speaks of Absence.

Mr. Richardson again drew attention to the absence of Haywood from the State at the time of the murder and argued that he was entitled to the information sought by the motion. He quoted and explained a number of authorities in support of his contention that, under general rules of law, the defendants are entitled to have particulars when indictments do not clearly set them forth.

The defendants being out of the State at the time of the crime, the prosecution must have evidence to connect them by conspiracy or otherwise with the actual killing. This evidence the defendants were entitled to have in order that they might prepare to meet it.

Mr. Richardson declared that the indictment did not charge either a specific conspiracy or a general conspiracy and did not show whether it was alleged that the defendants had conspired to murder only Gov Steunenberg or to murder a number of persons. The accused, he said, was therefore, about a year. Mr. Richardson replied that nearly a year ago the defense had demanded trial.

Mr. Richardson, after a pause, continued, saying that Haywood had just drawn his attention to the fact that last year the defense had been peremptorily refused permission to file any pleading, because of the appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States pending.

The lists of precedents and authorities noted scores of cases, including the famous cases of Tilton vs. Beecher; the People of New York against Tweed, and the Chicago anarchists' cases.

Mr. Richardson reviewe the only Idaho precedent available and contended as to the time of making the motion that it was proper at any day before the trial. The Court asked if the case had not been ready for trial about a year.

Mr. Richardson contended that the indictments only showed that Gov. Steunenberg had been killed by a bomb, that Haywood was charged with conspiring to have Steunenberg murdered, and that Haywood was charged with being present and actually committing the crime, an assertion that every one knew to be untrue.

"Mr. Haywood," said the attorney, "knows all that he did at all times, but he does not know what witnesses may come here and testify. He is entitled to know every act charged against him. The indictment gave the prisoner absolutely no information as to the nature of the charge against him."

Mr. Richardson concluded at 11:35 o'clock.

State Opens Argument.

Senator Borah, who began at once for the State, said that the defense was not seeking particularization of the indictment, but possession of the evidence by which the State hoped to prove its case. He then explained that the charge that Haywood was at Caldwell when the murder was committed was not under the Idaho statutes. He drew attention to the fact that there was no provision in the Idaho statutes for granting bills of particular.

Senator Borah said that the indictments as to murder was surely specific enough to show the prisoner the exact nature of the charge he must meet. The demand for particulars as to the conspiracy was a demand for evidence.

DIES IN ASYLUM LIPS STILL SEALED

"John Murphy" Preserved Mystery of His Life to the End.

PROTECTED RELATIVES

Naturalization Papers Bearing Name "John Mulligan," Offer Clew.

"John Murphy," a stranger, in the St. Charles County Asylum, died Saturday. To the end he refused to reveal his history.

In the two years "Murphy" stayed at the asylum he ate almost no solid food, his diet consisting of a half pint of milk and four tablespoonfuls of sugar dissolved in water. He was ill almost all the time, but refused to take medicines.

"They all contain alcohol," he would say, "and it was alcohol that caused my downfall. I will not touch it now."

In the last three months of his life "Murphy" did not even drink his accustomed milk, swallowing only the sweetened water.

Showed Refinement.

When "John Murphy" went to St. Charles three years ago he said he was a capitalist who wanted to retire to a quiet home in some pleasant place. He liked St. Charles, he said, and announced that he had decided to buy a home there. His appearance indicated wealth and culture. He talked like a man of education and refinement.

In his social hours "Murphy" sought the acquaintance o fonly the most refined people in St. Charles. He was made welcome in the most exclusive homes in St. Charles.

After announcing his intention of buying a home, "Murphy" called at the St. Charles Savings Bank, saying he wished to transfer his account to that institution from a bank in Cincinnati. He drew a check for $25,000 on the Cincinnati bank. Investigation proved he had no funds in that bank and he was arrested.

"Murphy" was sent to Jail at first, but it was noticed soon that his mind was affected and he was transferred to the asylum. His case was never tried, but the old charge was still against him when he died. He told Prosecuting Attorney Grudre that, if he were released, he would go to some hospital in St. Louis and communicate with his family. Grudre refused to allow this.

In looking over "Murphy's" effects after his death naturalization papers bearing the name John Mulligan and dated in St. Louis in 1885 were found. It is thought that this may lead to the discovery of his relatives. In the meantime arrangements were made for his burial at St. Charles.

"Most Popular" Woman Weds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLARENCE, Mo., May 6.—The marriage of Miss Mattie R. Shanks and Ernest Baker took place at the home of the bride's brother, N. O. Shanks, yesterday. The bride's parents knew nothing of the wedding until informed by the minister. Miss Shanks was declared the most popular woman in Clarence in a newspaper voting contest a few years ago. The bridegroom is a well-known horse dealer.

Senator Borah further said that neither the statutes of Idaho nor the decision of the courts anywhere provide that the defendants in a case of this character were entitled to the details of the evidence against them.

Senator Borah concluded his argument shortly after 12 o'clock.

Clarence Darrow followed Senator Borah with the closing argument in support of the motion.

Both sides concluded their argument at 12:30. Court adjourned until 3 p. m., when, it is expected, Judge Wood will hand down his decision.

The impression is that more than a month will be consumed in the trial. The chief witnesses as to the actual dynamiting of Gov. Steunenberg are in Caldwell and will not be summoned until a jury is empanelled. The defense is deeply interested in a statement published that President Roosevelt is to give out another communication on the case. They feel that the President has appointed himself judge and jury, and that he reflects a desire as keen as the mine owners for the condemnation of the men.

"I have never heard or experienced anything like it," said Clarence S. Darrow. "The President is certainly determined to create a hostile public sentiment against Haywood at the most Orchard's Fate Puzzling.

It is told here that the President did send a representative to Boise soon after the prisoners were dragged from Colorado and that this man obtained all of his information from the State and the mine owners. No attempt was made to examine witnesses or to hear from the defense. The question of the ultimate fate of Harry Orchard is puzzling many persons. He has confessed that he is the actual assassin of Steunenberg, yet it is believed that he has saved his neck in his dicker with the State for a confession.

Orchard owned one-sixth interest in the Hercules mine in the Coeur d'Alene. In 1899, when he was driven out of the country by Steunenberg, he sold out for $500. Today the mine is quoted at $25,000,000. This banishment and monetary sacrifice the defense will point out as the Orchard motive for murder.

In putting the case to the jury the State will assert that the conspiracy existed among the men under arrest and others to murder many persons in Colorado and Idaho, then prove the Steunenberg murder by the Caldwell witnesses. Next Orchard, under a strong guard, will be brought from the Penitentiary to prove the conspiracy and confess his part in the crimes. Detectives will furnish the corroborative evidence.

Great precautions have been made to isolate the jury. The members will be domiciled in a cottage in rear of the Courthouse, where they may sleep and take their meals and be under guard night and day. Judge Wood has cleaned up his docket and is ready to give all summer to the trials. Yesterday he conducted the attorneys for the defense and newspaper men on an excursion to his fruit farm on the Boise plateau. Judge Wood is an expert on apples.

Haywood and his two companions are in receipt of hundreds of letters and telegrams of sympathy daily. A score of messages have come from the labor organizations of New York.

RISKED HER LIFE TO AVOID STORK

Julius Yankowitz Says Wife Thought Him Too Old to Rear Family.

DR. TANDY ARRESTED

Dr. Lewis G. Tandy Says His Treatment Was According to Ethics.

Dr. Lewis G. Tandy, a well-known South Side physician, is a prisoner in the holdover at the Four Courts, charged with performing an operation on Mrs. Anna Yankowitz, who is in a critical condition at the Jewish Hospital, Delmar and Union boulevards.

He was arrested at his office, 317 Duchouquette street, Sunday afternoon by policemen from the Wyoming Street Station, who took him to the bedside of Mrs. Yankowitz. She identified him.

Mrs. Yankowitz is 27 years old and lives with her husband, who is 55, at 1106 North Sixteenth street. Physicians at the Jewish Hospital say her chances of recovering are slight.

"My wife did not tell me anything about her plans," said Yankowitz Monday. "She confided in one of her neighbors. I came home last Tuesday and found her very sick. I called a physician and he advised me to send her to the hospital. Yesterday she told me she had risked her life because she thought I was too old to be burdened with the support of a child. We were married seven months ago and were living happily together."

When her presence at the hospital and its cause was reported to the Circuit Attorney's office Prosecuting Attorney Rosskopf, accompanied by a stenographer, went to see her. He took a detailed statement from her in which she said that seven weeks ago she went to Dr. Tandy and sought his services. The operation was not a success, she said, and five weeks later she again visited him.

After obtaining this statement Rosskopf ordered the Wyoming street police to arrest the physician. Rosskopf said Monday that if Mrs. Yankowitz dies Dr. Tandy will be charged with manslaughter.

Dr. Tandy is about 45 years of age and is prominent as a physician in the southern part of the city. At one time he conducted a free dispensary on South Broadway. He declares that the operation performed on Mrs. Yankowitz was one authorized by science and ethics and was necessary to Mrs. Yankowitz's health.

GEN. TOLEDO WOULD INVADE GUATEMALA

Is Said to Be Raising Troops in Honduras for That Purpose.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, May 6.—Word has been received from Gen. Salvador Toledo, who left here just in time to escape the blow an assassin had planned for him, that his headquarters are at Masaya, Nicaragua and that he is making great progress in organizing a strong revolutionary force in Honduras to march on Guatemala. He expects to raise several thousand men, mostly Guatemalans who have been banished to Honduras because of differences with their home Government.

Military experts here say Mexico could land 50,000 soldiers in Guatemala within three days. There is direct railway connection between this city and a point within 40 miles of the Guatemalan border, provided by the building of he Pan-American Railroad. In addition to the railway facilities, quick transportation by boats can be had from Salina Cruz.

The nearest coast point in Guatemala is Champerico, only about 210 miles southeast of Salina Cruz, the southern terminus of the National Tehuantepec Railroad.

Fifty miles below Champerico is the port of San Jose, military headquarters of Gen. Lima, whose extradition for complicity in the assassination here of Gen. Barillas was refused by President Cabrera. It is stated that San Jose is well fortified. Within easy marching distance from the coast are several important towns.

The Mexican Cabinet was in session until late Saturday night, but the members refused to say what action, if any, was decided upon to bring Guatemala to terms.

HINDU MOB BURNS CHURCH.

Missionaries Attacked and Houses Looted in India.

LAHORE, British India, May 6.—The Hindu outbreak at Rawalpindi appears to have been anti-Christian as well as anti-Europe. The mission buildings were the special object of the fury of the rioters. An attack was made on the American mission church. The mob burned the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, looted and damaged the houses of the missionaries and violently assaulted native Christians in the streets.

A riotous outbreak under the leadership of Hindu students has occurred at Armitzar, about thirty miles from Lahore.

Rawalpindi is a station of the United Presbyterian Church of North American Board of Missions, and was established in 1856. In 1901, there were three missionaries with their wives, 20 out-stations, a Sunday school, a college, an orphanage and a hospital at Rawalpindi. The place also is a station of the Women's Missionary Society, having one missionary, two native workers, six out-stations, six places of worship and one Sunday school.

TO TRY CORP. KNOWLES.

Courtmartial Is in Session at Fort Sill.

FORT SILL, O. T., May 6.—A courtmartial to try Corporal Knowles, charged with attempting to kill Capt. Edgar B. Macklin at his home at Fort Reno on the night of Dec. 21, 1906, convened here today.

Corporal Knowles was a member of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, whose members were discharged by President Roosevelt for alleged connection with the Brownsville affair. The attack upon Capt. Macklin followed closely after the discharge of Knowles and his comrades.

Various motives have been ascribed for the attack and the case has elicited a great deal of interest. Capt. Macklin returned yesterday from San Antonio, where he was acquitted last week after a trial by courtmartial.

Missouri Postoffice Robbed.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Fulton received a telegram Monday from William H. Luthy, Postmaster at Parkville, Mo., stating that the office had been entered some time Saturday night and $133 in stamps and money stolen.

WARD'S FRIENDS DENY HE HARMED YOUNG HEIRESS

State Solon's Home Town Stirred by Edith Presley's Death After Operation.

AIDED HIM IN CAMPAIGN

She Got the Credit for His Reelection After a Bitter Contest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BANCROFT, Mich., May 6.—The little village of Bancroft, stirred for the first time from its simple serenity by scandal, believes implicitly in the innocence of its leading citizen, Charles E. Ward, the legislator accused of complicity in the death of Miss Edith Presley, heiress and Senate stenographer, who died after an operation in a Detroit sanitarium. They admit that Ward and Miss Presley were close friends, but say that their relations were such as any married man has a right to assume towards a girl. The interested friends of the young legislator are assisting the authorities in running down clues said to implicate two other legislators whose first names begin with "C," the initial signed to the letters found in the girl's room after her death.

The family of Mr. Ward, as well as the wife herself, are loyal to the accused man.

"I will not believe anything against Charley Ward unless I am forced to by a confession from his own lips," said E. P. Sherman, banker and capitalist of Bancroft, and brother of Mrs. Ward. "Edith Presley was more a friend of my sister, Ward's wife, than of Charley. I have never, in all the time I have known Miss Presley, seen one act to arouse the least suspicion.

Innocent, Banker Says.

"When the Legislature convened, my sister and her husband moved to Lansing. Up to that time they had made their home with us. Miss Presley spent considerable time with us during their stay here. She was familiar with Charley, but she maintined that attitude toward all the men she met in a political way. She was the best woman politician in Lansing, and had wonderful success in the handling of facts and discussion of events. Her memory was marvelous in its grasp on the political history of the State, even to the stand each politician had taken on various matters.

"She was far from being a pretty woman, but her manner was charming and irresistible. She was a strong political factor in shaping the political destiny of the State."

During last fall Miss Presley became an almost dominant factor in Bancroft. Charles Ward had the crucial political battle of his life on his hands.

Twice in the period of two years he had been victorious in his campaigns for a seat in the Legislature. Each time he had made a splendid fight. In his opening battle of 1902, when but 31 years of age, he triumphed over a supposedly invincible incumbent of the office he sought.

Girl His Political Aid.

In the campaign for re-election in 1904 the contest was bitter. Ward was assailed by gossip and rumors. His opponents referred to certain unnamed women in the county, but never got enough evidence to warrant their making specific attacks. So far from hurting the cause of the young Bancrofter he was re-elected by a majority of 2500, whereas his former majority had been but 548.

The third campaign approached, and the Democrats inaugurated a campaign which omitted not a man in the district. Ward's future was at stake. He called on Edith Presley and she came promptly to his aid.

She knew all the politicians. She was a hail-fellow-well-met, and called them all by their first names. Even in Mrs. Ward's presence she called Mr. Ward "Charley."

When Ward went to Lansing he secured a position in the capitol library for a Bancroft girl. This girl became intimate with Edith Presley, and through her Mrs. Ward and Edith became good friends, and were together much, both at Bancroft and at the capital. The girl even invited men friends to the Ward home in both cities for entertainment.

Really Re-Elected Him.

It was in the height of the campaign of last fall that Miss Presley came here to assist Ward. She made her home with the family and aided in a personal canvass of the entire district. She furnished much of the material for the literature sent out by mail, her remarkable memory being used to good advantage. Three other girls whom Ward had favored in the way of appointments to positions at Lansing assisted in flooding the district with literature.

Citizens of Bancroft believe that it was due to Miss Presley's indefatigable efforts at that time that Ward was re-elected, despite the scandal which encompassed his name. In the face of the hottest fight in the history of the district his majority was 1690, and he plunged into politics as a life work, abandoning all his private enterprises.

Ward came from Duquoin, Ill., 16 years ago and entered the law department of the University of Michigan, from which he graduated, and wedded the daughter of Roger Sherman, the Bancroft banker.

MARVIN BOY NOT SLAIN.

Autopsy Finds That Lad Died of Starvation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DOVER, Del., May 6.—Horace Marvin, the 4-year-old boy, whose body was found in the swamp near his home Saturday after a search in which practically the whole country was involved, died from exposure and was not murdered, according to an autopsy held over the body yesterday. The lad is thought to have starved to death in the swamp.

In any event, as it stands tonight, it is believed that for 24 hours, at least, and perhaps twice as long, after he had wandered from the haystack where he had been at play, the little lad, helpless and perhaps insensible from cold, lay in the grass and weeds while searchers by the score were passing and repassing within a rod of him.

The boy was not drowned. The authority for this is Dr. James H. Wilson, one of the best known physicians of this part of the State, who performed the autopsy.

The condition of the lungs and other organs showed that, while for the other assertion of exposure, he had abundant proof. In a statement tonight he is borne out by the other physicians who assisted at the autopsy.

In Honor of Bishop Janssen.

A large audience attended the production of "The Prince of Fez," by St. John's Dramatic Club, at Cathedral Hall, Sunday night, in honor of Bishop John Janssen. The entertainment was to have been given in April, but was postponed on account of the absence of the Bishop. The Belleville diocese will celebrate in November, 1908, the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Bishop Janssen as a priest. Bishop Janssen made a short talk after the performance.

GIRL WHO FOUND 1015 BABIES IN AND AROUND ALTON AND THREE OF THE INFANTS.

BERENICE MEYER. MAE FAULSTICH. ALICE SCHRIEVER. PAULINE MOHR.

GIRL LISTED 1015 BABIES IN ALTON

Eight-Year-Old Miss Won Prize for Compiling Names of Infants.

FRIENDS AIDED IN WORK

Nearest Competitor Found Less Than Half as Many Visits of Stork.

Mae Faulstich, the eight-year-old daughter of County Supervisor Joseph Faulstich of Alton was the winner of a prize offered by a furniture company to the child under 14 who should bring the longest list of names and addresses of babies living in Alton and vicinity.

The prize was to be a new style doll's "go-cart," just the size for Mae's favorite doll. She accordingly went to work to seek out every infant that could be found. First she wrote down the names of all of the babies living in her neighborhood. After that she asked every person she saw to bring her a list. The grocer, milkman and all of the delivery boys were among her assistants and obligingly listed every baby they knew.

On the street the little girl always carried a paper and pencil and when she met a baby she stopped and inquired its name and added it to her list. Her playmates at school helped her, too, and when a competitor found her list was leading all others, donated her names to Miss Mae.

She Listed 1015 Babies.

For two months she labored tirelessly, and when the lists were submitted the names of 1015 babies were to her credit and she was declared the winner of the prize.

"It was hard work," the little girl said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "but I am so glad that I won the go-cart that I don't mind that now. I don't know any of the other girls who sent in the names of babies, but I guess they didn't work as hard as I did. The one nearest me only got 439 names and the shortest list only had 104. I watched the paper and got the name of every new baby when a birth list was printed. Some of them didn't have any names at all so I had to send its mother's name, but that was all right because the mothers always buy the go-carts for the babies. I had lots of Smiths and Williamses among my babies and lots of others had names that I couldn't pronounce. You can't imagine how many 1015 names of babies are. I like my go-cart awful well."

Berenice Meyer of 716 East Fourth street, Pauline Mohr and Alice Schriever were among the infants whose names helped Miss Mae to the honor and the prize for her diligence in submitting the longest list of babies in the "Stork town."

The following is a partial list of other contestants and the number of names they handed in: Adelia Thomas, 439; Eleanor Mawdsley, 436; Lillian Kelley, 287; Annie Buendgen, 260; Fanny Alderson, 187; Cora Rotsch, 160; Stella Milford, 141; Ruth Cameron, 125; Della Thomas, 104.

According to actual count it is estimated that there are over 2000 babies in the neighborhood of Alton.

His Friend Made Good.

Frank Craig introduced his "friend, a miner from Idaho," to Judge Taylor of the Court of Criminal Correction in an endeavor to get a light fine after pleading guilty Monday to the theft of a strip of carpet belonging to Mrs. Anna Ballak of 931 Washington avenue. Craig said if the fine was small his "friend" would pay it and take him West. Judge Taylor and the miner held a whispered conversation and a $25 assessment followed. The costs amounted to $13, and the fine and costs were promptly paid by the miner.

ARCHBISHOP IS TO GET RED HAT

Plan to Extend Pope's Temporal Power May Raise St. Louis Prelate.

According to a news story sent out from New York Archbishop Glennon is looked upon by those in close touch with Vatican affairs as one of the most likely candidates in the United States for the red hat of Cardinal.

For the last year it has been insistently reported that the Pope was desirous of making three more American cardinals and this latest report comes in connection with the story of a gigantic plan for the restoration of the temporal power of the Pope through American capital and enterprise.

In the news story from New York it is stated that the plan of R. C. Kerans of St. Louis and others to buy a tract of land reaching from the Vatican at Rome to the sea for the Pope is but the preface of an effort to give a sovereignty to the Pope that will be recognized by other nations as formerly.

Archbishop Not Advised.

In discussing this report Archbishop Glennon told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was ignorant of such a movement.

"I read the reports with much interest," he said, "but I have heard nothing about the plan."

In the reports Archbishop Glennon was mentioned as one of the originators of the idea. When asked about this he said smilingly, "What would I have to do with such a plan; we are building a cathedral now."

The plan outlined in the more recent dispatches is one of great proportions. Some $40,000,000 is proposed to be raised by Catholics in America, the theory being that the Vatican, out of gratitude, would give three more cardinals to America. It is in this connection that Archbishop Glennon is named as one of the Archbishops in the United States most likely to receive the honor.

Overtures to Government.

It is said that overtures have been made to the Italian government concerning the recognition of sovereignty rights of the Pope over the strip of land from Rome to the Mediterranean, and that the Italian government has shown a friendly disposition.

The Italian highways, and streets passing through the tract, are to be lowered and raised so that the Pope may not be disturbed in the privacy of his little Kingdom. At the seaport will be a landing where visiting rulers may arrive and depart. Visitors to the Vatican thus will be able to reach the Pope without going to Rome first. Railroads now passing through the tract are to be lowered and a station built underground at which the visitors can step off on the property of the Vatican.

His Noise Got Him Into Trouble.

George Williams of Muskogee, I. T., had his journey to Cincinnati interrupted at St. Louis because he became boisterous at the Union Station. This attracted the police, who found a revolver upon him. Williams was arraigned Monday before Judge Taylor of the Court of Criminal Correction, and a fine of $50 imposed, but when it was brought to the Judge's attention that Williams was only passing through the city the fine was remitted. Frank Putnam was fined $50 for having a revolver on his person.

PRINCETON MAN AIDED HONDURAS

John Poe Jr. Was College's Star Halfback in 1891 and 1892.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—John P. Poe Jr., a member of the football family, and the star halfback of the Princeton football team of '91 and '92, is here after a month's service with the Honduran army in the late war with Nicaragua. Poe was engaged in mining in Nevada when the war broke out. He went at once to Amahala and was appointed a captain in the artillery corps and stationed at one of the little forts guarding the port.

When the little Nicaraguan gunboat Momotombo came steaming into the harbor it unlimbered a 5-inch Krupp gun, but the few shots that were fired by it went sailing over the town. Poe trained his guns on the miniature warship, but they were of such small caliber that the shells fell short of the mark. The resistance offered by the Hondurans was unexpected by those on the Momotombo, and she withdrew out of line of firing.

Passengers on the City of Panama brought the news of a gallant fight made by an American mining engineer named Fred Mills, who, with a companion, was commanding part of the Honduran Army at Amisega when the Nicaraguan troops made a charge, and who sent his soldiers in a wild retreat. Mills tried to make the Hondurtans stand up and fight, but it was impossible. He then told his companion that he would fight the whole Nicaraguan army alone. His companion remained with him, and fo several hours they held the Nicaraguan troops off. Mills alone dropped about twenty-five of the enemy, and the chances are that he would have won his battle, single-handed, had not a Nicaraguan bullet finally struck him in the forehead and killed him. Mills' companion was shot in the leg and taken prisoner.

TRAINS IN COLLISION.

Private Car and Locomotive Wrecked at Crystal City.

A private car and locomotive belonging to the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. were wrecked at Crystal City at 8:30 a. m. Monday in a collision with a Frisco local train, northbound. On board the local train were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Kavanaugh, who were returning from Selma Hall, where they had been entertaining a party of friends. Mrs. L. H. Laidley and Miss Clark, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh, were also on the train. They were all thrown out of their seats and badly shaken up, but were not seriously hurt.

Old Hospital Lease Expires.

The lease which the city has held since soon after the cyclone in 1896, on the old Good Shepherd Convent at Seventeenth and Pine streets expired Monday, thus canceling a contract which has cost the municipal treasury $1000 a month for 22 months during which the building remained vacant.

Officials of the Health Department were glad to see the end of a tenancy that has deprived them of $22,000 for use in other ways.

The building was occupied as a temporary City Hospital after the cyclone destroyed the old institution at Lafayette avenue and Grattan street. The lease which the city later negotiated with Isaac H. Lionberger provided for a monthly rental of $1000. Since July, 1905, when the hospital was removed to the new quarters, the old convent has not been in use.

MADE NEW LAW TO TRAP OIL OCTOPUS

Passed Without Standard's Knowledge Texas Forces Admissions.

NEW YORK DEPOSITIONS

Corporations Compelled to Produce Witnesses or Their Answers Fall.

Jewell P. Lightfoot, Assistant Attorney-General of Texas, who is prosecuting the anti-trust ouster suit against the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., which comes up for trial at Austin next Monday, is in St. Louis to attend the taking of depositions Tuesday by the defendants.

Mr. Lightfoot has been in New York more than a month taking testimony for use in the suit. In addition to the ouster proceedings, suit has been brought to recover $5,228,400 in penalties.

Attorneys John D. Johnson and Henry S. Priest of St. Louis, in New York representing the Waters-Pierce Oil Co., arranged before starting home to take depositions here.

Mr. Lightfoot and Mr. Allen, who was with him, stopped here to represent the State of Texas at the hearing. They may take some testimony in behalf of the State.

The Standard Oil millionaires at 26 Broadway, New York, were completely surprised about a month ago when they were served with notice to appear before Commissioner F. H. Sanborn and give testimony in the suit against the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. While the usually alert oil octopus was sleeping the Texas Attorney-General's department had introduced in the Legislature a bill prepared by Mr. Lightfoot which revolutionized the taking of depositions and armed with the new authority, Mr. Lightfoot went to New York and took the testimony of many witnesses, among them Henry Clay Pierce.

Written Interrogatories Abandoned.

Under the old Texas law depositions were taken only by written interrogatories, previously approved by the court. This cumbersome method enabled witnesses to evade or refuse to answer questions. The new law gives the court power to appoint a special commissioner to take testimony anywhere in the United States. Corporations are compelled, upon being served with notice, to produce witnesses called for. A refusal to produce witnesses invalidates corporation answers.

The law was passed without any Standard Oil people learning of it. They were surprised when the Waters-Pierce Oil Co. of St. Louis was notified to produce H. Clay Pierce before Commissioner Sanborn in New York, and the Standard Oil Co. to produce John D. Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, John D. Archbold and other magnates.

When they did learn of the new law there was a scramble to make admissions obviating the necessity of the Standard Oil millionaires going on the witness stand.

Many Admissions Made.

Mr. Lightfoot spent more than a month in New York taking testimony. H. Clay Pierce, who has not returned to Missouri since Gov. Folk honored the requisition of the Governor of Texas for his return to the Lone Star State to answer an indictment for perjury, seeing that they had been caught in the Texas legal trap, made admissions covering practically every phase of the case under investigation. The Standard Oil officials made similar admissions, and Mr. Lightfoot is going back to Texas with all the evidence he desired. He refused to discuss the case for publication Monday.

Commissioner Sanborn, who lives in New York, will be here Tuesday to take depositions. The attorneys for the defense have not decided where the hearings will be held. Mr. Lightfoot took testimony here in January, but the hearings were executive. Although he has traveled nearly all over the country, taking testimony in the case, he has proceeded so quietly that he has become known as "The Mysterious Man from Texas."

During over 50 years it has been successfully and beneficially used by more than a million women and still continues its good work in the relief and cure of pain and suffering. Thousands of ladies have put aside timidity and written to tell of their symptoms and how they were cured by Wine of Cardui, for the benefit of other suffering women.

The following letter from Mrs. Maggie Stout, of Gabbatha, Tenn., tells simply, and with the ring of truth, the story of her ills and their relief. She writes:

MRS. M. STOUT Gabbatha, Tenn.

"All I have said about Wine of Cardui is the truth. I suffered with pains in my back and limbs for a year. I was so bad that I could not walk, only a short distance, without stopping to rest. I took Wine of Cardui according to directions, and now I feel like a new woman, and can do all my housework. Wine of Cardui is the best medicine I ever used for female complaints." At druggists, $1.00.

HER RELATIVE WOULD HAVE SLAIN COOKE

Grandmother of Miss Whaley, Who Eloped With Pastor, Charges Abduction.

WILL NOT GO TO TRIAL

But Declares Erring Child Will Always Find Good Home Upon Her Return.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 6.—"If I had known about it, known what all the neighbors were saying about the clandestine meetings between my granddaughter and Mr. Cooke, I would have killed him!" declared Mrs. Kaziah Whaley, grandmother of Floretta Whaley, the 17-year-old girl who eloped with Rev. Jere Knode Cooke last week, to a Post-Dispatch correspondent yesterday.

"Why did not some of the neighbors come and tell me?" she continued. What could I do? He was a minister and though I had my doubts, my protests were in vain. I may be blamed for allowing this man to come and see my granddaughter so often. I want to say right now that some time ago I confronted with him. I said: 'Now, Mr. Cooke, you ought not to come around here so often—you are a married man. People will begin to talk about Floretta.'

"He assured me that his intentions were perfectly honorable, and that he was calling simply as a clergyman, her spiritual adviser and purely out of interest for her future and the trust laid upon him by her father. He also declared that his wife knew and approved of his visits."

Says Girl Was Led Away.

Mrs. Whaley attempted to look calm and to hide an aching heart as she ushered the Post-Dispatch correspondent into the little two-story and attic brown house at the corner of Greenwich and Trotter streets, across from the great white house where they lived before John Whaley died, leaving his daughter, Floretta, heir to $125,000.

Mrs. Whaley declared that the girl had been lead away by Cooke and said that she knew she did not want to go and had had no intention of doing so until shortly before her disappearance with the pastor. She told how the minister had called one night while she, Mrs. Whaley, was in the parlor with Floretta, and how he had induced her to leave the room. It was then, Mrs. Whaley declared, that Cooke obtained the girl's consent to go with him by the strange influence, which, Mrs. Whaley says, he always had over the girl.

As Mrs. Whaley told of her parting with her granddaughter, when the girl had told her she was going to New York to buy her spring clothes, she broke down and wept. She said:

Tells of Parting.

"She kissed me good-by when she stood in the dining room and again when she stood in the door. She went as far as the gate and then came running back and threw her arms around my neck and kissed me again, twice. I am sure she didn't want to go! I know she didn't go willingly!

"The afternoon I received her letter telling me she was going away, I was stunned. I was too dazed to give way to grief. I sat up late that night with a light shining from the front window, hoping if she came creeping back, frightened and repentant, that she would see it and come to me, who was her mother for many years."

As the correspondent was leaving Mrs. Whaley said:

"I have made no appeal for my granddaughter to come back. If I knew where she was in New York I would not go to her. I would not sent for her. I will not beg her to come back. She has made her choice. If she comes she will find a welcome. She can and will find a home here."

Dragged Under Fender.

Harold Foerster, 9-year-old son of Postmaster John Foerster, is improving at home, 5537 Theodosia avenue, from injuries received Saturday afternoon, when he was struck by a Union avenue car and dragged under the fender. Dr. William L. Nelson of 1483 Union avenue found that the boy's head and back had been severely lacerated.

CALHOUN DENIES GIVING BRIBES

President of Frisco Street Roads Calls Charges False and Infamous.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—In reference to published statements that the grand jury had traced the money alleged to have been paid city officials by the United Railroads through the United States Mint and Subtreasury in this city, President Patrick Calhoun of the United Railroads said last night:

"I have seen the extraordinary statements in the morning papers in which the moneys transmitted to San Francisco through the United States Subtreasury have been stated to be a bribe fund. This is sheer nonsense."

After saying that the money was used for the relief of the street railway employes, Mr. Calhoun continued:

"The allegation that the money constituted a bribe fund is absurd and I do not believe, despite statements originating from parties associated with the prosecution, that any intelligent body of American citizens can be induced to distort these legitimate business transactions into crimes.

"To intelligent men it must be apparent that the very openness of this transaction, every detail of which left necessarily an open full and complete record, is not the method that would be pursued by anyone who had anything to conceal.

"I will bide my time for the justification of my acts, and I rely upon the fair-mindedness of the grand jury as reasonable men not to be led astray by wild theories and speculations put forth and encouraged by the persons who slander us to advance interests we shall expect hereafter to conclusively show are not for the public good, but for private gain and political advantage."

BOTH WERE COURTEOUS.

Man and His Wife Gave Car Seats to Young Women.

Passengers on a west-bound Page car saw a new brand of street car courtesy illustrated Sunday afternoon. The rule seemed to be that the wife shall follow her husband in all his acts of gallantry.

A man and wife carrying several parcels in their laps were seated near the front of the car. Near them in the aisle stood two young women. The husband was arguing in a subdued voice with his wife.

"Come, let's get up and give these young women our seats," said he.

"You can, if you want to," replied his wife. "But I won't."

The husband insisted. The wife demurred, whispering that it was proper for him, but not for her to get up. Then argument lasted five minutes. Then with an angry swish of her skirts the wife acquiesced. She and her husband gathered their parcels and filed into the aisle.

The young women took the vacated seats without protest. The husband grasped a strap with one hand, holding parcels with the other, and his wife grasped his coat sleeve.

"I shouldn't have taken their seats if I'd thought they were not leaving the car," said one of the young women who received their courtesy.

RICH WOMAN ADOPTS INDIAN

Makes Boy Heir to Estate Valued at $70,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., May 6.—Mrs. Lottie Thomson, an elderly widow, who is worth fully $70,000, has legally adopted and made her sole heir Earl Dennis, a 13-year-old Indian boy, who is a student at the Teller Indian Institute.

Young Dennis' brother worked for Mrs. Thomson and Earl paid him regular visits. His manly bearing, quick wit and pleasant manners, eagerness to please and his anxiety to gain an education and make something of himself soon attracted Mrs. Thomson's attention and she became his friend and adviser. She has obtained the consent of the boy's dusky mother, as well as the authorities at the Teller Institute, to adopt him.

WHITE PLAGUE CONFERENCE

Specialists Also Will Be Received by President.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Those who make a specialty of fighting the white plague will begin a notable meeting here today. Physicians, surgeons, specialists and scientists who have made a special study of tuberculosis and modern methods of treatment in the tenements of large cities will attend the third annual session of the national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis.

In the afternoon President Roosevelt, one of the honorary vice-presidents of the association, will receive the members of this association at the White House, and also the members of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, which will be in annual session here at that time.

"Chicagoans Becoming Criminals."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 6.—"Chicago workingmen are becoming criminals on account of the desperate outlook which they are often forced to face," said Prof. Charles N. Henderson, chaplain of the University of Chicago, in a lecture yesterday. Dr. Henderson offered a remedy—the adoption of a scheme of workingmen's insurance by the state, together with prison reforms.

WOULD PAY HOBOES FOR TIME IN JAIL

James Eads How Suggests Free Clothing at End of Sentences.

James Eads How, organizer of the Brotherhood of Welfare Association, is out with a new plan for the treatment of vagrants. He proposes that "hoboes" serving a Jail or Workhouse sentence be paid 50 cents a day for their time while confined. Also, if the sentence is for more than 50 days, he believes that the vagrant should afterward be furnished with a ticket to some point where he can get work. If he is confined long enough to run up a balance of $25 against the city or county then he should be furnished with a new suit of clothes.

Mr. How stated his views at a meeting of the association Sunday. As a first step in his effort to have the vagrancy laws amended, he announced that he had arranged with Dr. Ben L. Reitman of the Chicago Welfare Association to address a meeting of the brotherhood next Sunday at Seventh street and Washington avenue.

Mr. How also declared himself in favor of a law to make the president of a street car company answerable for the death of a person through an employe's negligence.

ALHAMBRA SLOWLY FALLING.

French Journal Says Structure Is Practically a Wreck.

PARIS, May 6.—The condition of the famous Alhambra at Granada is discussed in a local journal, which also publishes photographs showing the pressing necessity of repairs.

According to the paper the marvelous ceiling of the hall of the Comarez threatens to fall in at any moment. The northern wall of the tower of the same name has subsided and the weight of the cupola is likely to cause a complete collapse.

The Machuca gallery and the Patio of the harem are in immediate danger of becoming total ruins. The Defender De Granada, the paper referred to, announces the call for a public meeting to take action in the matter and says that a petition will be drawn up and sent to Madrid.

Prescription No. 2851, by Elmer & Amend, will not cure all complaints, but it will cure rheumatism.

Sleep Walker's Ribs Broken.

In a fit of somnambulism, Joseph Kerpitz, aged 20, of 3741 Chouteau avenue, walked from his room to a rear veranda and then stepped into space. He landed on a pile of ashes 16 feet below. The shock awoke him and, without assistance, he returned to bed. A few hours later he began to feel pains in his side and called a physician, who sent him to the City Hospital. Kerpitz was found to be suffering from two broken ribs on the right side. He is expected to recover.

Died Sitting in a Chair.

While sitting in a chair in the public room of a lodging house at 418 Lucas avenue Sunday evening, Charles W. Baker, aged 74 years, died from natural causes. He had been employed for 15 years by the Meyer-Bannerman Saddlery Co. The body is at the Morgue while the police are endeavoring to locate his relatives.

AUTO KILLINGS TAKEN UP.

Assistant Prosecutor to Decide Action Against Campbell.

A transcript of the testimony at the inquest into the death of John Hastings of 6138 Crescent avenue, for which James Campbell of Kingsbury place was held responsible by a Coroner's jury, was taken to the Circuit Attorney's office Monday.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Rooskopf will read it to determine what action shall be taken toward prosecuting Campbell, who is at liberty on $2000 bond. Hastings was struck by Campbell's automobile April 24 on the Clayton road, near Hastings' home, and was instantly killed.

SOCIETY

NEWS OF THE DAY

Continued dismal weather has forced St. Louis persons of society to turn their thoughts toward the near-by resorts, French Lick Springs and Eureka. Correspondents from these two popular places have much to say concerning the pleasant outdoor life and the congenial society.

Mrs. Henrietta Parsons Gill, who has been at Eureka for a fortnight with her mother, Mrs. Parsons, writes as follows:

"Our party has just returned from the most gloriously exhilarating sport I ever experienced—a fox hunt. We were in the saddle from 4 a. m. till noon. There were eleven in the party, with 12 dogs. The riders were guests from Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis, starting in the full night of the late moon. Hardly were we off before the dogs scented the trail of Mr. Red Fox and we rushed hard after them. Once the pack, as the fox doubled on his tracks, passed within a few yards of where we all stood, waiting for the signal to pursue. The calls of the hounds in hot pursuit, the strained tension of horses and riders, the blowing of fox horns, the steep, narrow mountain trails, thick overhanging brush through which we chased, sometimes almost dragged from our horses' backs by low-hanging branches, all lent excitement and exhilaration very novel and enjoyable.

"Twice I was almost blinded by branches striking me across the eyes and swung back by riders in advance. At another time the trail led us down a creek bed, greatly swollen by recent heavy rains, through which we plunged, well-soaking the horses and riders, and in one place, hanging low to one side of our saddles to pass beneath a railroad tressel, just three inches above the saddle pummel and suspended across the stream. We hurriedly breakfasted at an old farm house on top of one of the highest mountains in the county, a point of interest to pleasure seekers and visitors here, famous for its chicken dinners. The farmer had been previously notified of our coming and served us witout delay. Then we again took up the chase but about noon lost the trail, having to return without our brush.

"It is very hard to catch the red fox in this section of the country on acount of the many caves hidden away in deep ravines and the wilderness of forests, although not more than a month ago one was chased in the trail over which we rode today.

"We have been delaying our return in anticipation of this hunt and will now leave for Eureka in a few days.

From French Lick comes the following breezy gossip:

"Time hangs heavy on one's hands when one does not gamble here, since that diversion is the chief pastime. The St. Louis contingent is very conservative, however, and spends very little time at the tables.

"Mr. and Mrs. Tony Faust, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Koehler and Mrs. Limberg are still here. Mrs. Faust is much admired and is always so well gowned. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Carroll, with several friends spent last week here. They came in their private car, which stood on the French Lick Hotel skid during their visit. They dined at the hotel, but slept on board.

"Mrs. Fred Allen and Mrs. Edward Healey arrived Thursday. Mrs. Allen looked very well Friday evening in a white lace robe, with violets. Mrs. Healey was in pale blue. Mr. and Mrs. Julius Glaser also arrived Thursday, as did Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Brown. Mr. and Mrs. A. Waldheim, Mrs. Cahill and her five children and two maids, Mr. Henry Koehler Jr., Mr. Hugo C. Koehler, Mr. W. C. Teasdale, Mr. A. Rothschild, Mr. Ephron Catlin and Mr. William D. Scudder are all here.

Mrs. Francis and Mrs. Perry Francis departed Thursday for St. Louis."

The hotel has an unusual guest list as to well-known people. Robert E. Wilson Jr. of New York is a guest, also Mr. and Mrs. Swift of Chicago. The theatrical profession is well represented—Fritzie Scheff in her private car on the way and a party of friends are having a jolly time. Mr. Frohman and his wife, Margaret Illington, arrived last night. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Carter will be guests for several days. Mrs. Curtis is one of the most admired women at the hotel. Mr. Erlanger and his Japanese servant have a suite of rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Schubert departed Thursday. Horseback riding is the chief pastime in the morning. There is a golf tournament now in progress. The only player known to me is Mr. Howard Elting of Chicago, who is one of the most successful players. Mr. Elting formerly resided in St. Louis. He married Miss Florence West several years ago. Mrs. Elting is here with him.

Bayle-Van Vleck.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Hallie Bayle and Mr. James Van Vleck of New York City, who will be married Wednesday evening, May 15, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Celeste Bayle. Rev. John Day will officiate.

Miss Bayle will be attended by her sister, Miss Phoebe Bayle, as maid of honor; Miss Florence Fox as bridemaid and Mrs. John McAdams matron of honor.

Mr. Van Vleck will have Mr. William Young of New York for best man and Mr. Herbert Cleveland, Mr. Luther Smith and Mr. George Bayle as groomsmen.

The ceremony, which will be witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends, will be followed by a small reception.

Bride and bridegroom will leave the same evening for an Eastern wedding journey, after which they will be at home in New York City.

Mrs. Robert Harvey Here.

Mrs. Robert Harvey, who has been living in the Southwest for several years, is at present a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Kingsland. Mrs. Harvey was formerly Miss Bessie Kingsland. She will remain until the middle of the month, and was last Friday joined by Mr. Harvey. They are to sail for Europe this spring, and after completing their visit here will remain all summer abroad. Friday afternoon Mrs. Dan Russell gave a luncheon for Mrs. Harvey, entertaining some of her old friends, among them being Mrs. Thomas Maffitt, Miss Georgette Boswell, Miss Grace Morrill, Mrs. Samuel Plant and Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni.

Miss Humphrey Here.

Miss Mary Churchill Humphrey of Louisville arrived last Friday to visit Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. January. She will remain a fortnight. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Davis entertained a party of young girls at luncheon for her visitor. This was given at the country home of Mrs. Davis near the Country Club and Clayton. Among those who lunched with Mrs. Davis and Miss Humphrey were Miss May Filley, Miss Margery Thornburgh, Miss Louise Thayer, Miss Marguerite Tower, Miss Margaret Cabell, Miss Nellie Wickhem, Miss Emma Drew, Miss Louise Nugent.

Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Davis gave a small dinner at the Country Club for their guest, inviting both married and unmarried.

Irish-American Society.

The Irish-American Society will give a dinner and reception at the Jefferson Hotel Thursday night in honor of Archbishop Hardy of Manila, who is visiting St. Louis friends.

Music will be furnished by Mrs. Patrick F. Gill and the Hayden Quartet.

Short talks will be given by D. R. Francis, Rev. Leon Harrison, Archbishop Glennon, Capt. Henry King, Mr. Frank P. Furlong and Archbishop Hardy.

The dining room will be draped with American and papal colors. At the south end of the room will be an American flag composed of 1000 colored electric lights.

Archbishop Hardy will remain in St. Louis until June 1, when he will return to Manila.

Among those who will be present at the reception Thursday night are: Messrs. and Mmes. Frank Furlong, John C. Sullivan, P. J. Kelley, E. J. Piper, Alex McDonald, James Haley, Anson Murphy, Frank O'Neil and Judge and Mrs. James D. Fox.

Mrs. Edward H. Semple, 4411 Westminster place, entertained informally Monday afternoon, inviting 100 young matrons and girl friends of her daughter, Miss Walter Gracen, of New York, for tea at 4 o'clock. Miss Semple and Miss Grace Semple assisted. The rooms were simply trimmed with flowers, with no attempt at specific and set decorations. The tea table was trimmed in sweet peas. Some of those who found this function a pleasant one were:

Mmes. Thomas Maffitt, Byron Babbitt, Charles Polk, Charles Moore, Fred Semple, Henry Boeckeler, George Hitchcock, George Steedman, Sterling Edmunds, Guido Pantaleoni, Charles Randolph, Ralph McKittrick, Sam Plant, Bert Ewing, David R. Francis Jr., the Misses Josephine Cobb, Florence Orrick, Grace Morrill, Edith Morrill, Irene Catlin, Nellie Wickham, Julia Maffitt, Eugenia McBlair, Mary Fullerton, Minnie Scott.

Rubinstein Club.

The Rubinstein Club closed a successful season with a delightful musical at Becker's Hall last Friday evening. An exquisite barcarolle by Chaminade and the famous Lucia Sextette were well rendered and enthusiastically received. The instrumental numbers were equally attractive, including selections for organ, piano and violin.

The following participated: Miss Carolyn A. Allen, Mr. John A. Rohan, Mrs. Carl J. Luyties, Mr. Lyrie W. Lyon, Mrs. M. Skrainka, Miss Eva E. Murphy, Mrs. Charles J. Daly, Miss Mary E. Dierkes, r. Charles A. Kaub, Mr. Rene L. Becker, Mrs. G. W. Justison, Mr. James J. Rohan, Mr. Camilla M. Becker and Mr. Leslie Cash. Miss Finn was the acompanist.

Mrs. Robert Hardy Here.

Mrs. Robert Hardy, who has been living in the Southwest for several years, is at present a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Kingsland. Mrs. Hardy was formerly Miss Bessie Kingsland. She will remain until the middle of this month, and was Friday joined by Mr. Hardy, who will also be a St. Louis guest. They are to sail for Europe this spring, after completing their visit here, and remain all summer abroad.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Dan Russell of Delmar boulevard entertained in honor of Mrs. Hardy, giving a luncheon. A dozen old friends of Mrs. Hardy were invited, among them being Mrs. Thomas Maffitt, Miss Grace Morrill, Miss Georgette Boswell, Miss Lackland, Mrs. Samuel Plant and Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni.

Personal Mention

Miss Anna Force, who has just returned from a country visit, will be one of the "Old Mill" assistants.

Miss Dula of New York City is in St. Louis for the Charity Carnival. She is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sel Edgar Jr.

The annual luncheon given by the Monticello Students' Association will be an event of Tuesday, at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett will leave early in July to spend the summer abroad. Mrs. Bartlett will spend most of her summer in Paris, studying vocal music.

Mrs. Clark Sampson and the Misses Sampson are entertaining Mrs. Joseph Hlebel and Miss Ella Hlebel of Tacoma, Wash. They will give a tea for the visitors Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Lackland, Miss Lackland and Miss Caroline Lackland departed Sunday noon for New York, to be present on Saturday at the wedding of Mr. Edgar C. Lackland Sr. and Mrs. Frances Page.

Mr. and Mrs. George Willard Teasdale, Mr. Willard Teasdale, and Mrs. Beckley and the others of their European party, departed at noon Monday for New York, and will sail for the Mediterranean Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunbar Fisher, who are to join this party, went to New York last Saturday.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

Dorothy Linder's Birthday.

A party was given in honor of little Dorothy May Linder's third birthday, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Linder, on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon. The little hostess was the recipient of many pretty birthday remembrances. Those present were Mrs. Sarah Linder, the great-grandmother of the little hostess, and

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

The Dignity and Sacredness of Motherhood.

Think of the greatest man who has ever lived upon this earth, and then think of him as he lay, an infant, in his mother's arms. Does it seem possible that he should have grown, become great in the world's estimate and perhaps had monuments erected to perpetuate his memory, and yet that the world should have forgotten even the name of the woman who bore him? The son's work is the mother's primarily, and therefore, the recognition of the dignity and tender sacredness of motherhood should no longer be delayed. It is high time that this country's greatest treasures—THE WOMEN WHO HAVE CONTRIBUTED LARGELY TO MAKE IT WHAT IT IS—should be recognized.

Why should not these good mothers be given the right to vote and have a voice in our government—a right that is accorded to some of the most ignorant, most insignificant and vilest of men?

It has been well said that "for every monument to a great man there should be a monument to his mother and the mother's monument should be built first."

But it is not so much the purpose of this brief article to advocate the just rights and privileges due to the women of this country, although it has afforded the writer great pleasure to pen the foregoing brief tribute to their worth and just deserts, as it is to call attention to the fact that when broken down in health and strength by overwork, the never-ending toil, worry and care of the household, or by whatever may overtax the strength and delicacy of her sensitive system, there is one, tried and proven, safe remedy upon which she may rely to regain health, strength and the power to fully enjoy life.

That remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy made wholly from the roots of native forest plants which have been proven to be most efficacious, reliable and safe in the cure of woman's weaknesses, wasting and weakening catarrhal, drains and kindred ailments. It is a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements, and the only one which contains no alcohol in its make up.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilarating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which, from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood, are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants, which is most deplorable. "Favorite Prescription" is the one remedy for woman's ills which contains no alcohol.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system.

If a woman has bearing down or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening, disagreeable, catarrhal drain from organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. Being made of native American medicinal roots, and without alcohol, it is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts lasting strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus' dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon organic diseases of the womanly organs. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely today than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

A CRITICAL GUIDE TO WEEK'S LEADING PLAYS.

"Charley's Aunt" at Garrick.—A clever revival of this excellent farce-comedy, with Etienne Girardot in the title role, which he created, supported by a capable company.

"Buster Brown" at Grand.—Jimmie Rosen satisfying in title role, originally played by Master Gabriel, and fairly well supported.

"We Are King" at Imperial.—Lawrence Evart follows Walker Whiteside in leading role and gives effective portrayal. Romantic story along "Prisoner of Zenda" lines. Company competent.

ETIENNE GIRARDOT was appeared in the diverting title role of the revived "Charley's Aunt" that began its week's engagement at the Garrick last night, is one of the most remarkable personages in petticoats that has ever come down the St. Louis pike—not even excepting the World's Fair showing, when the Pike was crowded with astonishing personages in petticoats.

I had seen him years ago, when he first appeared in this amusing role, but had forgotten just how nimble a mere man could be in the decorous garb of a presumably prim and elderly woman. He makes me think of the agile performers at the flea circus, which St. Louis has seen of late. An abnormal activity, a sort of bounding, india-rubber quality that doesn't seem to diminish with age, is his—and, coupled with a sort of primitive sense of humor that always makes a strong appeal to the multitudes, this unceasing elasticity of body and simplicity of comedy methods constitutes about all the substance attaching to the play which is now again risking about on the stage after having been buried in the limbo of dead and gone things for so many dramatic seasons.

No, after all, such a commentary isn't quite fair to "Charley's Aunt," which is really a side-splitting farce—one of the sterling old kind that make you laugh whether you will or not, and that send you home shaking with the aftermath of laughter. Such farces are not written nowadays—it belongs to the category of "Box and Cox" and "Toodles" and "Lend Me Five Shillings" and other veterans of that ilk, and, like them, it can be played before any generation and tickle the ribs of those who see it. Its central figure is Charley's aunt, of course, and this amazing female is almost always in evidence, but its clever story has also created other good comedy figures that call for appreciative effort on the part of a worthy producing company.

Such a company is now supporting Etienne Girardot at the Garrick, and, backing up his effective work, the result is an evening of fun which one is apt to remember gratefully. Wilfrid North and Col Aiken, as two superannuated beaux of the old school, are genuine comedy figures, and admirable work is done also by Nina Herbert, Helena Byrne, Pauline Neff, Frank Hollins, George Le Guere, Lottie Alter, Charles Seagrave and others, in consequence of which the revived old play goes with a youthful rush of gayety delightful to witness.

But always, while giving due credit to the supporting cast, the mind goes back to Mr. Girardot in the title role—the storm center of a plot so full of complicated situations bubbling over with honest fun that I defy anyone to follow its course with a straight face. It's really a wonderful achievement on the part of Mr. Girardot, just as the play itself sets a pace in farce that would be difficult for any of our present-day playwrights to follow. Revivals of plays are dangerous experiments as a rule, yet, when a play is so rich in inherent low comedy as is "Charley's Aunt," we encounter the exception that proves the rule—and laughter itself compels us to commend the old even while clamoring for the new in the regular order of things.

It's well worth seeing, this dug-up "Charley's Aunt"—if only to study the curious spectacle of a middle-aged man who is fully as alert in what may be called the comedy of mind and body commingled as he was a score of years ago. Etienne Girardot presents this spectacle to the new generation.

"Buster Brown" at Grand.

With Jimmie Rosen in the title role the new production of "Buster Brown" began a week's engagement at the Grand yesterday afternoon and last night. The play is well presented by a capable company, there is a pretty chorus, much singing and dancing, and the costuming and stage effects are pleasing. A number of interesting specialties are introduced. The two big audiences of yesterday gave the production a welcome which promises well for a successful week.

"We Are King" at Imperial.

Lawrence Evart, who used to play in support of Walker Whiteside, gave at the Imperial yesterday afternoon a very creditable portrayal of the star role in "We are King," formerly played by Mr. Whiteside, and began a week's engagement by commending himself quite favorably to a St. Louis audience. The play tells a delightful comedy story, and Mr. Evart's work is characterized by a dashing quality in keeping with the part essayed. He is satisfactorily supported and the scenic production of the play is pleasing.

"Human Hearts" at Havlin's.

"Human Hearts," a realistic drama already familiar to local audiences, and of great popularity, began its week at Havlin's with yesterday's matinee. Pathos and humor mingle in the play's story, the scenes of which are laid in the Arkansas hills, and the sympathies of the audience are aroused early and sustained until the close. Many of the old favorites in the cast have been retained, and the few changes that have been made are in the nature of improvements. The scenic equipment is distinctly picturesque.

New Bill at Columbia.

Col. Gaston Bordeverry, the world's champion rifle and pistol shot, is the star attraction on the Columbia's new bill, opening this afternoon. Other features are Jessie Couthoui, the favorite comedienne, and her company, in a sketch entitled "Eleven-Forty, P. M."; Kelly and Violette, "the fashion-plate singing duo;" Lew Sully, in a new monologue and parodies; the Musical Goolmans, the Kates Brothers, acrobats, and new kinodrome pictures.

Fay Foster Co. at Standard.

Joe Oppenheimer's Fay Foster company began the Standard's week with yesterday's matinee. The entertainment comprises a spectacular farce entitled "Do-all, or, in Merry Old England;" a burlesque entitled "The Seaside Hotel" and an olio introducing Bessie Phillips, soubette; the Great Caroll, male soprano, and others.

Rose Hill Folly Co. at Gayety.

To the Gayety yesterday afternoon came the Rose Hill Folly Company for the week in a three-act musical comedy entitled "The Royal Billy Goats." Geo. W. Rice heads the cast in the leading comedy role, and others appearing are T. F. Thomas, eccentric comedian; John E. Cain, Blanche Newcombe, Cain and Evans, Henrietta Wheeler, Patton and Van, musical artists, and Idylla Vyner, comedienne.

Forest Park Highlands' New Bill.

Forest Park Highlands began the week auspiciously yesterday with a new bill of much attractiveness. Lillian Berry Reid, a Southern singer, was heard as the soloist with Weil's Band, and made a favorable impression. The vaudeville bill includes the Three Weston sisters, singers and instrumentalists; Harry Richards and company, in a bright comedy sketch; Howard and Howard, dialect comedians; Kelly and Calbert, in a talking and singing turn; Palfrey and Hoelfer, European bicyclists, and the polyscope.

"The Deserted Bride" at Eclipse Garden.

The Stanley Stock company and other attractions drew crowds to Eclipse Garden yesterday, and the second week of the Eclipse season began boomingly. The new dramatic offering for this week, beginning tomorrow evening, is "The Deserted Bride," an interesting melodrama of great heart interest, which succeeds the excellent Stanley production of "Blue Grass." Illustrated songs and specialties between the acts adds to the attractiveness of the entertainment.

Viola Allen at Olympic.

Viola Allen begins a week's engagement in repertoire at the Olympic this evening, with "Cymbeline" as the opening bill, repeated Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinee. "Twelfth Night" will be presented Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, and for the Wednesday matinee the offering is a bill compising scenes from "As You Like It," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Mechant of Venice" and "The School for Scandal," with Miss Allen appearing, respectively, as Rosalind, Juliet, Portia and Lady Teazle.

"The Stain of Guilt."

The large and conspicuous billboards announcing the coming of "The Stain of Guilt," the offering at Havlin's Theater the week of May 26, which greeted the patrons of that playhouse yesterday afternoon, go to show that Manager Garen is determined that the attraction shall be forcefully heralded. The posters were hung side by side and most of the space on the walls was covered by them. The largest and most novel of these placards was one 12 by 20 feet, which covered the drop curtain of the house completely.

PROGRAM TO BE VARIED.

Many Features Scheduled for the Charity Carnival.

The program arranged for the Charity Carnival at Delmar Garden next Friday will be varied and will completely fill the time between 2 and 11 p. m. The events will be given as follows:

2:00 p. m., opening concert by Military band.
3:00 p. m., military calisthenics.

Burglars in Closed Saloon.

While the "kid" was on Sunday a burglar or burglars entered the saloon of Charles Mindel at 1441 North Broadway through a rear window. When leaving they took 10 bottles of whisky, two quarts of gin and several bottles of wine. The police of the Carr Street District arrested two men whom they found drinking in a lodging house room and booked them as suspects. The evidence consisted of one bottle of whisky.

Etienne Girardot as "Charley's Aunt,"

BRIEF BIOGRAPHIES OF NOTABLE STARS OF WEEK.

VIOLA ALLEN, now appearing in repertoire at Olympic.—Born in the South, daughter of C. Leslie Allen of Boston, famous as an old-school character actor. Made professional debut at Madison Square Theater, New York, in "Esmeralda" when 15 years of age. Shortly afterward was engaged by John McCullough to play Virginia, Desdemona, Cordelia and other leading woman roles. Later played with Lawrence Barrett, Tommaso Salvini, Joseph Jefferson and William J. Florence. Was leading woman at Boston Museum for one season, also at Empire Theater, New York, in 1893. In 1897 created leading woman roles in "Liberty Hall," "Sowing the Wind," "The Masqueraders," "Under the Red Robe," etc., and in 1898 starred as Glory Quayle in "The Christian." In 1900 she produced "In the Palace of the King," by F. Marion Crawford and Lorimer Stoddard, and in 1902 appeared as Roma in Hall Caine's "Eternal City." Gave series of Shakespearean revivals in 1903, producing "Twelfth Night," "A Winter's Tale," etc. Married to Peter Duryea.

ETIENNE GIRARDOT, now appearing in "Charley's Aunt" at Garrick.—Born in Paris, France, 1860. Began stage career in early 70s. Played in England with Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft and John Hare. Scored successes in "Almost a Life" and "The Yellow Dwarf." Played Silas Hobbs in "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Played Antonio in role of old French exquisite in "The Crossing." Played the role of Valentine Favre with Mrs. Fiske in "Leah Kleschna." Starred for several years in "Miss Francis of Yale." Engaged by Charles Frohman for the title role in "Charley's Aunt," which he has played upwards of 2000 times. NELSON STRIKERS STILL OUT

None Return to Last Day Given Them.

None of the striking machinists of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co. at Leclaire, Ill., returned to work Monday morning, notwithstanding Mr. Nelson's ultimatum that he would employ other nonunion mechanics unless the strikers were at their places before the end of the day.

Both plants of the company resumed operations at the usual hour, with 25 helpers doing in part the work of the strikers. These helpers are not members of any union.

Mr. Nelson said Monday that the men had the entire day in which to comply with his order. Failing their return to work as nonunion men before the close of business, they would be considered straingers, he said.

Mr. Nelson said he would not arbitrate with his former employes while the strike was in progress.

The strikers have announced that they are willing to leave the settlement of the controversy to the Illinois State Board of Arbitration.

GOVERNMENT TAKES A HAND

D. & R. G. Railroad and Trainmen Must Come to Terms.

DENVER, May 6.—Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Charles P. Neil, United States Labor Commissioner, who arrived in Denver last evening, held conferences today with representatives of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad and of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors with a view to adjusting the differences between the company and the two organizations of employes on the question of wages. They first will attempt to adjust the differences amicably and if they fail in this they will endeavor to secure the agreement of both sides to submit the case to arbitration under the Erdman law.

Stories of Beating Vary.

Adam Jackson, 34 years old, of 2461 South Grand avenue, was found lying in a hallway on Market street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, at 3 a. m. Monday, bleeding from scalp wounds. At the Central District Station Jackson first said he had been attacked by highwaymen somewhere on Broadway, and later told of being cheated out of $90 in a card game and being beaten when he protested. His wounds were dressed at the City Dispensary and he was locked up to get sober so the police could get a clearer story of his troubles.

BIG BUSINESS INCREASE.

Grain Receipts Show Large Gain Over Last Year.

Statistics compiled by Secretary George H. Morgan of the Merchants' Exchange show that the receipts of grain in St. Louis for the four months ending May 1 were, approximately, 7,000,000 bushels more than during the corresponding period last year. This year receipts were 29,785,000 bushels; last year's 22,816,000.

Secretary W. F. Saunders of the Business Men's League says that business this year shows an increase in all lines over the corresponding period of last year. Estimates made by mercantile statistical experts declare that the financial institutions have added $25,000,000 to their resources during the past year and that $15,000,000 of new capital has been invested in manufacturing and industrial establishments since Jan. 1.

It is also estimated that the volume of business during the first quarter of the year was about 20 per cent greater than last year.

CIVIC WORK ENGAGES 200.

League Issues 52-Page Pamphlet as Report.

The Civic League Monday issued its annual report, in the form of a pamphlet of 52 pages, entitled "A Year of Civic Effort." On the cover page is a quotation from Lyman Abbott, expressing the policy of the league: "On these municipal questions let there be light, not heat."

The report contains addresses made by President H. T. Kent and Secretary Mayo Fessler at the last annual meeting, the reports of the 16 committees for 1906, the constitution of the league and a list of the new committees. The report shows that 200 persons were actively engaged in civic improvement work last year. For the present year 19 committees have been appointed.

THREE OUT FOR JUDGESHIP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 6.—The Democrats of the Third Judicial District have convened here today to nominate a candidate for election to the vacancy created by the death of the late Judge Wilkin. While it appears that Judge Creighton of Sangamon County will probably be the nominee, unexpected opposition has developed. Judge W. L. Pettyman of Tazewell County and Judge Thomas J. Rich of Champaign County have quite a following. So far there are no other candidates.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

YALE-MIDDY RACE IS OFF.

RAIN UPSETS BASEBALL GAMES.

YALE-MIDDY RACE IS DECLARED OFF

General Belief That Elis Will Not Visit the Naval Academy Again.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 6.—The boat race between the crews of Yale and the Naval Academy, which was scheduled for Saturday and postponed because of unfavorable conditions, has been called off entirely owing to the direction of the Yale faculty, and the Yale party have left for New Haven. After the postponement of Saturday, it was agreed that the race should be rowed this morning, but Yale authorities vetoed this arrangement, much to the disappointment of the Naval Academy.

There is a general belief that Yale has raced at Annapolis for the last time, although Coach Kennedy declined to make a statement upon this point. It is said that the trip requires the expenditure of a considerable amount of both time and money and that it necessitates too much preparation to be continued. Particularly is this so since the academy has been turning out such strong crews.

HARVARD CREW WILL TRY AN ENGLISH SHELL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 6.—The Harvard varsity crew will experiment with an English shell on the Charles next fall. The boat has been ordered from Sims & Sons at Putney, England, and is expected to be delivered in August. No specifications have been given the builders and their orders were simply to construct a shell for the Harvard varsity eight.

The shell is to be made exactly like those now being built for the crews that will compete in the Henley regatta. This means that the sliding oar locks, short outriggers and arrangement of seats that make the English shell so different from the American will be tried at Cambridge.

Last summer there was considerable discussion as to which country produced the better shells. Theoretically the American boat is supposed to be based upon the style of the single-sculler, while the Englishmen claim that their rowing in eights is very different from that in single-scull rowing, and as such requires a differently constructed boat. Their men in the eight-oared boat sit on the side away from the outrigger, the port men sitting nearer the starboard side of the boat and the starboard men sitting to port. This affords a greater increased leverage, English experts say.

The American leverage is practically the same in number of inches, but with their shorter riggers the Englishmen have a greater part of their oars swinging over the shell itself. This, they claim, affords them a firmer grip on the water and thus enables them to keep the boat steady and on an even keel with much less effort. On the other hand, the American idea is that a single line of backs offers less resistance to the wind than the double line of the Englishmen.

YALE SCHEDULE SHOWS ONLY TWO CHANGES

Yale's football schedule for next fall is practically the same as that of last year. All the games with the big colleges will be played on the same dates as they were last season. A game with Villanova has been substituted for the Penn State contest on Oct. 26 and one will be played with Washington and Jefferson instead of Amherst on Nov. 2. Ten games will be played as follows:

Oct. 5—Wesleyan at New Haven.
Oct. 5—Syracuse at New Haven.
Oct. 9—Springfield Training School at New Haven.
Oct. 12—Holy Cross at New Haven.
Oct. 19—West Point at West Point.
Oct. 26—Villanova at New Haven.
Nov. 2—Washington and Jefferson at New Haven.
Nov. 9—Brown at New Haven.
Nov. 16—Princeton at New Haven.
Nov. 23—Harvard at Cambridge.

FOR THE DAVIS TENNIS TROPHY

NEW YORK, May 6.—An official notice has been received from the English Lawn Tennis Association relative to the international challenge matches for the Dwight F. Davis cup. It states that arrangements have been made to play the preliminary tie between America and Australia at Wimbledon Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, July 13, 14 and 15, and the challenge tie with the winning nations against the English holders Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, July 20, 22 and 23.

MISS SUTTON ARRANGES MATCH WITH SANDS

NEW YORK, May 6.—Miss May Sutton is reported to have arranged an odd match in her training for her lawn tennis trip abroad. She is going to meet Charles E. Sands, the court tennis champion of 1905, in a match at the St. Nicholas Rink on Wednesday next. Sands is well known for his ability on the lawn tennis courts. There is great interest in the match.

PITCHER WALSH IN SERIOUS CONDITION

White Sox Taken to Hospital as Result of Injuries Saturday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., May 6.—On the advice of President Charles Comiskey, Pitcher Edward Walsh of the White Sox, who was seriously injured in Saturday's game at Bennett Park, is being removed to St. Bernard Hospital, Chicago. The big Chicago pitcher is much more seriously injured than was even surmised, as, in addition to the severe strain of his neck, shoulders and muscles, his kidneys were severely injured. He was much worse yesterday and in extreme pain.

While admitting that his case is very grave and that the injuries may prove fatal, Dr. Kirby says he may pull through all right.

SCHAEFER EXPLAINS THE COLLISION

Herman Schaefer, the Tigers' second sacker who got twisted up with Pitcher Edward Walsh in Detroit Saturday when the Sox pulled off the first triple play of the season and in which big Walsh was badly shaken up, is here at the Planters with the "Tiges." Schaefer is worried over the reports sent out from Detroit as to the condition of Comiskey's great "spitz" ball artist.

"It was in the fourth inning of the contest when the accident occurred," Schaefer said today. "Rossman was on third and I was on second. Charlie Schmidt lined one hard at Quilan, who was working on third base. He mitted Schmidt's roller and lined the ball to Sullivan at the plate to stop big Rossy, who made a dash to score.

"Rossman instead backed up and Sullivan chased him down the line, touching him out close to the plate. Schmidt turned first on the play and was heading for second. After Sullivan had touched Rossman and seeing Schmidt making for second, he threw the ball to Roe. The latter put the ball on Charlie all right.

"I had in the meantime cut loose and while they were killing Schmidt at second had turned third and was tin-canning for the plate at a 10-second clip. Pitcher Walsh saw me coming and he chased in and covered the plate. Roche after tagging Schmidt handed the ball hard and low to Walsh. I was racing like the wind to score and the ball hit Walsh's glove just as I struck the pan. Walsh was in my way and of course I couldn't stop.

"I hit him hard and he fell to the ground apparently unconscious. The jar knocked me fully six feet away and as Walsh had dropped the leather and as I was unable to get up Davis came in and picking up the ball completed the triple play. Though pretty badly shaken up myself I found strength enough to hurry to the assistance of my friend Walsh.

"I only hope he is not seriously injured, as the collision certainly could not have been prevented."

Schaefer sent a wire to Walsh this morning, asking his condition.

Both local clubs have so far indulged in 18 contests. The Cardinals have won 3 and lost 16. The Browns have played 18 games and 5 times have they been called winners and "13" misses have been charged up to them.

Of the Cardinal band, Byrne, Beckley, Arndt and Holly are the only ones hitting the ball to amount to anything. Little Byrne leads with a mark of .381. Reliable Jake Beckley follows closely with .277. Harry Arndt, who has worked in but eight games, ranks third with a notch of .267. Holly, who has worked in 18 games follows with a .266 record. The others are strung out down to the .200 mark.

The Cardinals appear to possess some little ability with the willow, but the club taken as a whole is a poor fielding team. All its games have been lost so far through misplays made at critical stages of the game. The club tied up with Cincinnati again yesterday and lost its thirteenth straight game. Buster Brown and "Hully Gee" Hostetter attempted to do the hill work against the Reds. Both boxmen were very wild, Hostetter handing out five bases on balls and Brown three. Then a bundle of errors of omission and commission helped the Reds to pile up 11 runs and the game. The Cardinals on the other hand were unable to do anything with Coakley, Connie Mack's castoff.

The Browns returned from Cleveland yesterday morning but of course could not play on account of the continued rain which soaked the diamond badly. Indications today point to another postponement. The diamond this morning resembled a lagoon more than a baseball park, as a result the Tigers and Browns will take another lay off.

Glancing over the averages it is no hard matter to immediately discover just why the Browns have not won more games. Ollie Pickering and Bobby Wallace are the two lone members of the band who are slugging the leather in anything like a consistent and effective manner. Pickering stands high man with .357, and little Bobby looms up with an even .300. Niles, who has however, only shown in five games so far leads both with a notch of .429. But Bobby and Ollie have worked in 18 games.

Champion Slugger of the Map George Stone, whom Mr. Hedges will be forced to pay $5000 for this season's work, has tripped along at a .179 bargain sale clip so far. Then there is the slugging Hemphill standing up with a tag of .173 attached to his swat stick. Delehanty and Yeager stack up a few points better than the oher pair. From a fielding standpoint, however, the club looms up strongly.

Hughie Jennings and his hustling band of "Tiges" are here waiting an opportunity to tear "the poor Browns" to pieces.

Should the present siege of inclement weather continue it might be a good idea for the moguls of both big leagues to get together and organize their teams into indoor nines or play basket ball.

Manager McCloskey endeavored to make a backstopper out of Arthur Hostetter, the pride of North Market street. Yesterday, however, he sent the big boy in to work on the hill. His initial attempt was a sad one.

From Cincy comes the word that Hostetter was a puzzle to the Reds. He certainly must have been, when he couldn't get one ball out of 10 over the pan.

The world's champions and Cleveland Blues met in Chicago yesterday. Addie Joss held Davis & Co. safe all the way and his club won out, 4—1. The Sox played a miserable game behind Altrock.

Deacon Phillippi, the Pirates wonderful old hillman, made another try in the box against the Cubs yesterday but lost out. The Deacon appeared against the Cardinals here some few weeks ago and got his in short order.

Bobby Byrne was sent back to shortfield yesterday by McCloskey. The little fellow cracked out two safe ones, scored a run and accepted seven chances cleanly.

Holly was moved from short to second and the Southern League recruit played nice ball.

BASEBALL PLAYERS BIG EATERS

CENTRAL HIGH IS THE BIG FACTOR

Grand Avenue Athletes Probably Will Further Cinch Their Championship Honors.

The victory of Central High School in the interscholastic track championships held at Columbia last Saturday would seem to indicate that the Red and Black should triumph at the high school meet to be given under the auspices of Washington University, in the middle part of May, and also in the annual interscholastic league games to be held on Decoration Day. This would insure to the Grand avenue school the undisputed premier honors of the State in field and track.

But it is by no means a foregone conclusion that such will be the result. In fact, the additional time given to the other schools of itself would be sufficient to make the outcome in the approaching meets decidedly uncertain, and when is added to this the possibility of accidents and the ever-hovering chance of the men going stale, it is apparent that the Red and Black will have to keep up to the mark.

But that the probability of their annexing this title is superior to any of their rivals.

The showing of the St. Louis athletes at the State University meet shows conclusively that the city possesses some splendid interscholastic men. Kieffer's work in the half and mile runs was exceptionally fine, and Baumberger's 22-1 for the 220 was also a grand performance. Nicholson's 66½ inches in the high and Nelson's 21 feet 4 inches in the broad jump also demonstrate that the local men have a clever number of field men.

FORSHAW SETS RECORD FOR THIRTEEN MILES

The second handicap test run in which 13 athletes participated and which was run from Belleville to the M. A. C. Club was won by that great roadster, Joe Forshaw. Joseph covered the distance of 13.1 miles in the remarkably fast time of 1h. 20m., which established a record for the distance. But not all the more remarkable because of the fact that a heavy rain had softened the pikes all along the route. There is no telling just how fast Forshaw would have jigged had the roads been hard and fast. Forshaw left Belleville at 10:45, giving the squad a 10-mintes start. At Edgemont, six and one-half miles from the start, Forshaw made up five minutes of the handicap.

The starters finished in the following order: Forshaw, 1h. 20m.; W. Fraesenfelder, 1h. 33m.; Walter Zeltler, 1h. 35m.; D. C. Watson, 1h. 37m.; Will Campbell, 1h. 38m.; C. S. Brown, 1h. 40m.; W. P. Carroll, 1h. 44m.; E. B. Marschuetz, 1h. 45m.; W. C. Horstmann, 1h. 45m.; H. W. Guest, Louis Lanz, H. J. Jones and F. C. Wildberger all finished within the next 10 minutes.

ROWING CLUB HOUSE FORMALLY OPENED

The Western Rowing Club gave its initial entertainment and feast of the season yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the formal dedication of its new clubhouse and the laying of the corner stone of its boathouse. Though weather conditions were anything but favorable for such, there were fully three thousand members and guests on the grounds when Albert Stocker, master of ceremonies, called at 3 o'clock and called the guests down to the river bank, where the corner stone was to be placed in position.

He introduced President Julius F. Mueller and H. C. Koenig, chairman of the Building Committee. Both made short addresses, commenting on the plans of the club and the benefits to be derived from membership in the organization.

DYER NEW HEAD OF BASEBALL LEAGUE

The resignation of John M. Reed, the president of the United Baseball Association, who has for the time being forsaken baseball, has resulted in a shifting of the officers and an election to fill vacancies. Under the rules of the U. B. A., the vice-presidents of the association succeed to the presidency in the order of their seniority, and under this rule William Dyer will succeed to the place.

Mr. Dyer is rather modest about accepting the duties of president as he feels that he is more at home on the diamond. But the members feel that his store of experience will be invaluable to the association and he will have to serve his term.

Dyer has had an extensive career as an amateur manager, and has been uniformly successful in winning games and selecting players, so that his election will be a distinct advantage to the association. There will also be elected a third vice-president and an executive board of 15 members, so that the meeting will be a lively one.

The U. B. A. is now arranging for a baseball carnival for July 4, on which day both the big league teams will be away. The association intends to get together the very best amateur and semi-professional teams in and around St. Louis for a series of games at one of the league parks.

AMERICAN CHAMPION IN IRELAND MATCH

NEWCASTLE, Ireland, May 6.—Most of the competitors in the ladies' golf championship contest, which begins tomorrow, participated today in an 18-hole competition. The American champion, Miss Harriet S. Curtis of Massachusetts, turned in a score of 98. The leading score is that of Mrs. Sutpher, 86.

HEAVY TRACK FOR THE DERBY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—It has been raining all night and the track for the Kentucky Derby will be very heavy. This has caused a lengthening of odds on Arcite, which was figured to have the event in good going.

"BOSHTER BILL" SQUIRES

A correspondent wants to know the meaning of Bill Squires' Australian nickname, "Boshter Bill." One of the dictionary definitions of "bosh," from which it was probably derived, runs as follows: "A trade name for a mixture of butter and animal fats, imported into this country from Holland and sold as a cheay imitation of genuine butter."

No, that can't be it. That evidently belongs to Boshter Herr Henri John Joseph Plaacke.

Another is: "Bosh. To humbug (slang)."

Not yet. That must attach to Boshter Tommy Ryan.

Still another: "Bosh. Empty talk."

Nope. Doesn't quite fit. Personal property, no doube, of Boshter Billy Nolan.

One more: "To cut a bosh. To assume a fictitious appearance of importance."

Well, now. That may be Bill. We'll know better after he fights Mike Schreck at Colma May 30.

Biffs of Bouts.

THE winner of the Gardner-Lewis bout at Denver, May 21, will be matched to meet Mike (Twin) Sullivan in a finish fight before one of the Nevada clubs. Jimmy will probably have his worries, as it is said the Lowell boy carries the sleeper in either hand.

Toni Caponi and Billy Papke may be rematched to meet before some Chicago club. The former match fell through because clubs did not seem overly anxious in bidding for the bout Caponi's manager will make a side bet of several hundred dollars.

There is another judge of pugilists who does not think much of Bill Squires, the heavyweight champion of Australia. Jimmy Walsh watched Squires work in a gymnasium at Los Angeles a short time ago, and when he was asked by one of his friends what he thought of Squires as a fighter, he said: "I don't think much of him. If he ever fights Jim Jeffries I will bet every dollar I have that Jeff stops him in less than 10 rounds."

Young Corbett admits that boxing with him now is just a means of living. But at that he's been getting half killed.

The manager of Mike Schreck is not giving Squires much peace. Efforts are being made to arrange a match at Colma for Decoration Day, but the Australian seems to have some different notions as to his program.

Mistah Johnson may throw a few bad days into the Squires camp. The negro champ says the Australian dodged him in Kangaroo land and refused a match for $5000 a side. The dark one is now chasing Squires and has already been sighted off Honolulu.

Jimmy Britt has changed his mind about retiring from the ring. He has notified Jimmy Coffroth, the fight promoter of California, to match him against any lightweight in the business who will weigh in at 133 pounds. Coffroth has practically matched Britt to fight George Memsic, the Chicago fighter, for 20 rounds at a show to be brought off by Coffroth at Colma, Cal., on May 30.

HANLON EXPLAINS WHY CLEVELAND FAILS TO WIN

In discussing pennant-winning teams, Manager Fred Hanlon of the Cincinnati Reds recently said of the powerful Cleveland aggregation:

"The Cleveland team reminds me altogether too much of the old Philadelphia team, composed of Ed Delehanty, Lajoie, Flick and other great batsmen. The Quakers always started off at a great clip, threatening to do all sorts of things. But they never finished in front. Why? Because in midsummer, when the pitchers of the opposing clubs had rounded into condition and were going along at their best, the heavy hitters of the Philadelphia Club were at a disadvantage, and they had nothing to fall back on. In modern baseball pure and simple slugging will not carry any team through a season to a final victory. There will always be some pitchers that the sluggers cannot hit consecutively. Then the team to win must fall back on teamwork.

"I take it that the Cleveland Club like the old Quakers, has no resource in reserve. When its policy of straight hard hitting does not avail it is all at sea. The old Philadelphia Club was supposed to be the strongest in the league, and it was so, in pure mechanical ability, but it never won any pennants. For the same reason I do not believe that Cleveland will be able to capture the American League flag this season, or any other, so long as nothing but straightaway baseball is relied on."

ATHLETICS HELP IN PROLONGING LIFE

Statistics Prepared by Dr. McKenzie Show Training in Moderation Beneficial.

Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, director of physical training at the University of Pennsylvania, has compiled interesting data as to the relation of athletics to longevity. He is in favor of a moderate amount of athletic training as being beneficial in prolonging a man's life.

Dr. McKenzie divides athletics into two classes—exercises of effort and exercises of endurance. In the former he puts weight lifts, shot puts, sprints, etc., and in the latter walking, distance running, rowing, etc.

The pulse rate and blood pressure are enormously increased by exercise of the first kind; in the second kind the pulse rate and blood pressure rise more slowly and not so high, but they remain high and come down very slowly.

But the results are on the whole more beneficial than otherwise provided overindulgence is not allowed. "Take things easy" is his advice to athletes.

Rowing Dr. McKenzie considers the most dangerous form of sport, and on this subject he quotes E. H. Morgan, who has made an exhaustive study of the effects of rowing on 294 Oxford and Cambridge oarsmen. But even these men, he thinks, are more likely to live to a green old age than the average citizen.

English life tables compiled by Dr. Farr place the expectation of life of a man of 20 at 40 years. Statistics of the Oxford and Cambridge oarsmen show their expectation to be 42 years. Similar experiments which have been made in this country are even more favorable to the longevity of college oarsmen.

The real danger in athletics is the progressive loss of weight during the course of training. In order to bring the human machine up to its highest efficiency much of the fat which remains stored up to provide against cold or the extra strain of a severe constitutional infection like pneumonia is used up.

Physical examination by competent physicians before entering any course of training should be made imperative. Then many, if not all, of the fatalities which mar athletics would be prevented.

LONDON FIGHTER COMING AFTER BATTLING NELSON

Another English fighter is coming to this country to challenge Battling Nelson. Jack Goldswain of London has announced that he will sail for these shores next month with the expressed intention of getting on a match with the ex-lightweight champion. Goldswain weighs 140 pounds and will try to get Nelson to fight him at that weight, but if Nelson refuses to meet him under those conditions the Londoner will reduce to the lightweight limit.

Goldswain has tried for several months to get on a bout with Jabez White, the English lightweight champion, but White has refused on the ground that he has no time to train. He says the hotel which he owns outside of Birmingham is occupying all his time.

BOBBY WALTHOUR IS INJURED IN RACE

BERLIN, May 6.—"Bobby" Walthour, the American bicycle rider, met with a serious accident at Erfut yesterday. After winning a 50-kilometer heat against Van Derstuyft, Walthour fell from his wheel just after crossing the finish line, striking his head against a wooden railing. He was carried to the hospital unconscious.

OLSON ADOPTING GOTCH MAT STYLE

Swede Puts Invader From New England on Shoulders in Handy Fashion.

Ole Olson, Freddie Doerr and Frank Ream landed on top in the wrestling fest held at the Olympic Theater last night. Though the evening was cold, rainy and dreary, several hundred followers of the mat game attended.

The ferocious "Yankee" Rogers, champion of New England, a giant weighing close to 225 pounds, endeavored to beat Ole Olson in the main grapple of the evening. Olson, though weighing 30 pounds less than the Easterner, made him look like a novice in both tilts. The Swede sprung a bit of a surprise when he grabbed a toe hold on Rogers in the first bout and forced him to roll over helpless in 25 minutes.

Olson, it would appear, has mastered champion Gotch's favorite hold, and should the pair meet at the Olympic Theater next Sunday night, and the chances are they will, it will be a battle of toe holds.

In the second inning of the bout the big Swede made short work of his opponent. He diddled about the mat trying nelsons and locks, but after 10 minutes "kidding" he went after Rogers' foot again. It required only another minute to force the big fellow over and flat on his shoulders.

As predicted in these columns, the great little middleweight, Baptiste, found it an impossible task to throw Freddie Doerr three times in an hour. Doerr is much lighter than Baptiste and he certainly made the canvas man work hard. Baptiste worked 32 hard minutes before he was able to down little Freddie in the opening essay. He won this inning with a head lock. The pair went at it again and after 16 minutes of real hard fighting Baptiste again smothered his opponent with a head-lock hold. With only 12 minutes remaining, Doerr fought on the defensive and Baptiste could do nothing with him.

Frank Ream and Charles Lawrence appeared next in the 130-pound class. Ream proved the superior struggler in both bouts, winning easily. Al Wasem and Kid Parker wound up the show by wrestling 15 minutes to a draw.

Champion Frank Gotch announced his willingness to meet the winner of the son - Rogers bout when passing through the city the other day on his way to Kansas City. He declares that Olson is one of the most dangerous men in the country to tie up with right now.

MATHEWSON SHOWS THE BENEFITS OF EDUCATION

MATTY MATHEWSON is a shining example of the benefits of higher education. While in college Matty studied mathematics and baseball fervently. He solved the problem of applying the curvature of spira's to the spherical objects encased in horsehide. One day while looking over his text-books Matty discovered the following definition: "A transcendental is a curve in which the relation between the abscissa and the ordinate is expressed by a differential instead of an algebraic equation."

The ordinary, unlettered baseball player, like Rube Waddell, who never went to college, would have passed this by. Rube would have been puzzled. But Matty wasn't.

He read the definition twice to fix it firmly in his mind, and then, in the language of the poet, he "went out and done it." That's why Matty is considered the greatest of all college-bred pitchers. Nothing is too scientific for him to tackle. And the batters who lack his college training are finding it harder every year to follow the trend of his arguments.

Matty discovered the synclinal curve, in which, as he lucidly explains, "the start, dipping downwards towards each other have not an angle at the point, but a curve, so as to make a through or hollow-like basin." This one always fools the man with the knock-stick. While he is trying to swing on the ball without knocking the trough over he simply irritates the atmosphere.

Matty's brilliant career in college attracted so much attention that John McGraw offered his class of curvology in New York. He is now the highest salaried professor of curvation in the United States. And that's going some.

Matty has upset the ancient theory that "they never come back." Last year he seemed to have dropped out of the championship class, but today he is pitching better baseball than ever before. The explanation is easy. The theory that "they never come back" was first applied to fighting men. Fighters usually fall down through dissipation; they can't "come back," because the foundations of their energy and stamina are sapped. Matty never dissipated; he was sick. Being well and strong again, he has naturally recovered his powers, and this year he has the benefit of another season's experience.

S.S.S. A CERTAIN SAFE TREATMENT

Even if mercury and potash could cure Contagious Blood Poison the condition in which these strong minerals leave the system would make the "cure worse than the disease." But they cannot cure the vile disorder; they can only cover up the symptoms for awhile or mask the disease in the system, but as soon as the treatment is left off the hideous symptoms return. Mercury and potash eat out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia by drying up the gastric juices, cause the teeth to decay, and often completely break down the constitution, and where they are used in large quantities, the bones become affected, while the disease for which one has so long taken this destructive treatment has not been cured. Contagious Blood Poison is a disease it will not do to trifle with. It is a vile, dangerous and destructive disorder. When the blood becomes infected with its virus the mouth and throat ulcerate, hair and eyebrows come out, glands in the neck and groin swell, copper-colored spots appear on the flesh, and in severe cases sores break out on the body, the finger nails drop off and the sufferer is diseased from head to foot. S. S. S. is the only known antidote for Contagious Blood Poison—the one remedy that is able to get to the root of the disease and force out every particle of the poison so that there are never any signs of its return. It is purely vegetable, made entirely from roots, herbs and barks of known curative value. Instead of leaving bad after-effects as some medicines do, S. S. S. tones up every part of the system and puts every part of the body in perfect health. It will also remove any lingering effects of former mineral treatment while eradicating the poison from the circulation. Special book on the home treatment of this disease and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

LAST LOCAL GAME FOR WASHINGTON

After Saturday's Contest in Stadium Team Will Make Western Trip.

The stadium has been decided upon as the field of play for the third and last game of the St. Louis U.-Washington University baseball series. The game is to be played Saturday next. It will be the last local game for the myrtle and maroon team, which will end its season with a western trip.

The team will leave May 17 and will play Missouri at Columbia May 17 and 18. Kansas will be met at Lawrence for two games, May 20 and 21. On the next day the team will visit St. Marys, Kan., and engage with the strong St. Mary's College, which is reputed to have the strongest college team in the West. For the final game, Baker University has been scheduled for the 23d, and the team will be back in St. Louis on the 24th, the day before the dual track meet with Missouri at the Stadium.

Carson, Minges and Allsworth will from different causes be unable to accompany the team, and as the universities to be met by W. U. are exceptionally strong with the one exception of Missouri, it appears as if the Pikeway boys will have a hard task on their hands in winning the majority of their games on the trip.

FUTURE FIGHTING STARS GET SMALL PURSES

When Abe Attell won from George Dixon in the fall of 1901 he had just been brought from the West by Jack McKenna, who had found the San Francisco boy hanging around Young Corbett's training quarters in Denver.

Attell fought Harry Forbes and Kid Broad, and then went on with Benny Yanger. This was the biggest house he had battled before in his career, the receipts being more than $4000. Yanger got the verdict, the police stopping the fight in the nineteenth round. Out of the amount won Attell received exactly $15. Today Abe is able to draw down $1500 for a six-round go in Philadelphia, and is credited with making money rapidly.

Mike Schreck, who can now command a fair-sized sum in any battle, fought one of the hardest bouts of his career in January, 1902. In St. Louis with Hugo Kelly. The fight went 15 rounds and there was a total of $7000 in the house. The fighters divided $400. In their next go they drew $8000.

Jack (Twin) Sullivan, after fighting to small houses with Jack O'Brien at Philadelphia and Boston in 1903 went to St. Louis in 1904. O'Brien had never appeared there and was a drawing card. A house probably representing $1500 turned out to see them. O'Brien had asked $1000 flat for his end, which did not leave much for the club and Sullivan. Sullivan and O'Brien would draw several thousand dollars if they met.

TROLLEY LEAGUE OFFICERS' MEETING

Rain, wet grounds and cold weather was the cause of calling off all the games scheduled in the Missouri-Illinois League yesterday afternoon. There will be a meeting of the officers and managers of this league at Ziegenhein Hall, East St. Louis, tonight. The Ladies' Committee will attend, and a number of important matters pertaining to the placing of umpires will be discussed.

DATE IS SET FOR TRIPLE A MEET

Benefit for the Children's Playgrounds Will Be Held June 15.

The date for the annual children's playground field and track meet, held under the auspices of the Triple A Club, has been announced. June 15 is the day selected, and as usual it will be held on the Triple A track and grounds in Forest Park.

There had been some discussion of the advisability of making the races this year scratch events, but at the last moment it was decided to maintain the old custom and make them a handicap. This meet is practically the only affair in which the college, unattached and scholastic men are able to compete with a free and open chance for victory. And as the Western A. A. U. championships afford the opportunity for the men to compete from scratch and on equal terms, there was no necessity for the Triple A meet to be conducted in the same manner.

Twelve events have been scheduled, which include a special relay race open to all the athletic organizations in St. Louis. Owing to the poor facilities for the 220-yard hurdle and the hammer throw, these two events will not be carded. As the M. A. C. have decided not to give an outdoor meet this spring, the effect should be to draw to the playground meet an unusually large number of entries.

Clifton Heights Was Dry.

Water was again running Monday morning in kitchen sinks in Clifton Heights. Sunday afternoon a 16-inch main burst at Goodfellow avenue and Wabash tracks, and it was four hours before the damage was repaired.

"FIRST IN EVERYTHING."

"There ain't no core" to the World's Fair apple.

Every mother will forgive the Indiana boy who hugged his ma so tightly that her ribs broke.

The storks imported to Illinois are dead. They should be stuffed and sent to the White House.

INHUMAN PUBLIC BUSINESS.

The employes of the city government are living on expectation of pay. While the members of the Municipal Assembly are pottering with their petty personal concerns and delaying appropriations, the workers who have earned wages are compelled to undergo the hardship of living without means. The legislators who publicly condemn the Shylocks are offering them a golden harvest from the men who work for the city. The tradesmen must wait for their money until the Municipal Assembly in its good pleasure enables the city to pay its just obligations.

The situation is worse in State offices and institutions, the appropriations for which are exhausted. In many offices the employes have had no pay for four months. If a corporation should be guilty of inflicting such hardships upon employes, the air would be lurid with the execrations of the statesmen who are keeping the State's employes destitute of the means of living.

What a humane example to be set by a great State and a great city! In the light of it, what hypocrisy is embodied in laws compelling corporations to pay promptly!

Inhumanity and irregularity of this kind are reflections upon the State and city. They should be eliminated from public business.

The alarming intelligence that the Japanese Government is to purchase sample batteries of guns from all the principal manufacturers in England, France, Germany and the United States has perhaps reached the Pacific Coast by this time.

PRESERVING HISTORICAL VOICES.

As the Kaiser of Germany has sent over phonographic records of his voice to be preserved in the Congressional Library and the library of Harvard University, it follows of course that the collection of potent voices thus begun must be extended until it includes those of our own which have become or are now in process of becoming historical.

With the recorded voice of Wilhelm R. et I, we must have the historical voice of our own Theodore R. as a matter of course. But we or he or somebody, somehow, must decide what sentence of his is to live thus in the actual vibration of the historical atmosphere for all time to come.

Will it be, "Speak softly and carry a big stick and you will go far?" Or will it be, "The cultivation of the stork is the supreme necessity of civilization?" Or, "The best way to keep the peace is to be always ready to hit the other fellow first?" Or, "We must not judge Berserkers by our ordinary standards?" Or, "It would be criminal to prosecute for giving rebates in the past those who will love one another and keep the Ten Commandments hereafter?".

These suggest, but do no more than suggest, the embarrassment of our riches in historical voices which are still multiplying from the White House. Perhaps the only way out is to get them all summed up on a single phonographic record which will instruct all future generations that the way to be happy is to be virtuous, to shun all undesirable citizens, to have not less than seven children and never to make a statement which the President of the United States will be tempted to "characterize by a plain Anglo-Saxon monosyllable."

The Oklahoma gerrymander ought to be smashed, though it is not more unfair than Congress has been in keeping the Oklahomans out of the Union so long.

PRIVACY AND PUBLICITY.

When E. H. Harriman prosecutes Frank H. Hill for publishing the "Harriman letter," Magistrate Wahle of New York decides that "private letters of no literary value . . . are the absolute property of the writer thereof, subject only to the special provision that the receiver may publish when required in his own vindication."

The only result of such statements, which cannot, in any proper sense, be called legal decisions, is to emphasize the question of what a "private letter" is.

A letter from one private person to another, intended to secure privacy for a violation of law, could not be regarded in law or morals as a "private" letter.

Such a letter, even if not intended to promote an actual violation of law, could not be considered private if its purposes were to wrong the public or to take advantage of public defenselessness, real or imaginary.

Matters from private persons or officials, dealing with public interests, cannot properly be secured by law against publicity, when the object of which they are written is to secure secrecy in carrying out plans opposed to the public interest.

Such certainly are letters dealing with the raising of corruption funds for controlling elections. Such was the Harriman letter. The public interest demanded its publication. No such letter can be or ought to be a "private letter." It belongs in law to the same category with the tools of a burglar. The law can grant no privacy to the accessories and instruments of a criminal purpose.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt is to be a third-term President or a United States Senator, he should not fail to visit Missouri in the autumn.

OFFICIAL PARANOIA.

In his letter to Gov. Johnson of Minnesota, Chairman Burton of the Deep Waterway Commission shows that he is laboring under a delusion. Evidently he thinks the commission was formed for the purpose of giving the chairman a wider field for the demonstration of his personal importance, and for the exercise of his despotic disposition.

Mr. Burton writes Gov. Johnson that on account of the campaign of misrepresentation conducted by the officers of the commission who are also officers of the Business Men's League of St. Louis that he hardly feels that he can deal with them. This is unfortunate for Chairman Burton, because it makes it difficult for him to perform his proper function as chairman of the commission, which was created and organized, not to feed fat Mr. Burton's appetite for self-exaltation, but to work out the problem of improving the waterways of the country. If considerations affecting his own sense of personal worshipfulness prevent him from working with unsubservient associates, he is in the wrong place. If he does not recognize that the objects to be obtained are of more importance than his own feelings, and the work is greater than his petty personal ends, he is a misfit. In contrast with the real function of the commission, Mr. Burton's smallness is pitiful.

The chairman needs treatment for official paranoia, the most conspicuous symptom of which is "exaggerated ego."

Mr. Shaw's prophecy of a war for the Pacific may bust all the other fellows' booms. To save the country all parties may have to unite on Shaw and Hobson.

HUGGING IN INDIANA.

Our curiosity concerning Indiana as a general proposition is not lessened by the following news from Evansville:

Benjamin Reed broke two of his mother's ribs today while embracing her.

If the affectionate Hoosier hugs his mother like that, what a hug he must give his girl! Continuing to read the news from Indiana, we may expect soon to encounter this from Poseyville:

Josh Simpson broke Miss Hulda Morgan's back last night while embracing her.

Or the news from Wabash, on the banks of the same, may be even more sanguinary, to-wit:

While embracing last night, Sam Dabbs and Miss Samantha Snell were both badly injured. Sam's neck is thought to be broken.

Or there may an air of mystery in the news from Sycamore, viz:

Bill Yaggs and the widow Stevens were found dead in the widow's parlor this morning. It is supposed that they squeezed the breath out of each other.

Anyone who has ever shaken hands with any Hoosier other than Charles Warren Fairbanks is prepared for anything of this sort from the one State that is different.

As the Oklahoma gerrymander is not Republican, the President may be relied upon to give it the Big Stick.

A GOOD BUSINESS HABIT.

St. Louis was one of the first cities in the country to begin closing its stores on Saturday afternoons, beginning in May and continuing until October. St. Louis has made money by it. The statistics of the city's growth since this began show greater increases than were ever shown in any other 10 years of St. Louis history.

It may be taken for granted that this is due to the operation in all directions of the same active intelligence which showed itself when St. Louis brains worked to the conclusion that the health and satisfaction in life gained from closing Saturday afternoons were one of the best possible investments.

The same line of reasoning can be safely followed when retail merchants appeal to the comparatively few of their number who still keep open on Sundays. Sound brains are at work in the argument that those who do this are unjust to their own families and to all other families they help to deprive of recreation in the parks, with possibilities of getting rid of what might become disease and dissatisfaction with life.

Life consists in living. The object of all good business is to make better living possible for all concerned. The St. Louis summer closing habit ought to extend itself until the whole city has the full benefit of it. It is good business. There could be no better.

France's trade has attained unprecedented figures, says an official report. Are Americans expected to believe this of any foreign country?

SOOTHING THE SAVAGE.

From the New York World.

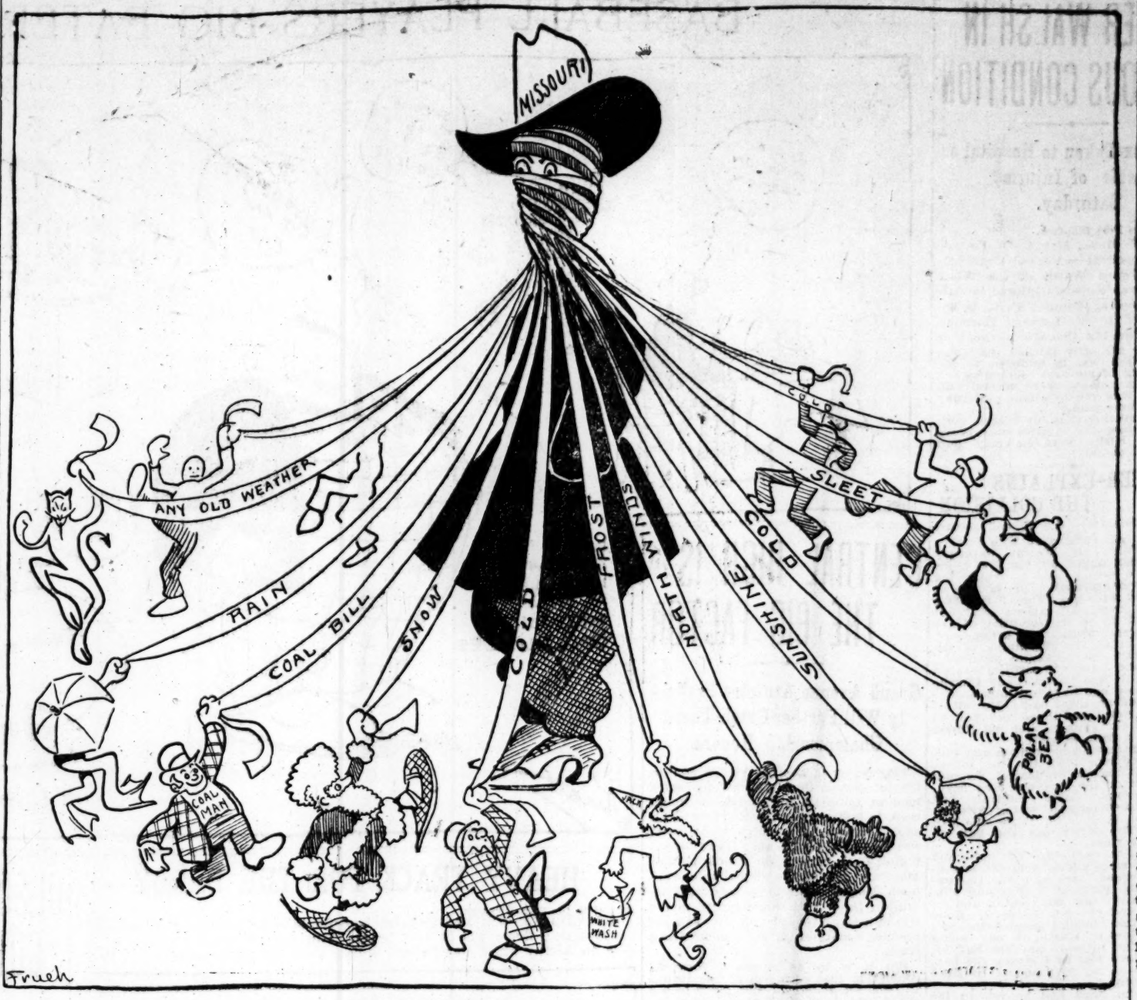

All at once, without warning, writes the tame Indian, describing his first dinner at a white man's table, the man struck the table with the butt of his knife with such force that I jumped and was within an ace of giving a war-whoop. In spite of their taking a firm hold of the home-made table to keep it steady, the dishes were quivering and the young ladies no longer able to maintain their composure. Severe glances from mother and father soon brought us calm, when it appeared that the blow on the table was merely a signal for quiet before saying grace.

HEMP MILLIONAIRES OF YUCATAN.

The wealth of the mines of Mexico is proverbial, yet there are nearly as many millionaires in Merida, the capital of Yucatan, a State with practically no mineral resources, as there are in all Mexico combined. Henequen, or sisal hemp, as it is sometimes known, has made Merida and its people rich.

KUROKI AND KUROPATKIN.

Genêral Kuroki is now advancing eastward by easy speeches. He addressed a community of Japs in Montana yesterday, and will be banzaid as far east as St. Paul, where the Japanese give way to the Swedes and other partially-assimilated races. From St. Paul to Jamestown the great conquereor will only be hurrahed.

He has turned down our invitation to include St. Louis in his tour, but it would perhaps be a mistake to say we are all sorry. There has always been a divided opinion as to Kuroki. Whether he is deserving of the world's acclaim would seem to be a question. Sir Ian Hamilton, who was with him through the war with Russia, is perhaps the leader of the pro-Kuroki faction. Sir Ian was so enthusiastic about the little Japanese wonder that upon taking leave of the imperial army he invited Kuroki and all his troops to visit him in England.

The anti-Kuroki faction has always been led by Press Atkinson, one of the most painstaking of our American monologists. Press has insisted from the beginning that Kuroki is the cruelest commander in the whole history of war.

"Do you know what that fiend in human form did to that nice old man Curious Hatpin?" Press was wont to inquire.

Of course we didn't, except that in a general way we knew he hadn't done a thing to him.

"I'll tell you what he did!" Press would thunder. "Brute that he was, waging war in defiance of all the laws of civilized warfare! I'll tell you what he did! He caught that nice old man and cut off his retreat!"

Take your choice. If you stand with Sir Ian you may with all justification be sorry that Kuroki could not visit St. Louis. But if you stand with Press, it is just as well.

ARISTOTLE ON DEATH.

NOW then, if it is as has been said, you must then plainly acknowledge that the body can neither see nor hear nor comprehend anything without the power of the soul which dwells in it during life; but the body itself, which has a longing for eating and drinking, and for amusements, is a hinderance to the soul to acquire the great preferences. When the soul separates from the body, however, it imparts with that which prevented its perfection.

Hence you who maintain to be wise and learned, who despise all earthly pleasures as you are obliged to do, why do you fear and recoil at death? If the root is already agreeable to you how much more so must be the fruit?

Happy is the soul which has not contaminated itself and which comprehends its Creator, for it returns to the place of its origin, joyful and blissful.

A Moving Lay of Moving Day.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
BY WALTER A. SINCLAIR.

THE furniture's upon the walk, the van is at the door,
For it is May, and now today we're out to move once more.
The breakables packed underneath, the heavy stuff on top,
The bric-a-brac thrown loosely on, along the route to drop.
All breakfastless, neglected, too, our kids of every age
Are gathered in the entry way to guard the parrot's cage.

Then hip hurray! 'tis moving day!
We'll trip today. We're moving 'way,
With bric-a-brac we'll make a track,
Forgotten stuff will bring us back,
Tonight we'll step upon a tack.
Hurray for May and good old moving day!

The fam'ly coming after us is waiting at the dawn.
They've started taking out their goods and put 'em on the lawn.
They ring the bell as daylight breaks and loudly want to know
Why in the name of common sense we are not packed to go?
And so in haste we carry out each table, dish and pan
And pile them out so recklessly it takes another van.

And so we say, Away! Away!
It is the glad, glad moving day.
We have enough of fragile stuff
For men to buff in manner rough.
So, once again, although it's tough,
Hurray! Away! on good old moving day.

SCIENCE CHEAPENS LIQUID AIR.

From the New York World.

LIQUID air is at last being manufactured on a commercial scale, the Liquid Air Co. of London having recently opened its works at Batterseа. It is claimed that this plant, which is driven by a 250-horsepower engine, is the first in any country to produce liquid air at such a price that it can be freely used in industrial enterprises. No chemicals of any kind are used in the production, and instead of oxygen, which formed such a large proportion of liquid air, cost $7.50 a gallon (the usual price), the company is able to supply it to the public at not more than $1.25 a gallon.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

(This column is open for discussion of public questions. Letters must give name and address of writer and should not exceed 150 words. Names will not be published, if so desired. Suggestions and criticisms concerning the Post-Dispatch are invited.)

World's Fair Surplus.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We have read many suggestions published in your paper as to the best disposition to make of the World's Fair surplus. We suggest that it be used in beautifying Forest Park, especially the part which the Fair occupied.

SEVERAL READERS.

Too Patriarchal.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The idea which wrecked the N. O. Nelson dream is to be seen in the statement of the manager that, on one occasion, "when the profit-sharing dividends were paid in cash, a workman who had received $150 in a lump sum got drunk, and his wife blossomed out at once in a dress and bonnet which would have done credit to a Vanderbilt." As the $150 was the workman's own he had a right to spend it as he pleased, though it was foolish to go and drink a good part of it up. As for the wife's new dress and bonnet, was that the foreman's business or her own? This assumption of superiority and meddlesome patriarchalism is well enough in "Hold Hengland," but does not fit in America. LIBERTAS.

Children Must Go.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Three weeks ago a landlord rented me a flat. I have three children and he knew it. Now I have received 30 days' notice to vacate because the upstairs couple have no children and object to mine. The whole block is indignant over the affair. MRS. BAYARD AV.

Children and Rents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I rent a house or two to families with children, as I realize children must live somewhere, and yet I would remind the father of four that any owner of a building has as much right to choose his tenant as a tenant has to choose a house, and to refuse to rent to people with children if he so desires. If more parents taught their children to take care of property belonging to another and rented by them there would be more owners found who would be willing to rent to people with children. E. R.

Seeking Her Family.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish through the kindness of your great paper to locate my parents or brothers and sisters, whom I have not heard of for years. The last time I heard of my father, John William Shworb, my name was Mrs. John Richie and I lived at Altis, Ark. I am very anxious to locate my people. I had four brothers and three sisters. My address at present is,

MRS. JANE BOYD,
Stillwater, O. T.

Measles and Fees.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I just read an article in your paper in regard to the measles. I wish to say that Dr. Winn ought to be a little more considerate than to say "Parents have a mistaken idea that measles does not require the attention of a physician." Dr. Winn has not taken into consideration what it costs to have a physician, and what it costs to have the prescriptions filled. I myself have two children; one is suffering from measles. I would gladly have a physician attend her, but I am not in circumstances to pay what a St. Louis physician charges, especially when I haven't any idea how many visits the doctor intends to make; and honest people don't wish to run up a bill and then not be able to pay it.

MRS. M. H.

A Hypothetical Question.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When two men are kidnaped from their homes at midnight on an unproven charge and taken away to another State, denied a preliminary hearing, the writ of habeas corpus denied after they have languished in prison 14 months, is not such act a violation of the Constitution of the United States, and is it not convincing evidence to any fair-minded man that it is a conspiracy to railroad such men to punishment?

D. L. THOMAS.

Dog-Catchers and Dogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Would it not be well to let the dog-catchers alone, and if anything, encourage them in their work? With the summer months approaching, a decrease in the number of stray dogs would be very desirable, and the license law should be strictly enforced. It would be better still to double or treble the tax, so as to cut down the number of useless canines with which the city is infested.

FUNNY GLASSES

Cause Us to See the Humorous Side of the Development of the Artistic Taste.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
BY IRVIN COBB.

TIME was in the good old days when our millionaires were content with the simple and homely things of life—their language being uniformly simple and their wives almost invariably homely.

A millionaire's first duty to himself and his family in those times was to buy a lot nine feet wide and 90 feet deep and put up one of those attractive old-style Washington avenue homes that looked so much like a club sandwich standing on edge.

The task of furnishing his home gave him no deep concern. His idea of a picture was something you could put a heavy gold frame around and hang on a wall. As for sculpture, while he personally favored a few of those lifelike iron dogs such as one still sees on the front lawns in Alton, he was perfectly willing to make concessions to art and fill in the corners of the drawing room with half a dozen assorted stone monuments of unknown ladies, provided they were kind of chunky, and had the Grecian or statuary nose, and fluted marble hair and cost quite a good deal. He equipped his library shelves by notifying a reliable dealer to send him at once, C. O. D., 2000 assorted books similar in size to inclosed sample, and bound in red to match the wall paper.

But since that crude epoch we have made progress. We are now going in for the real creme de la crematory art. In other words, we are burning up the mazuma in our pursuit of that which is highest and noblest in the European marts. Reports from Paris are to the effect that the young men who do the old masters for the export trade are rushed to death. The paint on a Rubens or a Titian hardly has a chance to get dry before some American gobbles it up. Manufacturers of Italian antiques are offering high wages to good journeymen who can sculp the real Pompeiian goods, and even then they can hardly turn out the genuine ancient bronzes, and get the arms and legs and ears properly knocked off and the features battered in fast enough to supply the local demand. Sometimes this lovely junk is actually sold before the sculptor has had time to commit mayhem on its features with a hammer and a chisel, which is, of course, contrary to all the ethics of the modern old-master profession.

Whereas our millionaires used to be strong for the tasty fruit pieces and the stuffed half-portions of woodcock that were mounted on a wooden plaque and hung in the dining room, he is now satisfied with nothing less than a dark and gloomy square of canvas, somewhat resembling a soiled napkin that has been sprinkled with tomato catsup and scrambled eggs and then put in a damp cellar to turn dark and mildew. When he acquires a thing like this he knows he has got a genuine treasure and no price can induce him to part with it.

THE FUNNY PART:

And in the meantime the artists who are painting real pictures of real things in this country can't get a show in the Museum.

ANSWERS TO POST-DISPATCH READERS

Look in Sunday edition for answers requiring more than a few lines. Write but one question. Sign but one initial. Legal questions must be simple. No bets decided. Business addresses not given. Address "Answers," Post-Dispatch; postal cards, if convenient.

D. B.—Cement for india rubber: Carbon-bisulphide, 5 ounces; gutta percha, 5 drams; india rubber, 10 drams; fish glue, 25 drams.

E. F.—Try Public Library catalogues for lists of books by the authors you mention. We do not recall any atheists among them.

POTTERY.—We know of no bauxite (not boxide) mining in Missouri. It is mined in Arkansas, a little south of Little Rock, and in Georgia.

H. I. J. K.—Only a Court's opinion of how much bugle blowing is a nuisance is of any value to the person annoyed. The law mentions no bugle.

A.—If landlord notified you in writing April 30, that after June 1 your rent would be increased, you must pay the increase after the latter date.

B. Y.—Newspaper files will show you what bills were passed by the Legislature. Or you may wait and get a copy of the new laws in book form, issued from Jefferson City.

E.—Chlorate of potash makes a match explosive. Formula for matches: Chlorate of potash, 8 parts; black sulphuret of antimony, 8 parts; oxidized red lead, 8 parts; gum senegal, 1 part.

MARY.—To your question, "When does the moon reach the sign of Venus the next time?" an astronomer says: Venus is not one of the signs of the Zodiac, and hence the question is not definite.

H. N.—There are many kinds of breach of trust in the broad sense. There are some to which no penalty attaches. An official who steals the money intrusted to him may be punished for such a breach of trust.

HERBERT.—Inattention to the instructions, insufficient heating of the composition and the use of too much glycerin are the causes of failure in heliograph making. See Scientific American Cyclopedia, Public Library, reference room, 911 Locust.

K.—Important events in Spain since Jan. 1: Jan. 24, resignation of Cabinet; March 1, Royal order restoring civil marriage formalities and suppressing the obligation on those desiring to marry to declare their religion; April 17, earthquake shocks; May 2, still waiting for the stork.

MADISON.—Double election returns were sent to Washington in 1876 from South Carolina, Louisiana and Florida, both parties claiming the election. This had nothing to do with the election of Grant. Hayes was made President by an Electoral Commission, which refused to "go behind" the returns.

A.—The piece of lemon on the corn at night, five nights, leaving on all night. Soak foot in warm water and corn can be removed. When roof is taken out, cover toe with collodion or some other preparation to protect skin. Unless the tender skin is protected it will soon form another corn. First of all, however, wear an easy shoe.

M. K. McG.—The omission or neglect of a notary to set out in his certificate the date of termination of his commission would not affect the validity of the deed, lease or other instrument, nor does answer to "Thankful" convey such meaning; nor would it invalidate the acknowledgment; the defect is of no importance, though the omission in acknowledgment or certificate of other parts may be fatal.

X.—The Japanese have 10 acres of ground space at the Jamestown Exposition, but not much is paid of other foreign industrial exhibits. Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Japan, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium, Spain, Sweden, Greece, Brazil, Argentina, Venezuela, Mexico, Chile, Domingo, Porto Rico, Salvador, Peru, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Ecuador, Costa Rica and Panama take part in the military and naval exhibits.

WHAT WE KNOW OF THE ATOM

Tiny Particles of Which All Matter Is Composed

BY C. W. SALEEBY, M. D.,
Physician and Author, of Edinburgh University.

(Reprinted from the Harmsworth Self-Educator Magazine by special Arrangement.)

Copyright, 1907, International Publications, No. 224 Fifth Avenue, New York.

THE atomic theory regards matter as being built up of minute particles, which are called atoms, a name which literally means "uncut" or indivisible; and it assumes that the difference between one element and another—the difference, say, between gold and oxygen—is due to a difference in the nature of the atoms in each case. Further, we assume that every atmo of gold is exactly the same as all other atoms of gold, every atom of carbon exactly the same as all other atoms of carbon, and that this holds true whether the carbon be situated in the sun or in the human body, or in a comet or anywhere else. An element or elementary substance is one which consists of an indefinite number of atoms of the same kind. A compound consists of atoms of at least two kinds.

Are we to say, then, that a compound is simply a mixture? This is very far from being the case. Let us take familiar instances, air and water. Among the elements in the air, for instance, are oxygen and nitrogen. These are mixed, but not combined. But the substance we call water also consists of two gases—oxygen and hydrogen—yet is displays none of the properties that we attribute to either of these elements, nor does it display a sort of average or blend between them. It is totally different.

The Chemistry of Water.

Inded, this case furnishes us with a particularly good instance of the difference between a compound and a mixture. It is quite an easy thing to measure out a certain quantity of hydrogen and a certain quantity of oxygen, and to mix them together in a tube. The result is simply a mixture of two transparent gases. It is not in the least like water, and, in short, is not water; yet water consists of these two elements in exactly the same proportions as those in which they are present in the tube in question. This can be readily proved by simply passing an electric spark through the tube. The result is that the gases disappear, and there is found in their place a drop or two of water. This drop of water consists of the very gases that were present in the mixture, and can, if necessary, be decomposed, with the reproduction of the mixture as before. What, then, constitutes the essential difference—a difference which, in point of fact, is very great—between a mixture of oxygen and hydrogen on the one hand and a compound of oxygen and hydrogen on the other hand?

In order to answer this question we must consider a new conception which is represented by the word molecule—literally, a little mass. This word used often to be employed when atoms were meant.

Let us take, for instance, the gas hydrogen, which we believe to be composed of a number of atoms all exactly similar. We find reason to believe that these atoms do not go about singly, but they pair with one another, and each pair of hydrogen atoms constitutes a little system of its own, which we now call a molecule. In the case of the mixture of hydrogen and oxygen, we should find, if our eyes were keen enough, simply a collection of molecules, consisting either of two hydrogen atoms linked together or of two oxygen atoms linked together.

A Mixture of Molecules.

But if we made a similar inspection of the water which is formed when a spark is passed through the mixture, we should find the essential difference between a mixture and a compound. The mixture was simply a mixture of molecules of hydrogen and molecules of oxygen—each molecule, as we have said, consisting of two similar atoms; but in the compound, just because it is a compound and not a mixture, there is no such mixture of molecules.

All the molecules of a compound are of the same kind, just as all the molecules of an element are of the same kind; but whereas the molecules of an element are composed of similar atoms, the molecules of a compound are formed of dissimilar atoms. Whereas the mixture of hydrogen and oxygen consisted of a number of molecules containing two atoms of hydrogen and a number of molecules containing two atoms of oxygen, the compound called water formed from that mixture contains only one kind of molecule, compounded of atoms of oxygen and atoms of hydrogen, while no molecules consisting only of hydrogen atoms or only of oxygen would be found in it.

Size and Weight of Atoms.

Hydrogen is the lightest known element, and when tables of atomic weights first came to be constructed, it was agreed to use hydrogen as the unit and to measure the weights of all other elements relatively to the weight of hydrogen. Near the beginning of last century it was suggested that perhaps the hydrogen atom is the true unit of matter, and that the so-called atom of oxygen really consists of 16 hydrogen atoms, carbon of 12, etc. This theory, however, cannot be maintained.

As to the size of an atom it is estimated that it takes quadrillions of them placed side by side to measure one centimeter—the width of the nail on your little finger.

First Fatal Accident He'd Had.

From the Chicago Journal.

"You say the victim was shot in the head?" queried the Coroner.

"Yes," sir," replied the witness.

"Previous to the shooting had there been any trouble or threats that would have led the victim to expect the shot?"

"No, sir; I don't think such a thing ever entered his head before."

Waiting for Death.

From Transatlantic Tales.

A most bloodthirsty drama was being performed. The father of the leading woman came as usual to the stage door and asked the doorkeeper:

"Has my daughter gone yet?"

"No; she is still on the stage; she will not die for some minutes."

"Will you be kind enough to tell her as soon as she is dead that I am waiting for her at the theater cafe?"

BETTY VINCENT'S ADVICE to LOVERS

THE NATURAL GIRL.

GIRLS, be natural! So many of you write me asking me how to attract young men. The secret of many a woman's charm for a man is simply the lack of affectation he finds so frequent in other women. Men do not like artificial airs and graces, no matter how effective you find them with other women.

Men, as you know, don't care for over-fussy gowns. They like simple lines in clothes, and they like simple lines in character.

A few men may sem to like the affected girl, but the majority of hard-working, sober, industrious young men out of whom good husbands are made, prefer sweet, natural women. All your little ways carefully studied from this or that famous actress are thrown away on the man you wish to please. He would prefer your own simple unaffected self to any borrowed plumage of manner or conversation.

Be natural and you will please. Remember that.

Does He Love Her?

Dear Betty:

I AM a young girl, desperately in love with a certain young man of my acquaintance. At times he really acts as if he returns my affection, and at other times he is quite cold and indifferent. How can I ascertain his feelings toward me, as I do not care to waste my affection? W. M.

The only way is the old familiar one of rousing his jealousy. That may cause him to declare his love.

Loves a Typewriter Girl.

Dear Betty:

I AM a young man 19 years of age and work in an office where there are many typewriter girls. I have come to like one of them, and would like your advice as to how I could get acquainted with her, as she works on the next floor and I only see her in the morning and when going home at night. G. H.

Cannot you invent some pretext for making your inquiry of her concerning your business? If you do this and she likes you she will bow the next time you meet, and the acquaintance will progress gradually. Of course, if there is anyone to introduce you, that would be better.

Don't Be Discouraged.

Dear Betty:

WOULD like to have you advise me through your valuable paper what I should do. I love a girl and she loves me. I asked her to accompany me to a dance and she refused me. I have not had a good night's rest since she turned me down, thinking about her all the time. Thanking you in advance for your answer, I remain. LOUIS.

Probably she is as worried as you are if she really loves you. Better try again.

Use a Little Tact.

Dear Betty:

I HAVE a gentleman friend who has called on me several times and acts as though he loved me very much. Yet, I do not know if he really does. How will I be able to find it out? IN DOUBT.

You might try a little indifference. Don't let him think you are easy and he may become more outspoken of his thoughts.

SHORT STORIES

Some Interesting Anecdotes About People You Know by Name.

Secretary Taft as a Reporter.

From the Washington Herald.

LIKE Chief Justice Fuller, Secretary Wilson and other men high in the public service and confidence, Secretary Taft began his career as a newspaper man. The first money earned by him after graduating from Yale was as court reporter on a Cincinnati paper, the old Commercial Gazette, then edited by Murat Halstead.

Mr. Taft started at $8 a week, and when he quit had worked up to "29 per." All the time he was thus engaged he was studying law at night under his father's direction. Necessity did not drive him to the work, as his father was a man of ample fortune, but the Secretary chose it because it was the readiest entrance to active employment that brought him daily in contact with lawyers and court proceedings. Had he not been at so early an age started on a judicial career by the favor of Senator Foraker, who, as Governor, made him Judge of the Superior Court, it is said that Mr. Taft might have joined the staff of his brother, Charles P. Taft, publisher of the Cincinnati Times-Star, and thus have devoted himself seriously to journalism.

The Secretary likes to discuss newspaper work with reporters. He uses the shop terms with a familiarity denoting his former experience in the business, and understands how to outline a "story" for the "boys" better than any member of the administration, barring only the man in the White House.

Highest Paid Man.

From the Chicago Tribune.

John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer of New York, receives a salary aggregating $800,000 a year, which is more money than any other man ever received for his personal services. Men make millions on investments or by manipulations or speculation, but Hammond is the only man in the world who is paid so nearly a million a year for professional advice. Hammond is the greatest soldier of fortune of modern times, perhaps of all times, and was the model from which Richard Harding Davis drew his hero in "Soldiers of Fortune." He was born in San Francisco 52 years ago and was graduated from the Sheffield scientific school of Yale. During his boyhood in California he heard and dreamed of nothing but gold, for the western coast was gold mad during this period.

In his quest for the precious metal Hammond has traveled all over the world, from Siberia to South Africa. He followed the course of prospecting in Australia during the boom days, and he was in the Transvaal at the time of the Jameson raid. With Phillips, Frank Rhodes and George Farrar, he was captured by the Boers and sentenced to death, to the great excitement of the civilized world. Oom Paul Kruger, under threats from Joseph Chamberlain, released the four men upon the payment of an enormous fine and sentence of punishment.

Hammond came to New York and opened an office as consulting engineer. He may be found in a little room in the Empire building, and so great is his knowledge of gold-bearing ore from all the great gold fields of the world that he is able to pass unerring judgment upon mines without visiting them. His word is law to investors. If Hammond says "Yes" financial kings will spend millions for purchase or development of gold mines. If Hammond says "No" investors will not spend a cent, no matter how tempting the offers may be. He has a corps of assistants who visit mines under question and make their reports to him.

FOR THE BACKYARD GARDENER.

By the Post-Dispatch Botanist.

WINTER is over reliably when the scrub oaks and black jacks have "leaves as large as a squirrel-foot." So any Missouri farmer will tell backyard gardeners in the city, but as they have few scrub oaks in reach, they may take it for granted that the latter part of the first week in May is time enough to begin setting out hothouse plants in the open air.

The first week in May is the best time to get ready the bed for cannas and geraniums. In a small front yard or in a backyard where there is room for only a few bedding plants, a bed with scarlet cannas in the center and single scarlet geraniums around them makes a satisfying show and keeps up its bloom until cut off by frost.

Dig the bed deep so that the soil will be as loose as possible. Use fertilizer if you have it, but if the soil is kept loose and the plants are watered steadily, they will grow vigorously without fertilizer in St. Louis clay.

Throw the soil towards the center of the bed and when you have broken and smoothed the clods, make another circle around the bed with the spade, throwing the soil on the bed so that it will be safe from standing water, without being too much raised.

The florist's books say that cannas must be planted 18 inches apart with the tallest in the center. They may be planted closer together and they will flourish, if watered regularly. But the tallest growers must be planted in the center, with the rest in circles in the order of height, if the bed is to look its best.

Around the cannas, a single or double row of scarlet geraniums may be planted, close enough together to allow their leaves when fully developed to shade the ground completely.

THE "YELLOW PERIL" UP TO DATE.

DR. MORRISON, the well-known correspondent of the London Times at Peking, went to see the recent maneuvers of the modernized Chinese army in the neighborhood of Chang-te-fu. He describes them as a repetition of the performances of 1905—a set piece carefully prepared long before by a number of Japanese advisers. The inefficiency of the officers is still conspicuous and the field training of the men inadequate, but the material is good. Dr. Morrison hints that without Japanese officers to direct affairs the contending armies would have been little better than a rabble.

What "Preserved in a Vacuum" Means to Apple Butter

FRUIT PRESERVES "work" or ferment if permitted to come in contact with the air.

Even the little air you leave in the top of the jar when you "put up" fruit at home will gradually destroy the flavor and ruin your preserves.

Our New Vacuum process of packing absolutely prevents fermentation and holds all the freshness and flavor of the native fruit.

That's why in Clymer's Apple Butter Temtors we use only selected, fine-flavored apples.

And that's why you instantly taste "quality" in Temtors—the flavor of mellow sweet cider in our Apple Butter.

Sold in Handy Packages At Our Risk

Every grocer is authorized to refund the full purchase price, if you don't like Temtors.

This because Clymer's Apple Butter Temtors are more than just pure—they "taste" quality and can't miss it.

Lost and Found

IF YOU LOSE ANYTHING—Advertise it here. It will be returned to you if an honest person finds it. Remarkable recoveries are brought about every day through this column. All druggists receive Want Ads for the Post-Dispatch at office rates.

IF YOU FIND ANYTHING bring it to the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau, 210-212 North Broadway.

Get a claim check. Have it advertised. Reclaim it if the owner does not.

THE LAW—People who find lost articles are interested in knowing that the State Law (section 8475 to 8480, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1890), is strict in requiring them to seek the owners through advertisement and otherwise, and that a failure to do so, if same can be proven, involves a severe penalty.

"RESTLESS" MAN SHOT HIMSELF

Charles Trautewig, Butcher, Ended Life After Writing Notes in His Shop.

Standing behind the counter in his meat market at 2801 South Ninth street, at 10 a. m. Monday, Charles Trautewig shot himself in the right temple. He died 30 minutes later while on the operating table at the City Hospital.

Financial reverses were given by Trautewig as the reason for his act. He wrote a note in German on a piece of cardboard and this was found on the counter by Louis Meyer, a neighbor, who rushed into the market after hearing the shot. There was no customer in the place at the time of the shooting.

Trautewig is survived by his wife and three children, Carl, aged 13 years; Ida, aged 18 years; Claire, aged 22 years. He was 48 years old.

In the ambulance on the way to the hospital was Dr. Vogel. He endeavored to ascertain from Trautewig why he had shot himself, and the only reply he could get was that Trautewig "didn't like the weather." Following is the translation of the note, which was unsigned:

"Dear Augusta and children and all my friends: Excuse me for what I am doing. Restlessness brought me to this act. It is a true word 'you have friends when you have money, but when you have no money you find nobody.'

"Dear St. Louis Butchers' Society: Please excuse me for what I am doing. It was not sung at my cradle what I would have to run up against.

"Dear Amelie Hoffman: Please excuse this act. If you have any of the money left give it to my wife and children.

"Dear August: Be good and kind to the children, is the only wish I have."

Mrs. Trautewig said that her husband rose at 5 a. m. Monday as usual, and seemed to be in good spirits. He had never mentioned to her any financial reverses, she said, and he had a good business.

"He has had a fever for a couple of days and it must have affected him," said the distracted wife.

The family lives in the flat above the market.

The fixtures in Trautewig's store were mortgaged to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Amelie Hoffman, for $375, and were to be sold to satisfy this mortgage. Creditors were pressing for payment of bills.

Trautewig had a good business at Seventh and Lynch streets up to last summer, but moved against the advice of friends, to the store where he ended his life.

A week ago Saturday Trautewig bought a shop on Arsenal street, near Eighteenth. He made a deposit of $50 and was to make a first payment last Wednesday, but was unable to do so and lost the $50 deposit.

WON MARY INSTITUTE PRIZE FOR MAKING BEST LOAF OF BREAD

MISS HELEN RUTLEDGE

Miss Helen Wilson Rutledge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutledge, 4414 West Morgan street, holds the Mary Institute senior prize for her skill in breadmaking. This was awarded to Miss Rutledge Saturday afternoon at the annual contest. All members of the senior class compete, the breadmaking forming a part of their domestic science course. Miss Nancy Barnhart also won a prize for her crusty loaf, the two prizes being of equal value.

LOST $50, HELD UP TRAIN.

Georgian Then Shot Man He Said Had Robbed Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAVANAH, Ga., May 6.—Declaring that he had been robbed of $50 in a crap game, Henry Manigault held up a train in order to get a chance to kill Jerry Lewis. When the engine came to a standstill Lewis jumped off the train and took to his heels, with Manigault in hot pursuit, firing as he ran. One shot took effect in Lewis' hip. Manigault was about to put the finishing touch on the prostrate man when several policemen ran up and seized him.

The two men had been gambling before the train hold up and Manigault was the loser. Then he went to a store and bought a Winchester rifle. Then he held up the train. Several railroad employes attempted to interfere, but were held off by the Winchester.

WILSON AND MEAT INSPECTORS CONFER

Every Packing Center in the Country Represented at Meeting in Chicago.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, May 6.—Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson today met in this city the chief meat inspector of every large city in the country for the purpose of conferring on the practical application of the new meat laws to the slaughtering and packing industries.

The inspectors, numbering about 150, met the Secretary at the Auditorium Hotel and proceeded to the Union Stockyards, where the conference, which is to continue for three days, is being held.

The yards and the packing houses were first inspected and an executive meeting was then held, at which the phases of the law were discussed.

Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, delivered an address later in the day. He stated that on July 1, 1906, there were engaged in meat inspection at 163 establishments 764 employes. There are now 2029 employes at 869 establishments. There have been granted to retail dealers or butchers, as provided for by the law, 3558 certificates of exemption. Inspection has been withdrawn, Dr. Melvin declared, from 46 official establishments principally because of failure to maintain a proper standard of sanitation, and in some cases because of the use of prohibited preservatives.

"The approximate cost," said Dr. Melvin, "of the inspection as conducted at this time is, for cattle and calves, 5 cents per head; for swine, sheep and goats, 3 cents per head, and for the inspection of meats received at official establishments from other official establishments, one-half of 1 mill per pound."

In conclusion, Dr. Melvin declared that the bureau had received in a general way the co-operation of the packers. The greatest difficulty thus far had been the attainment of cleanliness. Conditions were, however, in his opinion, working steadily for the better.

CLUB OVER BUCKET SHOPS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 6.—The Pittsburg Leader publishes a lengthy story setting forth the details of an alleged scheme of a ring of State politicians to get from bucket-shop keepers $100,000 by holding over their heads legislation adverse to the interests of bucket-shop men. The Leader prints the following telegram, said to have been sent to a certain bucket-shop man at Pittsburg a few days ago:

"Unless you have $20,000 in the hands of —— by 5 o'clock, the bill is a go."

The Leader announces it has all the names, telegrams, affidavits, etc., to lay before the State Legislature, and it calls for immediate action by that body. If the Legislature fails to act, the paper announces it will publish the names and call on the District Attorney at Pittsburg to prosecute.

CIRCUS AGREEMENT IS STILL WORKING

Barnum & Bailey's Man Says There Never Was a Trust, Just Working Plan.

"There is absolutely no truth in the report that the relations that have existed for several years between Barnum & Bailey and their interests and the Ringling Bros. have been severed," said Louis E. Cooke, general agent of the Barnum & Bailey show at the Southern Hotel Monday.

"Any one who really knows the situation in the circus world will readily understand why this should be so. For a number of years the various circuses of the country were violently antagonistic. Each show tried to cut the other out of profitable territory by getting in ahead, and the amount of money expended for wasteful and foolish opposition billing was enormous. Another bad feature was the fact that these opposition circus wars made thousands of 'deadheads' as a natural result of the rivalry.

"In conversing with the Ringlings from time to time on this subject of wastefulness, I found that they agreed with me that the time was ripe for a change, and several years ago, while we were exhibiting in Chicago I had the pleasure of bringing the late James A. Bailey and the Ringling Bros. together in an amicable conference. The result was an agreement that has since been renewed from time to time, and which has operated to the benefit of all concerned.

"I want to say right here that the arrangement did not in any way constitute a trust. Four shows were involved —Barnum & Bailey, Buffalo Bill, Ringling Bros. and Sells-Forepaugh. Each of these shows was to be operated separately and distinctively. There was to be no pooling arrangement, and the only important agreement was that these shows would be routed in such a way that one would never interfere with another. When, occasionally, the shows found it necessary to play the same city within a short period, the first show was to be protected, and the second show was not to bill until the first one had terminated its engagement.

"That was the condition in St. Louis. You must have noticed that we did not have a sheet of paper or use an advertisement until Ringling had gone. That was strictly according to our agreement. In one or two other cities, later in the season, we precede the Ringlings, and they will also withhold their billing until we are through. The arrangement works out most successfully, and there is no desire on the part of either of the shows to abrogate it. And, even if there was, there is a legal agreement and a forfeit to prevent its annulment. Having been one of the signers of this agreement, I am surely competent to tell the facts about it.

"The story that the Sells-Forepaugh show is to go into Madison Square Garden and that we have had the worst of it on territory is absurd. Last season we made New England and Ringling took the West. This year Ringlings have the East and Barnum & Bailey the West. It will be several months before our routes cross again."

ARMY WATERWAY BOARD IN SESSION

Col. Clinton B. Sears Elected Chairman of U. S. Army Investigators.

The board appointed by the Secretary of War to consider the project of establishing a 14-foot channel from St. Louis to the mouth of the Mississippi River, in accordance with an act of Congress, approved March 2, last, held its first meeting Monday in the Fullerton Building, and organized by electing Col. Clinton B. Sears, U. S. A., as its chairman.

The other members of the board present were Col. C. M. Townsend of Cleveland and Col. W. H. Bixby of Chicago, who, like Col. Sears, are connected with the Engineer Corps of the army, and Maj. Henry P. Richardson of Louisiana and Homer P. Ritter of Washington, D. C., who are civilians, but are connected with the Mississippi River Commission.

The meeting was held behind closed doors, and Col Sears stated after the first session that it would take the board at least a year to formulate an exhaustive plan for the deep waterway.

It is provided in the act of Congress that a report be made by the first Monday in November, 1908. One hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated for the expenses of the board, including the report on the deep channel project and a report and survey on the proposition of a waterway between St. Louis and Chicago.

WORTH PRESERVING RECIPE FOR INDIGESTION.

Here is a simple prescription given out by a noted specialist on stomach troubles:

"Two ounces Essence of Pepsin; three ounces Syrup of Ginger; one ounce Catandir Compound. Take from one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal; also at bedtime for the first few days." A well known local druggist is authority that these ingredients form what is known as the Pasteur formula and that the ingredients, while being harmless, and pleasant to the taste, are probably the most powerful remedy known to science for restoring the digestive organs to their normal condition and relieving the distressing effects of indigestion, such as belching, bloating, headaches and bowel pains. Besides, it has a peculiar tonic effect on the entire shystem, enriching the blood and giving a robust, healthy complexion.

LOBBY GATHERS FOR ITS WAR ON PEMBERTON BILL

Columbia Professors, Saloon-Keepers, Business Men, Etc., Hurry to Capital.

BITTER FIGHT CERTAIN

"Shall Beer Stein Be Emblem of University Life," Pemberton Asks.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 6.—One of the most stirring fights in the history of the Missouri Legislature is in progress here today as a result of the arrival of a powerful lobby to defeat the Pemberton bill, which prohibits the operation of saloons and whisky drug stores near the State University. There are 2000 young students on the university rolls. Two or three seminaries for girls also are located at Columbia, and an interesting feature of the contest is the fact that Senator Avery, who has a daughter attending one of these institutions, will help to lead the war against the liquor interests.

Representative Pemberton, who introduced the anti-saloon and anti-whisky drug store bill, which passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming vote, is the official representative of Boone County in the General Assembly.

He says that while the "Big Cinch" at home is upholding the cause of the breweries and distilleries, three out of four persons in Boone County desire the removal of the saloons from the vicinity of the university.

Evidently Mr. Pemberton is at serious cross-purposes with some of his Columbia friends, for today's trains brought to Jefferson City college professors, saloon keepers, editors, business men and politicians of all degrees, who are determined that the Pemberton bill shall not become a law.

No legislation of consequence aimed at the liquor interests has passed the General Assembly. Because of this fact the Columbia lobby is encouraged in the hope that the Legislature will look lightly on the efforts of Mr. Pemberton and his associates to put the saloons out of commission.

Mr. Pemberton, however, is not asking for their absolute suppression. His bill simply provides that they shall not be located within five miles of the university.

Agreement Broken, Folk Says.

Gov. Folk told the Post-Dispatch correspondent that when the Legislature established the State University at Columbia there was an agreement between the State and Columbia that no saloon should be established within a three-mile radius of this institution. That agreement, the Governor says, has never been kept.

While Gov. Folk is known to be unalterably opposed to the principle of prohibition, he believes that the young men and young women of Missouri, who are receiving their educational training at Columbia should not be menaced by saloons and whiskey drug stores.

Mr. Pemberton charges that the licence of $250 a year against whiskey drug stores has never been enforced by the Columbia authorities. Among the well-known Columbians opposed to the saloon side of the question are: Judge E. W. Hinton, dean of the law faculty of the State University; former State Senator W. T. Anderson; J. C. Gillespie, former Representative from Boone County; W. H. Rothwell, City Attorney of Columbia; Ed. Remley, chairman of the Boone County Republican Committee; G. O. Guitar, ex-mayor of Columbia; J. W. Schawbe, member of Boone County Republican Committee; S. H. Levy, C. B. Bowling, J. A. Hudson, J. H. Guitar, William Hirth, E. M. Watson, C. C. Newman, F. M. Niedermeyer, Henry T. Lee, S. H. Elkins, postmaster of Columbia; Warder Sapp, Lucian Smith, F. W. Smith and Walter Ballenger.

Clash Expected Tonight.

The Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, of which Senator Thomas Ely of Dunklin County is chairman, will hold a public hearing on the bill tonight. It is expected that the clash between the opposing forces will be sharp and decisive.

Senator Ely is the man who led the fight against the racetrack gambling interests two years ago. At the regular session and during the present session he has fought the liquor lobby at all times.

It is expected that the "brewery labeled Senators," of whom there are three in the upper branch of the Assembly, will do all they can to put the "skids" under the Pember ton bill.

The battle now waging promises to develop some startling features, and if one-half the ammunition that Representative Pemberton claims he has stored up for the lobby, which is coming to dispute his right to represent the people of Boone County on the saloon proposition, is used there will be lively times ahead for the Senate in the closing hours of its labors.

"Shall the beer stein be the emblem of university life? That is the main propositon before us in this fight," said Representative Pemberton this morning.

NICELY BALANCED TOOLS TREASURED.

Fight Follows Appropriation of One by Workman.

Carpenters, blacksmiths, axmen and others accustomed to the constant use of tools with long handles, know that if the tools are not so balanced that the force of a blow falls upon the center of percussion an uncomfortable jar is felt. An ax or a hammer particularly well-balanced is regarded as a peculiar treasure.

An unusual instance occurred recently in one of the tunnels now being driven under the Hudson River at New York, says the Youth's Companion. A workman had found a nicely balanced pickax, and on leaving his work, he put a private mark upon it. The next morning another workman, who had his eye on that particular pick, got possession of it first. The result was a fight that got so serious that the police had to be called into the tunnel to stop it.

Robbed Three Newsboys.

George Bressies, 10 years old, of 3320 Morgan street; M. Howard, 10, of 3903 Papin street, and Charles Noe, 13, of 4007 Clayton avenue, three newsboys, were each robbed of 95 cents Sunday by a man who approached the boys and asked for a paper. Displaying a dollar bill he asked the boys if they had change. When they had counted out 95 cents he grabbed the money and ran.

East St. Louis News

The funeral of Marion Dulanty, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dulanty of 2809 State street, who died Saturday night of spinal meningitis, was held Monday afternoon from St. Elizabeth's Church to Mount Carmel Cemetery.

Rev. C. D. Shumard of Belleville, presiding elder of that M. E. district, visited the First M. E. Church Sunday and preached the morning and evening sermons at the invitation of Rev. J. F. Harmon.

M. Becker and Louis Fullman, grocers in the Polish settlement at Twenty-second street and Missouri avenue, were arrested Sunday charged with violating the Sunday closing law. They gave bond for appearance for trial. These are the first arrests under the "lid," which Mayor Cook put on at the request of the Retail Merchants' Association.

The funeral of C. W. Purnell, 58 years old, who died Sunday morning, after an illness of two weeks, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the family residence, 1417 St. Clair avenue, to Mount Hope Cemetery. He is survived by three daughters and three sons. He had been connected with the National Stockyards for 30 years, and during the past 12 years had worked for the Drumm Commission Co. Among the stockmen he was known as "Dick."

Two couples were wedded in the new "Marriage Parlor" Sunday. The first was Samuel J. Harwood and Miss Gertrude Schurmacher of St. Louis, the ceremony being performed by Justice Williams. The second couple were Paul Johnson and Miss Georgie Perry of East St. Louis, who were married by Justice Brady.

Henry Anderson, 52 years old, of 1718 Gaty avenue, died Monday morning of pneumonia at the Henrietta Hospital. He is survived by his wife and five children.

The funeral of Mrs. Hester N. Gaut, 84 years old, who died Sunday night at her home, 413 Brady avenue, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the family residence to Mount Hope Cemetery. She is survived by two daughters.

The degree team of the Daughters of Erin will hold a rehearsal Monday night at St. Patrick's School Hall to prepare to exemplify the secret work at an initiation May 16.

Confirmation services for a class of 25 will be held Wednesday night at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, at which Rt. Rev. Bishop E. W. Osborne will officiate. Bishop Osborne will remain in East St. Louis until Ascension Sunday and will deliver a sermon at the evening service that day.

East St. Louis Council, Knights and Ladies of Security, will give a public euchre Tuesday night at Eagle's Hall.

L. W. Cherrington, representing Division 386, Order of Railway Conductors, will leave May 12 to attend the grand division of the order at Memphis, Tenn., which convenes May 14, and will be in session for a week. Mr. Cherrington represented the East St. Louis division at Pittsburg in 1903, Portland, Ore., in 1905, and was again elected as a delegate in 1907.

Hustling, wide-awake boys can earn $3 to $4 a week selling the Post-Dispatch after school. Call at Mrs. Voss' branch, 2700 State street; Knewitz's branch, 1600 East Broadway; Burnett's 201 North Fifth street; Edmiston's, St. Clair and Collinsville.

GEN. JOSEPH HUDSON DEAD.

Noted Kansas Editor Passes Away at Home in Topeka.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 6.—Gen. Joseph Hudson, for years one of the most conspicuous newspaper men in Kansas, a soldier in the Civil and Spanish-American wars, died Sunday, his sixty-seventh birthday, at his home in this city. He had been unconscious for 48 hours. Death was due to heart disease and dropsy.

Gen. Hudson was stricken Dec. 19 while sitting in his room in a hotel at Versailes, Mo. For several days following his physicians believed he was dying, but he rallied and was able to walk for a few weeks.

Paul Hudson, editor of the Mexican Herald, City of Mexico, is his son. The other surviving members of the family are a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Del Keizer and Mrs. William C. Smith of Topeka.

Gen. Hudson was born at Carrollton in Carroll County, O., in 1840. He was educated in Salem, Columbia County, O., where his father, John Hudson, was editor and publisher of the Anti-Slavery Bugle, the chief advocate of the Western Anti-Slavery Society.

Gen. Hudson enlisted as a private at the age of 21 and rose rapidly to the rank of Major. He was a member of Jim Lane's brigade. His newspaper career began in Kansas in 1868 as editor and proprietor of the Kansas Farmer. In 1879 he became editor and owner of the Topeka State Capital. In 1895 he was elected State Printer.

Upon his appointment in 1898 as Brigadier-General of Volunteers he went to Tampa and Huntsville, served until fall and then returned again to take charge of the Daily Capital. In 1900 he left the newspaper field and engaged in land business, mostly in Missouri.

The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Lincoln Post No. 1, G. A. R., of which Gen. Hudson was a member, will have charge of the services at the grave. Interment will be in the family lot in Topeka.

GEN. NOBLE TO PRESIDE.

7. Music by band.
8. Original poem by Comrade Tom L. Johnson of Ransom post.
9. Closing address from ritual, Comrade Archibald Carr of Lyon post.
10. Benediction by Rev. Alexander Glower of Shaw post.
11. The columns will proceed to the cemetery, break ranks and strew flowers and place flags on all graves.
12. Bugle call, to reform command.
13. Three volleys, by detachment of Fifth United States Infantry.
14. Taps, bugler United States cavalry.

TO GREENER PASTURES.

Bell Wandered Afar and the Orphans Grieved.

There is joy and also plenty of milk for the 20 little inmates of the Missouri Home Society's orphanage at 4427 Margaretta avenue, where for five days there was no cheer and only a small supply of milk, because Bell, in a spirit of adventurous investigation, deserted the home and its little folks.

Bell is a young Jersey cow, pet of the children and valuable asset of the society. Between milkings each day Bell is sent to a lot close by to browse and enjoy such liberty as 30 feet of rope, secured to a stake, will permit.

The grass farther away looked much greener to Bell than that on which they fed and last Tuesday in her desire to sample the distant herbage she uprooted the stake and departed.

Here and there she tasted of a lawn and her appetite therefor increased with its gratification. But the owners didn't want pastoral scenes at the expense of their bluegrass and drove Bell farther away. Toward evening she invaded a fine plot in front of a pretentious house and was leaving nothing for the lawn mower to do when the owner impounded her.

Meantime Mrs. Emma Guinand, the matron, sent out couriers to search for Bell. They were unsuccessful. Then she inserted an "ad" in the Post-Dispatch. It fell under the eye of the man who had Bell in keeping, and Saturday he returned her safely to the home.

In Bell's absence the babies and the older children in the home had to be content with milk from dairies, so they forgave Bell her truancy.

Hill Issues Lead With Fair Advances—Rock Island Stronger.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 6, 12:30-1 p. m.—With sales of only 262,000 shares the stock market was steady during the forenoon and sagged off ⅛ to ¾ point about 12 o'clock. Crop damage reports and higher wheat prices evidently nipped a 3-point stock advance Monday. Commission houses advise that advance will come with more favorable weather.

NEW YORK, May 6.—9:30 a. m.—The market opened higher, the high places being among the industrial stocks and the leading Western railroads.

While the Union Pacific were lower at the open, the opening dec'ine was fractional and both Union and Southern were over their openings by the end of the first quarter hour.

The Union Pacific group are probably weak on persistent reports of prosecution in connection with the Clark road. The general present and prospective business situation in the West is under the Western railroad stock advance.

LIVESTOCK.

RECEIPTS—Cattle, 4000; hogs, 6200; sheep, 1500; horses and mules, 300.

CATTLE—Today's supply was evenly divided between the native and Southern divisions, the quality of the native offerings was common to fair, with steers selling steady to strong, while other kinds were steady. The Southern cattle were mostly pretty good steers and sold at steady to strong prices.

SUIT ON WAINWRIGHT DEAL.

William F. Pickel Accused of Breach of Contract.

The suit of the Wainwright Real Estate Co. against William F. Pickel for $899,995 is on trial Monday in Judge Kinsey's court. It is alleged that Pickel agreed, Feb. 9, 1905, to buy the Wainwright Building, at Seventh and Chestnut streets, for $900,000, and made a deposit of $5 to bind the bargain.

Two days later he changed his mind, it is alleged, and refused to abide by his part of the agreement, and so notified the Gerhardt Realty Co., agents, and Ellis Wainwright, the principal owner of the building. He claimed that the real estate company had no written authority to negotiate the sale, and that there were other irregularities, mostly technical, that would have prevented him from getting a perfect title.

Suit was entered by the Wainwright Realty Co. to compel the payment of the balance due under the agreement. The case is being heard by Judge Kinsey, and most of the evidence is documentary.

BOY BURGLAR ESCAPED.

Detective Saw Him Leave House That Was Robbed.

Detectives La Barge and Sullivan were within a half block Sunday afternoon of a boy burglar who has been operating for a week in the neighborhood of the Soulard Street Police Station but he succeeded in eluding them and got away.

Nine burglaries have recently been committed in the vicinity of Twelfth and Hickory streets and in most instances the victims have seen a boy leaving their homes shortly before they discovered their loss. Detectives were assigned to watch for the burglar and Sunday afternoon they saw a boy leaving the residence of Mrs. R. H. Lyle, 1315 St. Ange avenue. When the boy saw the detectives watching him he ran.

Later the detectives learned that jewelry valued at $75 had been stolen from the Lyle residence. Fred Maiser of 1323 St. Ange reported to the police that he chased a boy burglar from his home Sunday morning. Maiser said a ring had been stolen.

POLITICS STIRS SCHOOLS.

British Government Sends Warning to India.

SIMLA, British India, May 6.—The schools an colleges of Bengal which are affiliated with the University of Calcutta have become such hotbeds of political agitation that the Government resolved to take drastic action. A circular has been sent to the university, college and school authorities prohibiting the participation of professors, teachers or pupils of the higher educational establishments in political movements and notifying the university that unless it carries out its duty in controlling the affiliated colleges all the Government scholarship endowments will be withdrawn.

WHEAT SCORES LIBERAL ADVANCE

Very Strong Demand Created by Domestic and Foreign Damage Reports.

OTHER GRAINS ARE QUIET

Cash Markets Firm—World's Shipments Very Large—Wheat Visible Decreased.

Local wheat, after a fractional easiness at the start, was in very strong demand Monday, and closed 1c to 1¼@⅜c higher for the day. Corn closed ⅜@½c higher and oats ⅜@½c higher. The prices on wheat futures were the highest of the crop. A Government report showing the acreage of winter wheat under cultivation and the condition of the same on May 1st will be issued on May 10 at 12 o'clock Washington time.

May wheat sold 1c higher at 80c. July wheat opened ⅜c lower at 81c, went as low as 80⅞c, advanced to 82¾c, and closed at 82¾@⅞ bid. September wheat opened ⅜c lower at 82⅞c, went as low as 82¾@⅞, advanced to 84¾c, and closed at 84½@⅝c bid.

May corn was unchanged with offerings at 47c. July corn opened ⅛@¼c lower at 48⅛c, advanced to 48⅞@49c, and closed at 48⅞ bid. September corn opened unchanged at 48⅝c, and closed at 49c sellers.

No sales of oats. July option closed *c higher at 40¼c asked, and September ⅜c higher at 35⅛c bid.

Liverpool cables closed unchanged to ⅛d lower on spot wheat and ¾d lower on the futures. Paris closed ¼c to ½c higher on wheat and unchanged to ¼c higher on flour. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged, Berlin wheat 1½c lower and Budapest wheat ⅞c higher.

The visible supply of wheat in the United States decreased 777,000 bu and now amounts to 51,999,000 bu, against a decrease of 2,790,000 bu, with 38,431,000 bu in sight at the same time last year. World's shipments of wheat for the past week were 12,800,000 bu, against 11,408,000 bu last week and 10,672,000 bu a year ago. Wheat and flour on ocean passage increased 2,752,000 bu.

The local market was active throughout, and a sharp revival of outside interest was apparent. Prices opened weak, the enormous world's shipments, good increase in on-passage stocks and the sharply lower cables causing a weak tone at the start. Values declined about ½c, but the continued unfavorable domestic conditions soon affected the market, and a sharp recovery was made. Conditions in Kansas and the Southwest, where liberal rains fell, were somewhat improved, but killing frosts were again reported in several sections, and the weather in the Northwest is still very cold. The Missouri State crop report, showing the condition of wheat 82, a falling off of 12, for April also helped the demand, and the market, after the initial weakness, was very strong.

There were also reports of backward crops and winter killing from abroad and prices were bid up steadily under the strong demand, closing practically at the high point, at an advance of 1c to 1⅜c for the day.

The cash market on wheat was rather quiet, but a fair demand existed, and prices were somewhat firmer. Receipts of wheat at all primary points were 945,900 bu, against 392,648 bu last year, and shipments were 1,128,320 bu, against 209,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 59,000 bu, against 54,298 bu last year, and shipments were 22,020 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 168,000 bu.

Corn was quiet and moved almost entirely in sympathy with wheat. Prices opened slightly lower, but recovered and closed 3¼@½c higher for the day. There were no features to the market, and trading was light. The visible supply of wheat decreased 9,720,000 bu, and now amounts to 8,102,000 bu, against a decrease of 518,000 bu with ...881,000 bu last year. World's shipments were 3,803,000 bu, against 4,779,000 bu last week and 4,379,000 bu last year. Corn on ocean passage increased 406,000 bu. Cables closed unchanged on spot corn and ¼d lower on the futures.

The cash demand for corn was good and prices were firmer. Receipts of corn at primary markets were 670,030 bu, against 559,615 bu last year. Local receipts of corn were 242,000 bu, against 221,115 bu last year, and shipments were 1-4,840 bu. Corn clearances were 403,000 bu.

No sales of oats were made, and nominal prices were strong in sympathy with wheat. The visible supply of oats increased 332,000 bu. Primary receipts of oats were 705,195 bu, with shipments of 78,530 bu. Oats clearances were 15 bu.

The cash demand at Minneapolis was strong and No. 1 Northern wheat was 1½@1c under. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis, 438, against 214 last year. Duluth, 159, against 22 last year. Winnipeg, 183, against 203 last year. Total 846, against 439 last year.

FLOUR—Receipts were 17,660 barrels; shipments, 6900 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents at $3.80@3.90; straight, $3.60@3.70, and extra fancy at $3.25@3.40 in wood; low to medium grades at $2.30@2.60 in jute; hard in jute sacks, patents, $3.40@3.60; straight at $3.10@3.25; clear at $2.65@2.85; low grades at $2.20@2.50; spring patents at $3.85@4 in bulk.

HAY—Receipts, 375 tons local and 215 tons through; shipments, 465 tons. Quote timothy hay, choice, $18.50; No. 1, $16@17; No. 2, $14@15.50; No. 3, $11@12. Clover hay, choice, $18@19; No. 1, $15.50@16.50; No. 2, $13@14; No. 1 clover mixed, $15@15.50; No. 2 clover mixed, $13@14. Prairie hay, choice, $12; No. 1, $11@11.50; No. 2, $9@10.

CITY GHOST TO WALK.

Employes Will Probably Receive Salaries Monday.

Should the House of Delegates pass the annual appropriation bill of $10,400,000 Tuesday night, Comptroller Player believes city employes will be paid their delayed April salaries no later than next Monday.

The threatened obstruction to the bill's passage in the House appears to have disappeared and members of the majority faction say they will interpose no dilatory tactics, but intend to facilitate the adoption of the measure. After it passes the House, it must lay over until the next regular meeting of both branches of the Assembly on Friday, when it will receive the signatures of the speaker of the house and president of the Council.

It will then be sent to Mayor Wells for his signature. It is possible, the Comptroller told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday, that some of the employes in the City Hall may receive their salaries Saturday, but he thinks it most probable that the Treasurer will not begin to pay off until Monday.

Thus far the police and employes in the garbage removal and disposal department are the only ones to receive their money. The April payroll calls for about $380,000, including the police salaries. The Comptroller estimates that there is about $350,000 which will be released when the appropriation bill becomes a law.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS HIGHER AND ACTIVE

Bank of Commerce Shares and Traction Preferred Are the Features at Forenoon Session of Stock Exchange—Trust Remains Firm on Fair Inquiry—Close is Steady.

Bank and trust issues and the common shares of the National Candy Co. were the features at a slow session of the Stock Exchange Monday forenoon.

Bank of Commerce shares sold in small and large lots at 259½ and 260, and lots of 10 shares at 259⅝ and 260, the market being steady to ½ higher.

Missouri-Lincoln was fairly active on sales unchanged at 123, with the close at 123¼ bid and 123¾ asked.

In the early trading there was a strong inquiry for the 4 per cent traction goods at practically former prices of 81⅝ bid, 81½ asked, but the price was not high enough for holders, and there was no trading.

In the last quarter hour of the session two of the largest commission houses were in the traction preferred market and the result was an advance of ¼ point on sales of the preferred at 70½. The market on preferred closed 70½ bid, 70¾ asked, the strongest quotations in a week.

The bond list was quiet, prices on inquiry being firm. One small bond of the K. C. Home Telephone issue sold steady at 84. The market closed steady.

There is a noticeable change Monday in the Stock Exchange sentiment concerning Mississippi Valley Trust and National Bank of Commerce issues. A week ago traders were predicting lower prices for Commerce shares and for a week the shares were at a low figure. Monday the sentiment changed and the strongest sort of information is out for purchase of Commerce. On account of a statement made by a committee of stockholders, not for public circulation, after the last report made by Mississippi Valley, the Stock Exchange sentiment has concluded that a higher price will be obtainable for Mississippi Valley, the figures at which it has been selling recently being known to be 15 points below what it should be.

DOG ATE GUEST'S SUPPER.

F. H. Gerhart Loses Faith in "Vegetarian Terrier."

Frank H. Gerhart of 4900 Lindell boulevard bought a prize fox terrier at the Dog Show last week. It was a "vegetarian dog, raised on dog biscuit and wouldn't know what to do with a piece of meat," according to the seller.

Sunday Mr. Gerhart had guests for supper. Before they were called to the dining room the terrier descended upon it and devoured enough food for six persons, meat and all.

The dog's name is "J. A. P." John S. Bratton of East St. Louis entered him in the "free for all" event at the Dog Show and won first prize. Then Mr. Gerhart stepped up and bought the dog because he wanted a fine housedog.

J. A. P. was much admired by Mr. Gerhart's guests Sunday. He did many fine tricks and set them all to talking about the Dog Show. Then while they talked he slipped from the room, down the stairs and into the dining room. The servants had supper almost ready and were in the kitchen at the time.

J. P. A. knew chicken as soon as he saw it. He also knew eggs and ate one dozen devilled. He licked up a few side dishes for a relish. Then he grabbed the remnants of a chicken by the neck and trotted upstairs.

Mrs. Gerhart at the same moment started down stairs in advance of the guests. She and J. A. P. met on the stairs. Mrs. Gerhart gave a horrified cry. J. A. P. dropped the chicken and wagged his tail in glee waiting for praise for his latest acomplishment—eating a full meal.

His reward was a hasty consignment to the custody of the servants and the party waited an hour until 7:30 the cook prepared a second supper.

CARONDELET NOT AROUSED.

Improvement Association Won't Join Car Campaign.

If special counsel is retained by the Affiliated Business Men's Association to prosecute the United Railways Co. for violations of city ordinances, no part of the cost will be paid by the Eleventh Ward (Carondelet) Improvement Association. This was determined at a meeting of the association Sunday afternoon, when a request from the Affiliated Business Men's Association for a contribution to help pay an attorney and defray the expense of collecting evidence against the street car company was turned down.

President Harry J. Loud said he could not see the need of raising a fund "for some lawyer to make a living off of." Neither could he understand why it was necessary to have money to get evidence.

FINANCIAL.

Call money on the New York Stock Exchange opened Monday at 2½ per cent.

In New York Monday it was stated that London expects to get gold from New York and from South America in the near future.

The first word from foreign banking houses with reference to the new Atchison convertible bonds is that they will prove very attractive over there.

Earnings of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad for April increased $182,300. Missouri Pacific traffic continues to tax facilities.

Coincident with the recent betterments of financial, stock and bond business in this country the London daily market characterizations bear the same general import each day concerning that market. Monday London came again with "American steady, rather above parity. London market firm and higher, with consols up ⅛ of 1 per cent."

No radical changes are to be noted yet in the local money statues. Bankers generally believe that there will be a period of calm until the first part of the month. Shipments of funds to the country are not very heavy at the present time, but with a continuance of pleasant weather it is believed that considerable money will go to the Southwest. Few collateral loans are offering at the present, although the closing of several large real estate deals has necessitated the extension of several large credits.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-6 Security Building, report local money; indorsed bills receivable, 4 to 6 months, 5½ per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 5½ per cent; other names, not so well known, 6 per cent; call money on good security, 5½ per cent on first-class securities. Money market easier, although demand for money continues good.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Monday, $12,363,860; last week, $10,241,482. Balances for today, $737,...; last week, $879,374. Increase clearings, $2,122,378; decrease balances, $141,475.

WOMAN WHO SLEW MINER GOES FREE

Mrs. Maggie Mutzburg Is Exonerated by Coroner's Jury at Virden, Ill.

SHOT TO PROTECT HOME

Widow of Murdered Saloon Man Believes Fate Directed Her Act.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., May 6.—Although she is not an avowed fatalist, Mrs. Maggie Mutzberg of Virden, who shot and killed Mike Finnigan, a boarder, when he is alleged to have threatened and insulted her, believes that fate has followed her in the protection of her home. In November, 1904, her husband, Charles Mutzberg, a saloonist, was shot and instantly killed in his place of business at 1000 Mississippi avenue, St. Louis, by highwaymen.

When it was learned Monday that a Coroner's jury had exonerated her, Mrs. Mutzberg, several well-known citizens of Virden, who did not know her, took occasion to offer their congratulations following her release, when the circumstances of the tragedy were described.

Wept as She Told Story.

Mrs. Mutzberg was at her home in the west part of Virden when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter. At the first mention of the shooting, her eyes filled with tears and her voice was choked with emotion.

"It was too bad," she said, "to have to take a human life, but I felt that my home should be protected at all hazards. After the death of my husband in St. Louis in November, 1904, I decided to remove to Virden, believing that I would be better able to take care of my three children. The night I went down into the Mississippi avenue saloon and found my husband dying from nine bullet wounds inflicted by the highwaymen an impression was left on my mind which I believed only a change of environment could eradicate.

Finnegan a Former Boarder.

"It had been a hard struggle from the time I came to Virden, but I had furnished a little home and was getting along well. Several months ago I decided to keep a few boarders. Finnigan was one of these. He was a coal miner and worked at a nearby colliery.

"A week ago I decided to quit keeping boarders. I ordered Finnigan, with the others, to leave. Last Thursday evening he came to my home drunk and insisted that he would remain. Eventually he began attacking me, and when I seized a revolver struggled to get it out of my hands. One of my children started toward Finnigan, and he released his hold on my right arm. When he came towards me again I shot him through the heart."

Body in Care of Miners.

Finnigan's body is still at a Virden undertaking establishment. It is held awaiting orders from relatives who are supposed to live in New England. If nothing is heard within a few days it will be buried at Virden by the union of mine workers, to which the dead man belonged.

Mrs. Mutzberg is an intelligent woman, of refined appearance. She has the other who resides at Virden. When they lived in St. Louis Mrs. Mutzberg resided for a time at 3501 La Salle street.

BROODED OVER TRIAL.

Watchman Who Shot Waiter Kills Himself.

W. R. Haymaker, who April 5 last shot and seriously wounded William Cain at the Female Hospital, where they were both employes, killed himself in Kansas City, Sunday. Brooding over his approaching trial for the shooting of Cain, it is thought was the cause of his suicide.

The old man shot himself at the Inn March Hotel Sunday morning. A few hours before he had tried to take his life by turning on the gas. His son in St. Louis was notified of his father's death.

Haymaker, who was 65 yeas old, was at one time a well-to-do citizen of Fort Worth, Tex. He served a term as Alderman there and was proprietor of a large artesian water bathhouse there. After retiring from business in Fort Worth he lost a large part of his property and four years ago came to St. Louis. He has a son here, Robert Haymaker, of 1892 Olive street, an employe of the American Express Co.

Haymaker was a gateman at the Female Hospital. The night of the shooting Cain, who is 19 years old and a waiter at the hospital, quarreled with the old man in the dining-room over Haymaker's coming to his meals late. The quarrel was renewed in Haymayer's cabin near the gate and the younger man was shot in the head. When it was found that the wound was not fatal Haymaker was released upon $800 bail and went to Kansas City. While employed at the hospital Haymaker lived at 3420 South Jefferson avenue.

Cain is the son of Michael Cain of 641 South Tower Grove avenue. Haymaker's trial was to have been held in June.

JUNK STRIKE EMPHASIZED.

Both Sides Hold Meetings and Stand Firm.

The strike of the junk drivers was emphasized Sunday by 400 members of the Hebrew Protective Association who gathered in the Fraternal Building, Eleventh and Franklin avenue, and passed resolutions denouncing the junk merchants for refusing to take out licenses in the names of the drivers instead of their own.

Sam Prince, head of the organization, presided.

The drivers were especially bitter over the rent of 50 cents per day charged by the merchants for the use of a license, wagon and horse. They think the whole trouble would be solved if the licenses were issued in their names instead of those of the merchants, who thereby control the legalization of this business.

The junk merchants held a meeting Sunday night and formed an organization, known as the St. Louis Merchants' Association, to combat the demands of the drivers. A charter will be applied for. The meeting was held at Temple Tiphereth Israel, Ninth and Wash streets.

ROOSEVELT DEMANDS JUSTICE IN HAYWOOD TRIAL; MAY USE FORCE

In Letter to Central Federated Union President Says Attorney-General Will be Called Upon to Act In Case of Miscarriage For or Against Idaho Miners.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 6.—In a communication to the Central Federated Union, President Roosevelt declares that if the trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone results in a "miscarriage of justice," for or against the defendants, the Attorney-General of the United States will be called upon to take such action, if any, as lies within the scope of the Federal power.

The President's letter was read yesterday before the Central Federated Union, and was a formal reply to the committee which recently called at the White House and requested to know why the President had designated the accused miners as "undesirable citizens."

The letter was addressed to John Henry, chairman of the committee. An animated discussion followed the reading. Henry and William Cokeley championed the President's position, and it was finally decided that a copy of the communication should be sent to counsel for Moyer and Haywood.

President Roosevelt's letter was as follows:

"The White House, Washington, May 2.—My Dear Mr. Henry: When you, in company with Messrs. Coakley and Brown, called upon me this morning I read you the letter I had written to the Attorney-General on March 25, 1906. At your request I gladly send the following extract from that letter:

"'Our duty is (if it should ever happen that we had any power in the matter) to see that exact justice is done these men. There must be no condonation of lawlessness on our part, even if the lawlessness takes the form of an effort to avenge the wrongs committed by the lawlessness of others. The sole question as regards Haywood and Moyer must be the question whether or not they can be shown to be guilty of this particular act, and their legal rights must be as carefully safeguarded as those of any other men.

"'It is alleged that they were extradited from Colorado in a manner that amounted to a betrayal of their legal rights. I should like to have the District Attorney of Colorado and, if necessary, the District Attorney of Idaho give me such information as they can on this point. I should like to get from the District Attorney of Idaho any information that he can obtain as to whether or not there has been the slightest disposition shown by the authorities in Idaho to act toward these men in an unfair or improper manner, or to deny them their legal rights.

"'On the other hand, I should like to know whether there is any symptom of a miscarriage of justice in their favor. The intemperate violence with which the socialistic or labor papers, like that of Debs and, I am sorry to say, some labor organizations, have insisted without any knowledge of the facts upon treating these men as martyrs to the cause of labor, has unquestionably resulted in tremendous pressure being brought to bear upon the authorities of Idaho to discharge or acquit them whether guilty or innocent. So far the unions are anxious only to see that exact justice is done these men; that they are given their full legal rights and not condemned unless proved guilty of this specific act, they are entitled to the cordial co-operation of all just and fair-minded citizens. So far as by any action, or by murderous and treasonable language, such as that quoted above from Debs (and others), they tend to bring pressure to bear upon the State authorities and the courts to obstruct the courts of justice and to render it difficult to convict the men if guilty, they are equally without stint to be condemned, and anything that the Federal authorities can do in either event to further the cause of justice is to be done.

"In response to your question, it is, I trust, needless for me to say that if at any time you or anyone else can submit to me any evidence showing that there has been a miscarriage of justice for or against Messrs. Moyer or Haywood, which you believe it is in my power to remedy, I will at once bring such evidence to the attention of the Attorney-General to have him give it the fullest consideration and to take thereon such action, if any, as it may be in the power of the Federal authorities to take. Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Towne Declares President Careful to Keep Whip Hand.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 6.—Ex-Congressman Charles A. Towne of New York spent a few hours in Pittsburg Sunday, en route to the Philippines on a six-months' business trip for New York houses. He said President Roosevelt has matters all his own way regarding the next nomination and is taking all precautions to maintain the whip hand to the end.

Whom do you think the Democrats will nominate for President?"

"I expect to see Bryan nominated again."

"Do you think he can win this time?"

"There is only one man who can beat him, and that's Roosevelt."

"Do you think it will be possible for Roosevelt to prevent his nomination?"

"As matters stand now I don't think he can prevent his own nomination, and what seems more significant, he seems to be shaping matters so that no one else can prevent his nomination either."

PUT LADDER OVER FENCE.

Result Was Row Ending in Cross Warrants.

Thomas U. Williams and John A. Williams, who are not related but have adjoining homes at Oak Grove Heights, north of Wellston, had a neighborly row Sunday which resulted in each swearing out a warrant for the other's arrest.

John A. Williams put a stepladder over the dividing fence in leaning it against the wall of his home. Thomas Williams told him to get off of his property. This resulted in the quarrel, which ended when Thomas U. got a gun and drove his neighbor off his grounds.

Then Thomas U. swore out a warrant before Justice of the Peace Stobie charging his neighbor with trespass and John A. charged in his warrant disturbance of his peace. Both men are out on bail and the trial will come up Tuesday.

NEW ROAD FOR ST. LOUIS.

Electric Line Planned From Coal Fields at Ziegler.

The Carnegie Trust Co. of New York, of which former Secretary Leslie M. Shaw is now president, is said to be financing the Duquoin, Belleville & St. Louis Electric Railway, which proposes to operate between Ziegler, an Illinois mining town, owned chiefly by Joseph Leiter, and St. Louis, a distance of 100 miles.

The trust company is said in press dispatches to have taken over the $2,000,000 in bonds issued by the road, to market them and to back further operations.

In Belleville the Duquoin Rapid Transit Co., which is identified with the Duquoin and St. Louis line, has a franchise to run an electric line along Mascoutah avenue, Second street and Spring street to Main street, where it is to connect with the East St. Louis & Suburban, to run into St. Louis. This franchise will expire June 1, unless part of the road is constructed within the Belleville city limits.

A dispatch from Duquoin says the promoters of the road expect to have construction well under way July 1. William R. Hayes is president of the corporation and J. Henry Ward is general manager. Coal operators form the bulk of the stockholders.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Pain in the Side, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass. many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Weak Back, Hot Flashes, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female ailments are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

OUR DARK ROOM and other space awarded to the developing and printing from photographic films and plates is on our third floor.

The limited space which we are able to allot on our first floor to the display and sale of photographic materials gives but a faint idea of the importance of this department which, through our mail order department, receives patronage from many states.

The quality of our work and our low prices both call for your attention and patronage.
